

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Poem by Aloha Poet Published

An Aloha poet, Verne Bright, is the author of a narrative poem, "Mountain Man," which has been published by Caxton Printers Ltd., Caldwell, Ida.

The poem, published as a 190-page book, is a condensation of the story of the west.

"The pure gift of song which Verne Bright has brought to his finely wrought and finely conceived narrative poem, is, in its lyrical reaches, perhaps the best which has come from a northwest poet," the book's cover says of the work.

A graduate of Pacific university, Bright also has taken graduate work in writing from the University of Oregon. He has published more than 1200 poems.

Tillamook Fair Opens August 18

Reserve seats for the Tillamook racing program and big evening stage review are now on sale at the Commercial bank, according to W. H. Paynter, manager, formerly of Hillsboro. The coronation ceremony will be featured the first evening, August 18. Governor John Hall will be the honored guest. The first afternoon program will be August 19. Pioneer Day. Special local attractions, 4-H calf race, local saddle horse races and a full horse race program will be presented. Arrangements are being made for the Tillamook Sheriff Posse to appear on this afternoon program honoring Tillamook Pioneers and Oregon's Centennial.

The evening program for August 19 will feature the Band of Hollywood Post 105, American Legion, local attractions and specialty numbers from the Big Star Studded Stage Review.

Tillamook Day will be Friday, August 20. The special attractions for the afternoon program will be the Loggers Contest, Sheriff Posse Drill, Pig and Ford race, livestock parade and a full horse racing program. The evening show of August 20 will be a full program of the big stage review and local amateur singing and dancing.

A three-hour search by the officers Wednesday afternoon was fruitless.

A phone call to Hamby Thursday morning brought identification of the driver of the car by a resident who had seen him. After Hamby had notified the sheriff's office, Nossack and Sgt. Walter Hadfield of the state police went to the youth's home and made the arrest.

He admitted the theft, the chief deputy reported.

County Youth Arrested After Local Car Theft

A 19-year-old county youth was arrested after a local car was stolen Wednesday in Hillsboro.

The car, a 1947 Chevrolet convertible, was reportedly stolen from Hamby Motors about noon Wednesday and driven to Oregeno by the youth. After buying gas at a station there, he drove back to Hillsboro and started out on the road to North Plains, a reported Chief Sheriff's Deputy Albert Nossack. The car stolen was owned by Eugene Hamby.

Hamby, meanwhile, was driving around in the hope that he would see his car. He spotted it on the North Plains road and gave chase. Pursuit which reached 80 miles an hour at times led to North Plains and then east on the Sun-Sun highway. Hamby followed his stolen car off on a side road and then onto a logging road, where the youth stopped the car and ran into the woods. After removing the keys to the car, Hamby called state police and the sheriff's office, Nossack reported.

Parking Meter Payoff

Oregon communities will collect more than a million dollars this year by parking meters, and still a place to park an automobile is a major problem with car owners.

John W. Kelly, executive director of the state Post War Reconstruction and Development Commission, reports to Governor John Hall. Response to questionnaires sent by Kelly show that 12,765 of these "nickel separators" operating in the state, from the 90 at Hermiston to the 2,130 at Portland.

Statements received from the following cities already operating meters estimate the year's "take" should be: Portland, $300,000; Salem, $109,624; Eugene, $72,000; Medford, $54,000; Corvallis, $43,000; Pendleton, $36,636; Albany, $36,000; Astoria, $32,400; Grants Pass, $30,000; This, $26,400; Sweet Home, $26,400; Bend, $23,400; Lebanon, $16,176; Hillsboro, $14,000; Forest Grove, $10,870 and Oregon City, $5,700.

Kelly says reports indicate some cities have too many meters and others not enough to accommodate the public. Grocery chains lease or purchase ample free parking space adjoining their stores or they will find a location where that is possible. This modern method of operating with their customers is followed by most newly constructed establishments. In Salem, two large merchandising concerns who could not arrange for parking near their present locations are moving to new buildings remote from the city center and next to the capitol grounds.

State Farms In Big Way

The high cost of living went down for a long time in one bout this season but it won't cheer you much unless you are a taxpayer. State institutions with farming lands cut out the cost of food for their wards and employees more than 40 per cent during the fiscal year. Savings to the state is shown the stack. Over 400 gallons of water were necessary to extinguish the blaze completely, firemen said.

In the difference of costs at the state tuberculosis hospital where no farming is done and it costs $1.17 a day to feed a patient and only 60 cents a day to feed a growing boy at the state training school where 430 acres of state lands are farmed.

Approximately 5000 acres of state land are being farmed by state institutions this season in Oregon, but the state board of control intends to increase this acreage. Secretary of State Earl Newberry, a grove-farmer and the only farm representative the state has had on the board for almost a decade, is enthusiastic about state institution farming. "The high quality of the products and the fact that they are immediately available while fresh contributes to the health and comfort of the unfortunate wards," Newberry said.

At open market quotations the products of the state this year will total $1,500,000 but quality and immediate availability considered they were worth 25 per cent more to the institutions.

A 400-foot tunnel between the state capitol and the new state office building is to be built at a cost of approximately $50,000. Secretary of State Earl Newberry, who is custodian of the capitol and grounds, convinced other members of the board of control that it would save lives by reducing the heavy pedestrian travel between the two buildings and as a labor-saving arrangement would save pay for itself. The tunnel will be eight feet wide and seven and one-half feet high, built of concrete. Public utility lines will be run over the tunnel which will be built 30 feet under ground. Bids on construction will be called for this week.
