Ship Assigned, Closing Date Moved Up for Christmas Ship Relief Drive

The "Greta Victory" a 10,000-ton Victory ship of the States Marine Lines, has been assigned by the federal government as the Northwest Christmas Ship to carry relief supplies from the Pacific Northwest to needy peoples of Western Europe, Mayor E. A. Griffith was informed last week.
Because the vessel could not be made available in Seattle until January 26, official closing date of the Oregon relief campaign has been extended to January 10, officials announced. The ship will load in Seattle January 26, and is expected to arrive in Portland for loading about February 2 or 3. Supplies will be loaded in Tacoma about January 29.
The ship will sail from Portland immediately after loading and will reach Europe with the vital supplies of food and clothing at the time of most critical need. If the Northwest's quota of 10,000 tons of food credited with saving the lives of 200,000 persons, officials estimated.
Governor John H. Hall, speaking at a recent meeting in Salem to discuss the state's Christmas Ship activities, said, "Oregon's people will do everything in their power to fill their share of the Northwest Christmas Ship."
Less than two weeks after the drive started, 20 carloads of food stuffs had already been promised by the people of Oregon. The Hillsboro Citizens' Food committee, under Coordinator George Phelps, is attempting to raise funds to buy a carload of canned meat. Over a thousand dollars has already been raised here.
McMinnville last week reached the halfway mark of its planned $5,000 fund for canned milk. Forest Grove over a week ago had reached the halfway mark in its campaign to provide 400 cases of dried prunes. Other pledges made by Oregon cities include:
Canyonville, 10 sacks of dried prunes, 40 cases food, and cash; Walla, one carload wheat; Mt. Angel, one carload wheat; truck loads canned goods; Hood River, one carload solid pack canned apples and pears; Donald, 100 sacks wheat; The Dalles, one carload wheat, flour and canned fish; Astoria, one carload canned fish; Newberg, 10,000 pounds of flour.

Health for All
Influenza
Influenza is a highly infectious disease, the germs spreading quickly from one person to another. That who there is always the danger of an epidemic when "flu" is around. A great many people still remember the severity of the disease in 1918 when it swept the country, leaving death in its wake.
Today doctors hope that wide use of a recently developed vaccine will prevent more epidemics of that magnitude. The vaccine is believed by some authorities to be effective, not, however, as a treatment after "flu" has developed, but as a preventive. The vaccine does not provide permanent immunity. It is effective, the immunity is believed to last six months to a year.
Influenza is not to be considered a minor matter. The disease comes on rather suddenly and usually starts with moderate fever, headache, general pains and marked prostration, which may be accompanied by a sore throat and an irritation of the eyes. Sometimes complicated by bronchitis, pneumonia, pleurisy or empyema.
The influenza patient should be isolated as soon as possible because of the infectious nature of the disease. Old people especially should be guarded against any contact with the disease. Children, too, are particularly susceptible to influenza.
In every case, have a doctor in attendance and follow orders to the letter. The disease should be regarded seriously. The patient must be kept in bed as long as the doctor orders. This usually means he remains in bed for some weeks after the fever has disappeared in order to prevent bringing on dangerous complications, or a relapse.
Emotional depression during convalescence is one thing to guard against. Pleasant surroundings are essential to the complete recovery of the "flu" patient. Keep the patient happy and try to prevent irritating him at all cost.
Your doctor is the best judge as to whether or not you should have the influenza vaccine because he knows the general condition of your health and your susceptibility to disease.
In the next article, preventing tuberculosis will be discussed. This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Washington County Public Health association, Zola F. Morgan, executive secretary.

A wish for a speedy recovery is extended by friends and neighbors to Bill Carter who is ill in the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland.
