A Shakespeare is editor of a paper in Kalamazoo.
The return of the cattle plague is feared in England.
There are said to be 600,000,000 dogs in the United States.
Men born blind can't be carpenters, because they never saw.
The only persons who really enjoy bad health are the doctors.
It takes fifteen cents postage for a letter to Brazil from this country.
A Chicago daily paper has an enthusiastic column headed "Our Murders."
In Pittsburg a couple aged 16 and 15, have just got a divorce.
The English papers all print feeling eulogiums of Farragut.
A "gentle, sultry, soaking rain," is what they had in Indiana.
By the new charter of San Antonio, Texas, larceny is prohibited.
Love is described by Beecher as the "diameter of the Divine nature."
Nearly every city of Europe has a charitable "Home for Consumptives."
The census demonstrates a large increase in the population of Missouri.
An English savant is constantly endeavoring to prove that the earth is flat.
Four and three quarter pounds is the weight of a champion Georgia egg plant.
A man aged 85 is cutting a new set of teeth in New Orleans.
Tonawanda (Ill) has just decided to become a city by a vote of 27 to 4.
The contented man is never poor—The discontented never rich.
Two fifths of the starch made in this country it is said is manufactured in New Hampshire.
The colored men of Wilmington, N. C., are about to establish a literary association in that city.
Rosa Bonheur is engaged in painting the favorite dog of the Emperor II. of Russia.
There was a doll baby's wedding at Edgefield (Tenn), the other day. Several hundred little girls were present.
In Texas a husband offers $1,200 reward, and no questions asked, if the man who took away his wife will return her.
Artificial India rubber is made for twenty two cents a pound in Paris, and is said to be as good as the real article.
A lady who had repeatedly called her little boy to come in and say his prayers, was somewhat taken back by his asking her if God was in much of a hurry.
Another Pittsburg minister is under a cloud. He has been driving his wife out of doors and making it lively for her in various ways.
The Olympia Tribune says A. S. Hill, a Chehalis valley farmer, harvested six acres of wheat this season, and realized sixty-six bushels per acre.
An Adirondack native, at Saratoga, seeing a Broadway belle driving her phaeton, with the negro in livery behind remarked: "That negro must pay that nice looking girl a pile to drive for him."
In Austria, asbestos, boiled in wax, is used as a wick for kerosene oil lamps, and being, as its name implies, incombustible, thus prepared, it lasts for fully a year.
The Dallas paper is of opinion that salmon fed to chickens will poison the same as it does dogs. It has had several chickens sicken and die lately, and concludes that it was caused by their eating salmon.
The La Grande Democrat says trouble from bad Indians is feared by the settlers on Eagle creek. "Good Indians"—in the frontier sense never give trouble, except it be to those who bury them.
A woman in Radeberg, Saxony, in the last stages of consumption, whose husband died lately, has confessed that she poisoned him, because she knew her death was imminent, and that he would then marry a second wife who would maltreat her children.
An Irish lady at Troy, teacher in one of the public schools, tortured a class of young girls by suddenly inquiring if they could tell the name of the first woman. One of the little ones, more forward than the rest, advanced to the front of the class and replied: "Well, we don't know, ma'am, what her name was; but anyhow, she wasn't Irish!"
Kossuth Gives it Up.—Kossuth has declined to serve as a Deputy in the Hungarian Parliament. The affairs of Hungary, Austria, Italy, Rome, France, and the world in general have taken a shape which completely bewilders Kossuth. He finds that the cause of "the solidarity of the peoples" is getting on very well without him, and he retires in disgust.
A prospective father-in-law, speaking of the young man whom his daughter was to marry, said: "He is a good fellow and has but one fault; he does not know how to swear." "A fault, indeed! I think you are extremely fortunate in getting such a son-in-law," replied his friend. "Yes he doesn't know how to swear, but he swears all the same," was the reply.

U. S. Internal Revenue.

Thomas Frazer, U. S. Assessor for Oregon, furnished the Oregonian with the following correct synopsis of amendments to the revenue laws, which should be cut out by business men, and placed somewhere for handy reference:
1st. Canned and preserved fish, shell fish, meats, fruits and vegetables, are exempt from stamp duties on and after the passage of the law, (July 14th, 1870).
2d. On and after the 1st of October, 1870, the stamp tax imposed in Schedule B, on promissory notes for less sum than one hundred dollars, and on receipts for any sum of money, or for the payment of any debt, are exempt. And no stamp shall be required upon the transfer or assignment of a mortgage, where it or the instrument it secures has been once duly stamped. The stamps required on Bank checks, Drafts or Orders, Bill of exchange, Certificates of Deposits, remain as heretofore.
3d. Persons furnishing their own die or design for stamps to be used especially for his or their own proprietary articles named in Schedule C, shall be allowed the following Commissions, viz: On amounts purchased at one time of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, five per centum; and on amounts over five hundred dollars, ten per centum on the whole amount purchased. Provided, That lucifer or friction matches, cigar lights and wax tapers, may be removed from the place of manufacture for export to a foreign country without payment of tax or affixing stamps thereto, and such rules and regulations as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may prescribe.
4th. That on and after the 1st of October, 1870, the several taxes on sales imposed by the internal revenue laws now in force saving and excepting such taxes on sales as are by existing laws paid by stamps; and wholesale dealers, wholesale liquor dealers, cattle dealers, cattle brokers, apothecaries, butchers, confectioners and gas fitters, and sales of leaf tobacco, manufactured tobacco, snuff, cigars, foreign and domestic distilled spirits and wines, now imposed by existing laws approved July 20, 1868, and acts amendatory thereof, be and the same are hereby repealed.
5th. That on and after the 1st of Oct., 1870, the tax now imposed on articles in Schedule A; (carriages, watches, billiard tables, and for private use, gold and silver plate) the special tax on boats, barges, and flats; on legacies, and succession; on passports; and on gross receipts are repealed.
6th. That on and after the 1st of May, 1871, all the special taxes (licenses) except the special taxes on brewers, distillers, retailers, compounders of liquors, wholesale and retail dealers, manufacturers of tobacco, snuff, cigars, and cigars, and with the special taxes that are repealed after the first of May, 1871, is also repealed the tax on monthly sales.
7th. That section 108 (this section relates to instruments in Schedule B, that from some cause were omitted being stamped.) is amended by striking out the words "fifty dollars" in the second proviso, and inserting in lieu thereof, the following: "double the amount of tax remaining unpaid, but in no case less than five dollars;" also by striking out the words "sixty-six" in the third proviso ("shall within twelve months after the 1st of August, 1868," &c., &c.) and inserting in lieu thereof the words "seventy-two;" also by striking out the words "sixty-seven" in the last proviso ("and the record thereof shall be as valid," &c., &c.) and inserting in lieu thereof the words "seventy-two."
8th. There shall be levied and collected annually, as hereinafter provided, for the years 1870 and 1871, and no longer, a tax of two and one half per centum upon the gains, profits and income of every person residing in the United States and of every citizen in the United States residing abroad, derived from any source whatever, whether within or without the United States, except as herein after provided, and a like tax annually derived from any business, trade or profession carried on in the United States by any person residing without the United States, and not a citizen thereof, or from rents of real estates within the United States owned by any person residing without the United States, and not a citizen thereof. The other provisions from which incomes are made up a similar to the last law, also the exemptions are the same except now $2,000 is exempt instead of $1,000 as heretofore.
9th. Incomes are made up for the entire year from January 1st to December 31st, inclusive, "and shall be levied and returned to the Assistant Assessor on the first day of March, 1871 and 1872, and be due and payable on or before the 30th day of April in each year."
10th. There shall be levied and collected for and during the year 1871, a tax of 24 per centum on the amount of all interest on coupons paid on bonds or other evidences of debt issued and payable in full on or after the 1st day of any of the corporations in the United States enumerated, and on the amount of all dividends of earnings, income, or gains hereafter declared by any bank, trust company, savings institution, insurance company, railroad company, canal company, turnpike company, canal navigation company, and slackwater company, whenever and wherever the same shall be payable, and to whatsoever person the same may be due, including nonresidents, whether citizens or aliens, and on all undivided profits of any such corporations which have accrued and been earned and added to any surplus, contingent, or other fund, and every such corporation having paid the tax as aforesaid, is hereby authorized to deduct and withhold from any payment on account of interest, coupon and dividends, an amount equal to the tax of 24 per centum on the same; Provided, That the tax upon the dividends of insurance companies shall not be deemed due until such dividends are payable either in money or otherwise.

These returns must be made to the Assessor or Assistant Assessor of the district in which such person who has the care or management of any of the foregoing corporations has his office for conducting their business, on or before the tenth of the month following that in which any dividends or sums of money become due or payable as aforesaid, in such form as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may prescribe; and the penalty in default in the making of such returns is $1,000 fine and 50 per cent. added to the amount of tax found due.
11th. Sections 120, 121, 122, law of June 30th, 1864, relative to the foregoing matter, is repealed from and after August 1st, 1870. Section 123, same act, relative to disbursing officers, withholding a tax of 5 per cent. from all Government officers, Senators, Representatives, Delegates and other Government employees, is repealed, to take effect on and after August 1st, 1870.
12th. Section 15, act of July 1862, and section four of the act amendatory thereof, approved March 3d, 1865, are so amended that no ship, vessel, steamer, boat, barge, or flat, belonging to any citizen of the United States, trading from the port or point within the United States or employed in the bank, wharf, or other fisheries, shall hereafter be subject to the tonnage tax or duty provided for in said act; "And the proviso in section 103, act of June 30, 1864, requiring an annual special tax to be paid by boats, barges and flats, is hereby repealed."
13th. The tax of one twenty fourth of one per centum each month on banks and bankers, on their capital and on their deposits; the stamp tax or sales of stocks, bonds, bullion, coin, promissory notes; the tax on gas, are not repealed.
Approved July 14, 1870.

REALITY BEATING ROMANCE.

Indiana appears to be not only noted for its expedition in unyoking dissatisfied matrimonial pairs, but also in tying up the combinal knot with equal rapidity. On Wednesday last a party nuptially inclined wedded into Kokomo town, the object of the being to meet a Miss Lizzie Lanter, of whom Mr. Milton Dreyler, a veteran widower, was to be married. Having implicit confidence in his affianced, he went to the clerk and procured a license. The party waited long, but Lizzie did not put in an appearance. Dreyler was not to lose a wife in this way, he therefore proposed to a female of the party, Miss Lucinda Morrison, and was accepted. A minister was summoned, who immediately bound the twin in the happy bonds of wedlock, and the party quietly wended their way homeward. Stopping at a wayside inn for refreshment, they were astonished to find Miss Lanter awaiting their coming. The bridegroom was thunderstruck at meeting her, and for a time could not move a muscle. He finally ventured to introduce his wife to her. Lizzie took the matter coolly, talked heard and made explanations, and said, "Let us pray." The entire party knelt. Miss Lanter, with trembling voice, uttered the following prayer:
"Our Father, who art in Heaven, Thou who carest for thy children, who lovest the fatherless, the orphan, and the unprotected, have pity on me. O give me power to bear this affliction, this deep humiliation; have mercy on this new wife. While I thank Thee, O God, for my deliverance from such a sickle husband; from such a pitiable creature; I would ask Thy blessing upon my wife. Give her grace to bear the affliction of such a husband. Keep him from drink, and may he become a better man. Watch over me, our Father, and preserve me from ever again approaching so near to utter ruin. Give me strength to return to my home, and preserve my sex from such men. Hear me, and keep me in thy love. Amen."

After this prayer, Lizzie, who had appeared to be concealed signs of intense excitement, and fainted. She was watched throughout the night; was kindly cared for, but was not able, until after two days, to return to her home. Dreyler has now his fourth wife, although he is not above thirty-five years old.

THE NEW STYLE TO COME.—A reporter of a New York paper visited Wood-hull and Chaffin at their new mansion, "I see" said the charming Woodhull, "you admire my dress. Let me show you the dress I intend to wear in the streets of New York, and at my banking house on Bond street." She tripped out of the room, Tinnie, in the meantime, engaging the reporter's attention. When he turned round to see where Mrs. Woodhull was gone, there she stood before him in a tight-fitting, close-fitting, reaching to the knees and buckling over hose of light blue silk. Her dark blue blouse fell to the knee. Shirt front, collar and cravat matched well with her short hair, worn like a boy's, her blue-gray eyes, just like her sister's, and pale but perfectly healthy blonde complexion. The reporter said, after a painful pause, "Mrs. Woodhull, if you appear on the streets in that dress the police will arrest you." Her fair cheeks flushed very red. She folded her arms and drew herself erect. "No, they won't," she said. "When I am ready to make my appearance in this dress, no police will touch me."

Exciting Adventures of Pass in Boot.

A TAIL.

CHAPTER I.

The youngest of a family of seven inherited only a tom cat, who, noticing his master's sadness, spoke kindly to him, and assured him that he could provide plenty for both of them to eat, if his master would give him a dress, boots, and a sack.

CHAPTER II.

Pass was provided with what was needed, and dressed himself and went to a rabbit warren, where he arranged a trap with his sack and some cabbage leaves. He hid himself behind a tree, and in a short time secured a fine rabbit.

CHAPTER III.

Rabbits were a favorite dish with the king. Pass, therefore, presented himself before him, saying, "My master, the Marquis of Carabas, takes the liberty of presenting to your majesty this fine rabbit." The king was pleased, and sent his compliments to the "Marquis of Carabas," as Pass called his master.

CHAPTER IV.

The marquis went into battle, when Pass hid his master's clothes, and as the king's carriage came along, he called aloud for help, and his majesty ordered his servant to provide the marquis with some clothes from the royal wardrobe.

CHAPTER V.

Clothed in royal apparel, the marquis was invited to ride with the king. The route home was over an estate belonging to an ogre and enchanter. Pass hurried along in advance of the royal train; and paid his respects to the lord of the castle—the ogre.

CHAPTER VI.

Pass became friendly with the enchanter, and inquired if he really could change himself into an animal. The ogre replied by immediately changing himself into a lion, at which Pass was much frightened.

CHAPTER VII.

Pass inquired if he could change into a little animal, such as a mouse or rat, as he was afraid of the lion. The enchanter, without thinking, became a rat, and Pass devoured him at once.

CHAPTER VIII.

When the king drove past the castle, Pass begged them "to enter the castle of the Marquis of Carabas." The king accepted, and was so charmed with the good qualities and riches of the marquis, that he gave him his daughter, the princess, in marriage.

CHAPTER IX.

Pass having kept his promise, was highly honored for it, and lives the life of a gentleman of leisure, only hunting rats and mice when it pleased his fancy.

SHOCKING SLAUGHTER.—The Meta correspondent of the New York World says:

"The truth about the two great battles which the French have been beaten, is about as follows: The Second Corps under General Frossard, no longer existing, was annihilated at Saarbrücken and Forbach, and the First Corps, under McMahon, has been driven back with fearful loss from Belcheshoffen, and is seeking shelter at Severus, twenty miles in the rear of Strasburg. When I say that Frossard's corps is annihilated I do not exaggerate; it is literally used up, and is named and nothing more.
The two armies approached each other to within one hundred yards, and there, for half an hour, they stood pouring into each other the contents of their needleguns and chassapots. The French were so greatly outnumbered, and, in fact, surrounded, that the battle now became a massacre. The Twenty-third, Thirty-second, Sixty-sixth, and Seventy-seventh regiments, the Third Chasseurs-a-Pied and two regiments of dragoons were totally destroyed.

Efficient Agent.—The Portland papers mention frequent real estate sales at heavy figures, negotiated by Wm. Davidson, Esq., Real Estate Agent and Special Collector of Claims. No person has embarked in business in Portland or elsewhere in this State whose success and efficiency have been so marked as have Mr. Davidson's. His office on Front street is the head quarters of strangers in quest of Oregon real estate; and no one takes more pleasure in imparting information to the inquiring. In this latter view Mr. D. is a public benefactor.

A Christian was brought before a magistrate for an unprovoked assault on a Jew. "What had he done that you should knock him down," asked the Judge. "Done? why, isn't he one of the bloody Jews that crucified our Savior?" "But," remonstrated the magistrate, "all that happened nearly two thousand years ago." "Did it? Why I only heard of it last night," answered the over-zealous convert.

An Albany damsel asked one of her fellow boarders, a stylish dry goods clerk, at the breakfast table, "Why is your mustache like my hair?" He busily gave it up, when the answer caused him to blush still more: "Because it's all down."

"Who's that gentleman, my little man?" "That one with the spike-tailed coat?" "Yes," was the response. "How's he?" "Brevet uncle of mine." "How's that?" "Cause he is engaged to my aunt Mary."

One of a party of musical friends, referring to an exquisite composition, said: "That song always carries me away when I hear it." "Can any one sing it?" asked Jerold.
