

CAMP ADAHI IS ALIVE ONCE AGAIN as the Camp Fire Girls are taking in their annual summer seven-day stays at the Gales creek haven. Upper left shows a group of the girls as they await the call for the afternoon swimming lesson. Things aren't all play at the camp as is shown in the shot in the upper right. Mrs. Naomi Holcombe of Hillsboro instructs the girls in the simple rudiments of first aid. She is assisted by Mrs. Helen Otto.

Both women are public health nurses from the county health office. Lower left shows the "KP" crew which consists of a group of girls who take their turn in the kitchen each day. All the girls must take their turn in the kitchen and Mrs. J. E. Becker of Reedville, who is the cook at the camp, is shown giving some moral support to the junior dishwashers. Lower right is a shot taken in the arts and crafts house where Mrs. John Huson, left and Barbara Barney, right, both of Hillsboro, are shown giving instructions on the know-how of making plaster of paris models. The inset in the middle shows a trio of archery neophytes as they sight in on the target. The Camp Fire groups are from all over the county and attend the camp in groups of 40 for seven-day stays during the two months period in the summer.—(Argus photos by Ernie Martz)
