The new Oregon 1950 license plates went on sale in Hillsboro Tuesday morning at the state office on South Tenth avenue. In accordance with the new staggered permanent registration system, the new plates also went on sale at all secretary of state offices.

The prices for the new plates are to be governed by the number on last year's license, and will range from $5.10 to $14.45. After this evening year the regular price for licenses will be $10 according to Clark Bailey, manager of the local state office.

According to Bailey, the new plate must not be attached to the automobile until December 15. The 1950 plate is the first to be issued under the new staggered permanent registration system. The plate has an aluminum background and black numerals.

Issuance of renewal plates has been in progress two weeks. They have been on sale over counters at Hillsboro, Portland, Oregon City, Eugene, Roseburg, Grants Pass and Coos Bay since Tuesday.

People are asked to bring in their registration slips with them when they go to the state offices to buy their new license, Bailey said.

The local state office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on week days, and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturdays.

Drive Slated Overseas Aid

Final arrangements are taking shape for an intensive drive in Hillsboro to collect as much clothing, shoes, and cake soap as possible during the week of November 20 to 27 for relief of the needy and homeless overseas.

St. Matthew's church will co-operate as a local collection depot, according to Rev. J. T. Costelloe, pastor.

The campaign is part of a nationwide effort, sponsored by War Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, to gather indispensable materials for ex-pellees and refugees of Europe and Asia. A recent survey shows the plight of some of these persons to be desperate.
