

Doctor Livingstone.

The New York Herald has published letters from Stanley giving a history of the meeting with that very remarkable traveler, Dr. Livingstone, and letters of his containing an account of his explorations...

No Longer Their Own.

The imbecility to which Democracy was reduced was seen in the fact that while some of the leading organs of the party were most anxiously urging the party to make a straight out Democratic nomination at Baltimore...

Greeley but a short time since was proud of parading his record of opposition to the Democratic party. In drawing a comparison between himself and Grant in this particular he said that if the Democratic party were called upon to decide between him and Grant...

"General Grant has never been beaten, and never will be," wrote the "wood-chopper" of Chappaqua, before he went into the wood business for Presidential purposes. The enthusiastic old Sage stopped over a little, maybe, when he said that...

"Grant and his policy deserve the highest credit," asserted Greeley before he retired to the farm to "cut wood." Horace doesn't think so now, out loud, but the people do, and they will cancel the credit mark next November by voting Grant into the White House...

AN EDITOR IN JAIL.—The editor of the Oconto, Wis. Lumberman is under arrest for non-payment of a $300 judgment in a libel suit. The Sheriff allows him bounds of one mile from the jail, so he only goes to the jail to get his meals...

The Mobile Register, one of the leading Democratic organs of the South says: "In the light of recent events, if the Democratic party dies now the man who dissects it will look in vain for its backbone."

The Stokes' Case.

New York journals are justly incensed at the result of the Stokes' trial. The Express calls it a farce and contempt of common sense. The Post says that we are hearing, if we have not already reached, the point where taking life is not considered murder except in cases of vulgar burglars who have trespassed on the rights of property and sacrificed life to reach it...

What a galaxy of recruits is that now rallying around the Greeley banner. Here they are as enumerated by the Albany, N. Y., Evening Journal: "Andy Johnson, the political traitor; Jeff Davis, the national traitor; Admiral Semmes, pirate; General Beauregard, the inventor of the cry of 'booby and beauty'; Oakey Hall, the ring plunderer; Winans, the corruptionist; Andrews, the rioter; Cochrane, the dead beat; Wood, the gambler; Morrissey, the sporting man, et id omnia genus—all that crowd!"

Quite a number of people have gone this summer from Oregon to the Palouse country, north of the big bend of Snake river in Washington Territory, where, it is said, lies the largest body of agricultural land, now open to settlement, on this coast. A new county has been organized, embracing the valleys commonly called the Palouse country, having been cut off the eastern portion of Stephens county. The county seat, temporarily located at the forks of the Palouse river, has been christened Colfax.

Now that Dr. Howard has been released by the Spanish Government under a peremptory demand by the United States, it seems to be generally known that Howard is not an American citizen, and it was really no special business of ours what became of him. He is a Frenchman; hasn't been in the United States for thirty years.

A little while ago, "Flora Temple," then "Goldsmith Maid," was Queen of the turf. Now in steps "American Girl" and out trots the "Maid" and claims the honors. Where are all the gentlemen horses? Is woman's boasted superiority to mean to be first illustrated on the turf? Trot "Dexter" out, Mr. Bonner, and let him give these female horses the go-by.

James Lyons while playing at a game of cards at a grocery in San Francisco on the night of the 14th, became greatly exasperated by some remark made by James Meier, a bystander, and drawing a revolver shot Meier twice through the breast, inflicting a mortal wound. Lyons was immediately arrested and taken to the calaboose. In the cell he clapped his hands repeatedly on his breast moaning as if in pain. Soon after he lay down on his blanket, and to all appearances fell asleep. On going to awaken him later in the night the officer found him dead. He is supposed to have died from heart disease, aggravated by the intense excitement produced by the fatal affray.

Rev. Peter Cartwright, the famous Methodist preacher who is now nearly ninety years of age, has been adjudged incapable of attending to his own affairs, and placed under the guardianship of his son, Madison Cartwright. The old veteran seems to be failing rapidly, though he occasionally shows flashes of the old time spirit and energy.

It is remarked as a significant fact, that the religious press of the country, almost without a single exception, is against the Cincinnati nominations.

The Farmer Dodge.

Greeley is playing the "humble farmer" dodge now, intending thereby to induce the people who live in the country to support him. Such demagoguery as that won't "pan out." It stamps the quill-driver as a trickster. He a farmer! The people know his farming never extended beyond milking, and that was long, long years ago.

The Liberals and Democrats in Illinois are thoroughly disgusted with the ticket nominated by the double convention. A Springfield man writes to the Inter Ocean: "I have not found a leading man who endorses the ticket, or promises to support it. Among the prominent Liberals who openly expressed their opposition to the State ticket, are Hon. Jesse K. DuBois, O. M. Hatch, Hon. Wm. Butler, Hon. Newton Pateman, and Dr. Wm. Jayne. Many others who have taken an active part in the Liberal movement have openly renounced their adhesion to the coalition."

A Democratic correspondent of the Detroit Free Press gives the following elegant reasons why he shall not vote for Greeley:

- 1. Upon the occasion of a slight difference of opinion between my party and H. G., he said I was a damned liar.
2. He said I was a horse thief.
3. He said I was a rascal and perjured villain.
4. He said I was a slum.
5. He said I was a poisonous reptile.
6. He said I was a traitor.
7. He said my "affinities" were all bad (not female).
8. He said it would be the ruin of the country if my party ever got any power in it.

For years Horace Greeley, a disciple of Henry Clay, has preached the sterling motto of the "Mill-Boy of the Slashes"—"I had rather be right than be President." Now he lives to practice the motto, "I had rather be President than be right."

Greeleyite organs delight to dwell upon the services the old philosopher has rendered to the Republican party in times past. But, it has been forcibly queried, "what's the use of a cow that fills a bucket with milk and then kicks it over?"

An Illinois lady of Celtic descent lately blew down into the chimney of a kerosene lamp, and the lamp blew back again, and Bridget Monahan is no more.

Of the 107 Republican members of the late Illinois House of Representatives, only two are for Greeley.

The Sage has been a candidate for office nineteen times, and was only elected to fill out an unexpired Congressional term.

"Chappaquacks," is the latest and most appropriate name for the Greeleyites.

Ah Siek, of Jamestown, Cal., is dead, and Ah Gone, who hit him, is gone, ah.

"SLOGGING OFF."—In 1865 the Republican party saved itself from the fate of its predecessor by sloughing off the decrepid element, and in 1872 it will do the same. The party itself is as young as it was the day of its birth. The real leaders of the organization are in full sympathy with the men and ideas now dominant in the country. Such it will ever continue to be, if, as each generation of public men pass into the lean and slipped age, the party, Sinbad like, casts off the "Old man."

It is related as a good joke on Sumner that the day the Civil Rights bill passed, the Senate had a twenty-hour session. Mr. Sumner, who had carefully nursed his bantling to the exclusion of all others, grew wearied out toward evening, and seeing no prospect of the bill coming up, went home and to bed, in order to refresh himself for a grand and glorious effort on the following day. In the middle of the night he was aroused by a messenger with the information that it was up. Hastily jumping into his clothes, he hastened to the Senate Chamber, but arrived too late. The bill had passed with some unobjectionable amendments. He raved, stormed and moved a reconsideration, but all to no purpose.

At a recent fox hunt in Vermont the fox ate up two of the dogs and frightened the rest away.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Catacazy has published a pamphlet in justification of his course while representing the Russian Government in the United States.

The London Observer thinks the Geneva tribunal will require England to pay heavy sums to the United States for direct damages, though the total will fall several millions below the American estimate.

Brazil has refused to receive Gen. Nito as plenipotentiary from the Argentine Confederation. The Brazilian government was preparing for hostilities. The dispute with the Argentine States originated on the non-fulfillment of the treaty concerning Paraguay.

Brazil is making belligerent preparations in anticipation of a coming war with the Argentine Republic. In the fight near Holquin, West Indies, recently, the Spanish Col. Hueraeta and the Governor of Holquin were killed by the Cubans.

The difficulty between the American consul and the authorities of Santa Marie, Hayti, ended in the U. S. Government ordering Mr. Bassett, American Minister, to allow the matter to drop, owing to the incorrectness of the Consul's statement.

A dispatch from London to Aden announces the arrival of Stanley, the New York Herald's correspondent, and says he starts for London to-day in company with a son of Dr. Livingstone, bearing letters from the great explorer to the English government, as well as for the family and friends of Livingstone. Stanley says when he left the Doctor was unwell, but had determined to proceed with his explorations, and will not return until he discovers the sources of the Nile.

England was visited by very destructive storms on the 12th inst. In the middle of the southern counties and many other places, the growing crops were prostrated and destroyed. Several people were killed by lightning.

A Berlin correspondent says that General Sherman has expressed himself disgusted, not only with his reception there, but with German matters generally. At a dinner at Minister Bancroft's, at which General Von Moltke was present, the great general did scarcely more than exchange salutations. General Sherman's meeting with Prince Frederick Charles passed off in almost the same way. At Potsdam General Sherman was refused admission to the Park, because the Emperor was entertaining some Imperial guests. Subsequently, while the military review was taking place, and while the troops were being reviewed by the Emperor, General Sherman, who was invited to witness the affair and be presented to the Emperor, remembering the Potsdam incident, politely declined.

The party now moving heaven and earth to beat Grant, combines the worst elements of the south, the scum of the north, the repudiators, the disorganizers, the moral jackals, who prey on grave-yards and feed fat on slander, falsehood, and corruption. If there were any other worse elements, it would open wide its arms to receive and give them warmest welcome.—Salem Statesman.

Said Robert Toombs in his recent speech at Atlanta, "Show me a man that tried to make a party out of the negroes, and I will show you a Greeley man. Show me a Bullock man that has turned Democrat, and I will show you a Greeley man. Show me one of the Mitchell orphans, and I will show you a Greeley man. Show me a State road lessee, and I will show you a Greeley man; but show me an honest man, and I show you an anti-Greeley man!"

The Louisville Courier can't spoil a joke for friendships' sake; which is its reason for the remark that "The Cincinnati Times says Senator Schurz sees the handwriting on the wall. If it is Horace Greeley's handwriting, we don't know where he is going to find a Daniel that can read it."

EASTERN NEWS.

Twelve cases of sun-stroke occurred in New York on the 12th inst. The engineer, fireman and four laborers were killed instantly and five others wounded on the 19th by the giving way of a bridge on the railroad being built south of Greenbriar, N. Y.

Henry Wilson has gone to Long Branch on a visit to the President. The National Liberal Republican Committee met on the 11th at New York, and elected Ethen Allen as permanent Chairman and Jasper W. Johnson, of Oregon, as one of the Secretaries. A resolution was passed recommending a union of Liberal Republicans and Democrats in selecting State candidates. Schurz and Brown were present.

Andrew D. Clark was hanged for rape at Newcastle, Delaware, on the 12th inst.

Gratz Brown had an attack of cholera morbus at New York on the 12th inst. It alarmed his friends very much, but he soon got over it. A new company has been formed with a capital of $200,000 to bring Chinese labor into the Southern States.

The Macon Telegraph hopes if they ever get Livingston out of Africa, that they will put him in rags and keep him out.

A Lafayette, Ind., lady, while in Philadelphia, was attracted by a handsome necklace in a window, and determined to buy it. She stepped in and asked the price. "$16,000, ma'am," replied the salesman. Being $15,000 short of that sum, she changed her mind.

There is considerable excitement in St. Louis over the determination of Judge Cullen to bring gamblers to the auction block, and knock them down under a State law providing that gamblers shall be treated the same as vagrants.

It is alleged that Walter W. Price, of New York, has made a drunkard of his daughter Lillie, at the early age of four years.

If the Savannah News correctly represents the sentiment of the Georgia Democracy, Greeleyism is too bitter a pill to take in that region. The News predicted that if the Baltimore Convention nominated Greeley, Georgia will go for Grant by 20,000 majority, and it commends the Democrats who say they will remain away from the polls rather than stultify themselves by voting for Greeley.

General Tom Thumb, who arrived from Europe recently, is going to build a new residence for himself and wife near Fairfield, Conn.

Chief Clerk, Terry, of the Commissary Department at Fort McPherson, Kansas, while picking his teeth with a straw a few days since, penetrated his tongue with the sharp edge of the straw and bled to death.

Every Republican paper in Texas is for Grant.

The St. Louis Democrat has ascertained that an accurate census of the Liberal Republican party of Illinois shows that it is composed of Horace White of the Chicago Tribune, Jessie K. Dubois, and an undivided half of Governor John M. Palmer.

The Toledo Blade says: "Every plunderer, every treasury-robbler, every Tammany thief in New York, is howling for Greeley and reform with a vehemence that makes an honest man shiver."

A Long Branch letter says Gen. Porter will shortly make public a list of Democrats who are going to stump for Grant.

It is rumored in case of Greeley's election, Jas. B. Eades will be Secretary of the Navy.

The Chicago Tribune appeals to the temperance men to cast their ballots for Greeley, because he is in favor of prohibitory liquor laws, and to the friends of the lager beer and whisky cocktails, to vote for Greeley, because, if elected President, his views in regard to prohibitory liquor laws will not be carried into the administration of the Government. The Tribune is not at all embarrassed by the inconsistency of these positions.

The net profits of the jubilee ball are said to be $33,000.

A SLIP OF THE TONGUE.—If there is any defect more striking than any other in American character, it is bashfulness. Young America, in particular, is painfully affected by it. An incident is mentioned by a correspondent, who was desired by his aunt to go over to her neighbor Shaw's and see if he had any straw for sale for filling beds. "Mr. Shaw," said our informant, was blessed with a goodly number of Misses Shaw, and I therefore felt a little timid at encountering them. To make the matter worse, I arrived just as the family were seated at dinner. Stopping at the doorway, hat in hand, I stammered out: "Mr. Straw, can you spare me enough shaw to fill a couple of beds?" "Well," replied the old gentleman, glancing around at his large family, and enjoying my mistake, "I don't know but I can; how many will you need?" "Before I could recover, those hateful girls burst into a chorus of laughter, and I broke for home."

Out in Kansas the other day a man was arrested charged with assault and battery with intent to kill. He had shot the plaintiff through the thigh, and contended that there was no intent to kill, because, with his reputation for "deadly aim," he could have killed him if he wanted to. To test his skill he and the Justice retired to the rear of the office, where the defendant, at twenty paces, put six balls into the bottom of an oyster can in as many seconds. Upon returning to the court the defendant was discharged on the ground that such an excellent "shot" could not possibly have any intent to kill.

The following is from the New York Herald's report of a recent skirmish in the Senate: "Thurman quizzingly asked if the Indiana Senator could name a time when the Democracy would govern. Morton's retort was greeted with great laughter, in which Thurman joined. He said, all things were possible in the providence of God. Great plagues had come; Chicago was burned; famine desolated Persia, and the Democracy might win. The Democracy was a kangaroo party; its strength was all in its lower limbs."

The fashionable shoe for summer promenaders is made of French kid, and cut about three-quarters high, fastened with buttons, with toes almost square, and heels about an inch high.
