Selfridges Return From Southwest Tour

Mr. and Mrs. George Selfridge returned Thursday night from a six weeks' motor trip through the southwest. Reno, Nev., was their first stop, where they visited his sister, Mrs. C. H. Whalley, and then on to Death Valley. Here they visited Scotty's Castle, which is a tourists' mecca. They traveled into the famous Twenty-Mile Team borax mines on a narrow gauge railroad. Next stop was with his aunt, Mrs. O. Cartwright, at Deming, New Mexico. Then to Zion and Bryce canyons and down to Carlsbad Caverns.

The Selfridges were in Mexico for several weeks, where they tried to visit everything interesting including Parícutin volcano. This they rode to on an old jalopy with a guide and two Indian boys, over very rough roads, with the last they came through the "Trees of Mystery" in California, and the "House of Mystery" in southern Oregon.
