The Price of Land in Oregon. Pacific of an we have never met with We find in conversing with parties and that produced a good crop with as from the Eastern States, who daily visit much certainty, or with so small amoun our office, that the present price at which of labor as in the Willamette valley. Goland is held in Oregon, is above what into the great State of New York and seethey expected to find it when they started a man work all Summer (a short one, it to this country, and some think above is true), pulling pigeon grass out of the its real value. Now, we are not sur- corn hills of a ten acre lot, with his finprised at this state of things. It is just gers, then sprinkling a spoonful or two what we were expecting; it is the legiti-mate result of the system of over rating spires of corn, to enable them to get the everything connected with Oregon, which start of the Canada thistles, and ask him has been practiced for the last few years, if he had land that would bring him 20 by parties interested in getting up a large bushels of good wheat to the sere, of emigration to this country, that they which he could cultivate 100 acres with might profit thereby, regardless of the less labor than he bestows on his ten or real interests of the country. Men in the fifteen acres of corn, whether he would Atlantic States have been led to believe take $80 per acre for such land. Go to that our best lands could be purchased the same man again in the month of Janat from $5 to $15, per acre; that plenty vary or February, at the hour of midof government land could be obtained in night, when he is out in the barayard favorable localities upon government giving his cattle a little hay to induce terms, all of which they find, when they them to stir about to prevent them from arrive here, to be untrue; and is it freezing, and ask him if he had a farm of strange that "they become disgusted," as such land as above described, in a climate some of our local papers say they have so genial and warm that his cattle would done, in some cases, "at the high price of be out feeding upon luxurious grave at our lands?" We think not. But is it true that our lands in Ore. shink $30 per acre, with good improvegon are too high? Is it not just possible nents, was too much for it. Don't you that these gentlemen, although disap- hink he would say , no? We guess be pointed in finding matters just as they would. No, gentlemen, our lands are expected to find them, are yet mistaken bot too high, and had you not been mis-when they say our lands are now held ed in this matter, but had come to Orsabove their real value? Let us look at you understanding just how land was this matter calmly a few moments, and sting here, you would probably have see if this be really true. Improved lands een well satisfied. But you were disin Linn county are now held at from $4 poointed, and that was what disgusted to $30 per acre, as per location, quality pu. It was not that you really thought, of lands, improvements, &c. Now take a won serious reflection, after fairly weighfarm which we hold for sale at $30 per | ig all the circumstances, that land in acre, containing 392 acres. This farm (regon is really held above its intrinsic would cost $11,760. 200 acres of this alue. An intelligent farmer has just farm is in cultivation, the balance, 192 eft our office, who is now raising his acres, in pasture, orchard, &c. Now let enth crop in Oregon. He says that his a man purchase this farm, put the 200 tenth crop would average over 20 bushacres in wheat, and suppose it yield, 20 els per acre, and that be bought a farm at bushels to the acre, he would have 4,000 $18 per acre and paid for it out of the bushels; then suppose he sells at 75 cts products of the said farm in two years, per bushel, he will realize $3,000 for and had a small margin left. He says his crop, and in four years he will have further that, with wheat at $1 per bushel $12,000, or $240 more than the whole he can pay for any good farm at $30 farm cost him, saying nothing about what per acre, in three years, out of the prodthe orchard, pasture, dairy, chickery, ucts of the farm. He is this year raising 300 acres of wheat, with the help of ly expenses. But add to this calcula- two boys able to do about men's work, tion another year, and say that it takes and expects to hire a few days' work in five years to pay for his farm, which is harvest-that 300 acres of wheat will be clearly a safe calculation, and is this land worth $6,000 at harvest, unless wheat too high at $30 per acre? We think materially declines. Is his land worth not. If a man can buy a good $12,000 $30 per acre? He thinks it is, and farer and make the money to pay for it in thinks he is not mistaken. But there are five years, and have the farm left, greatly plenty of good farms for sale in Oregon enhanced in value at the end of five for from ten to twenty dollars per sere; years, it seems to us he ought to be satis. some of which might suit some men as fied; and there is no vague speculation well as the higher priced land; and there in this calculation—the thing can be are still lower priced lands, upon which done. This is not an extravagant calcu. a good living could be made, with onelation, neither is this an extraordinary farm. We have several such for sale, some of the Eastern States. Governthat a man can purchase at the price demanded, and pay for them out of the proceeds of the farm, in three to five years, provided he has most of the re- stock raising, wool growing, &c., may be quired labor within himself or under his own control; and if wheat was to remain at its present price, he could hire ments, some of which are now being rethe work done-and we do not expect idly settling up, of which we may have ever to see wheat as low in Albany as it more to say hereafter .- R.
