

Dog Lovers Take Pets to School and Learn Tricks Themselves in Aloha

By Mrs. Genevieve Stubbs
ALOHA — Clifford Faulk has a three-acre place for his fine dogs to run about. Faulk, who is from Morristown, N. J., to date has 15 registered Irish Setters, two Afghan hounds, "Falcin" and "Zeb," and a six-month-old Great Dane, "Egad."

"Egad" was flown in from the Western Airlines about a month ago from California. The Afghan hounds are very interesting, their ancestors originally coming from Egypt, where they were used for leopard hunting. Morristown is where a great many of the "seeing-eye" dogs are raised and trained.

Other fine dogs in Aloha are the beautiful Irish setters owned by Major Weisenback. He still has the "Irish" and five pups, which are getting a thorough training. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery own one of his Irish setters.

Dick Cornell of Beaver Lumber company has "Mickie," a registered Irish Setter pup, which has already proven its hunting ability. "Frag," a registered Doberman Pinscher, is the pride of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McCallen.

A beautiful Bernese mountain dog is owned by the Koenigs. "Rick," short for "Arrowhead of Lyons Peak," from San Diego, is the name of the five-month-old red Cocker puppy owned by Mrs. Gordon Nagler.

Lee Brandt has Labrador Retrievers. His kennel, "Roderick Kennel," means Labrador speed backwards. Brandt runs an "obedience training school" for all breeds.

Dick Cornell, Major Weisenback and Ray McCallen are three of the local men who are taking their dogs to "school" and incidentally learning a few tricks themselves.
