Deadline Due In ACA Signing

Washington county farmers are reminded by Arthur P. Ireland, chairman of the county agricultural conservation committee, that their 1949 farm plans must be signed by April 30 if they intend to participate in the 1949 Agricultural Conservation program.

This is the program in which the government loans a part of the cost of such soil conserving practices as ditching and tiling, noxious weed control, pasture seeding and construction of liquid manure tanks.

Anyone desiring further information regarding the conservation program may contact the county agent in Germany to visit their son, John. They spent Easter in Rome and reported a fine voyage across.

Words of the Wise Beware of ambition for wealth; for there is nothing so characteristic of narrowness and littleness of soul as the love of riches; and there is nothing more honorable and noble than indifference to money. (Cicero) than in your own home in a quiet little country town . . . or on a farm in a green valley at the foothills . . . or on a half acre within commuting distance of the city?

Ideal, indeed,—for a growing family and a tranquil way of life. But the sense of security can be deceiving—particularly so, when one fails to consider the inevitable "if".

—if the farmer becomes unable to harvest his crops . . .

—if the paycheck ceases due to the sudden death of the wage earner . . .

—if the mortgage unexpectedly becomes a crushing burden on the family.

These are a few of the big "ifs" that should be considered in any measure of true security. The answer, and the only answer for the average man, is the cooperative protection provided by mutual life insurance.

Wherever you live, whatever you do, adequate life insurance is the vital foundation on which to build enduring security for your family.
