Verboort Downs Forest Grove

Verboort edged Forest Grove, 2-1, in an exhibition baseball tilt at Verboort Sunday which was highlighted by three stingy pitchers who didn't seem too willing to give opposing batsmen anything to swing at.

Jansen went the limit for the Grovers, fanning nine and giving up only four hits which Verboort combined with FG errors for their two tallies. VanDomelen went six frames for Verboort, whiffing nine Grove batters. He was relieved for the final three innings by Vandehey, who set down three.

Verboort will meet Seaside at Verboort Sunday in the Tualatin Valley league opener.

Bowling Group Slates Dinner

The Hillsboro bowling association has scheduled a dinner for May 3 at Forest Hills country club to which all bowlers, their wives and guests are invited. The dinner will start at 8 p. m.

Tickets may be obtained at Rueker's bowl, from Howard Webb at Haley Canning Co., from Henry Harty at Gifford's Appliance or from Ray Dillon of Hillsboro Taxi.

Grizzlies Tip Hilhi In TYV Contest

dumped a single into left field. Nierman promptly pilfered second and scored as Hankinson rifled a line single into center.

The Spartans produced a double by Nierman in the fourth, a two-baser by Alvord and a single by Reule in the fifth but were unable to count again until their last time at bat when, with two down, Alvord lashed a double to right and scored when Wiser's throw to third to catch him stealing went over the third baseman's head.

The Grizzlies added another run off Ruecker in the fifth frame when Musselman doubled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on White's second single.

Jim Nierman was the big man with the stick for the Spartans as he pounded out a double and a single in two trips.

Extra-Base: Alvord of the Spartans connected for two doubles in four trips while Olson of the winners racked up a two-baser and a single in four times up.

The Grizzly run total was held down because of some spectacular fielding on the part of Ad Rutschman. Hilhi second baseman. Rutschman handled three putouts and four assists without miscue and was the instigator of the outstanding fielding effort of the day in the fifth inning.

With one run already in and the Grizzlies threatening to break out in a rash of counters, Rutschman went far to his right to make a leaping catch of Wiser's liner which had base hit inscribed all over it. After making the catch, he whirled and tossed to Nierman at first to double White.

In the final frame, after Olson had doubled and gone to third on an error, Rutschman charged in to field Toliver's hopper and then fired a strike to Hankinson to catch Olson coming into the plate.

Sports Splashes

the Hillsboro-Beaverton game last week. The Beavers had the sacks loaded in the last half of the seventh and Bob Zahler was at bat. The score was tied at 3-all and the Beaver strategy was for Zahler to lay down a bunt and squeeze the runner on third home. Zahler did just that and the play at home was too late to catch the runner. The run scored and the ball game was over. Now should Zahler get a hit, sacrifice or fielder's choice? If he couldn't have made first on the bunt in a normal situation, he shouldn't get a hit. If, in the scorer's judgment he could get to first safely had a play been made for him, he should get a hit.

Scorer's judgement must enter many of those decisions. Other quirks come up which can be covered by a rule. McMinnville's Chuck Olson, for instance, hit a long drive last week against Hillsboro which went for a triple. The gimmick came as the Spartans noticed that he hadn't touched second base on his sack-girdling jaunt and promptly fired the ball to that base for the putout.

Should he get a triple, since more than likely, he would have made third base just as easily if he had touched the sack? Should he get a double, since he very probably could have scampered safely back to second if he had realized that he didn't touch the base? Well, the book says he shall get a single, since first was the last base he touched before missing a sack.

While a scorer is given the right to use his judgment in many cases, he isn't allowed to in others. For instance, if a batter hits a long fly ball which the outfielder misjudges and it drops safely, the batsman must be given a hit. That holds true only, however, if the outfielder does not touch the ball. The batter must get a hit even if the scorer knows that had the outfielder just stood in his tracks, he would have accomplished the putout.

After a little scorekeeping, you decide that the biggest lack in a scorebook is a column for mental errors, to be used when players pull an unaccountable skuller which defies the rule book. Until that detail is taken care of, the scorekeeper can't have all the answers.

Date Change Due For Track Meet

Cards from Mike Metzler, Beaverton high school principal, were in the mail this week asking approval of member schools in the TVV league for a change in the date of the circuit's track meet from Saturday, April 30, to Friday, April 29. The meet will be at Beaverton.

The change has been asked because of a conflict with the northwest district music contest, in which all league schools will participate, which is scheduled for Hilhi April 30 and May 7.

Curtain Goes Up Sunday For Tualatin Loop Play

Action begins Sunday for eight Tualatin Valley baseball crews with a full slate of contests scheduled for opening day. The Hillsboro Townies will be at Gaston.

Other first round games send Seaside, a new loop member to Verboort while Forest Grove will test another new member, Sheridan, on the latter's field. Banks will fill out the afternoon with a contest at Cornelius.

The Hillsboro nine, managed on the field by Walt Turner with Joe Jarosz as business manager, had a roster of 14 men early this week from which an opening day lineup will be picked. Several spots will be left for high school players who have expressed a wish to play with the Townie five after school is over for the year.

Manager Turner is scheduled to start on the hill Sunday for the local crew. Pitchers backing him up will be Ernie Martz and Gil Howell. Martz also will be available for utility duty.

Infielders on the roster are Jack Siegrist, Wally Sigler, Jack O'Connor, Forrest Henning and George Potter.

Slated for outfield patrols are Stan Neuthing, Howard Schoen, Steve McEntee, Bill Beiker and Al McKnight.

The single catcher on the roster is Bob Halvorson.
