NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A NICE LITTLE PARTY.—A party of gamblers sat down to a game of euchre on election day on the unbragous bank of the Table Mountain. The sport went on peacefully for a while, until one of the gentlemen was discovered making use of that ignorance of the game which proved so expediting to Wm. Nye and James Truthful in a famous passage of the Table Mountain. The order of a battle was decided upon for a settlement of the points at issue. Two combatants fought a duel on horseback, in which they dissected each other like zealous young surgeons, and their horses catching the chivalrous infection bit and tore each other's necks and checks into shreds. When the fight and one of the gamblers were finished, the survivor was promptly shot by a spectator, who had probably bet on a different result, and the fighting became general. The whole party were soon stretched out on the autumnal her
