Checked His Young Bride!

The St. Louis Democrat is authority for this little story.

"Ed." is a brakeman employed on the Chicago, Alton and St. Louis Railroad. He was married only a few weeks ago. His wife has been wearing a piece of red flannel round her neck for the last ten days and complaining of a wry neck. This is how it came to pass:

"Ed." had just been doing extra duty, taking a sick friend's train in addition to his own, and so had not been in bed for forty-eight hours. As a matter of course, he was nearly worn out, and as soon as his supper had been eaten, he went to bed, to sleep, perhaps to dream. He was soon locked in the arms of Morpheus, and Mary, and dreaming. Again his foot was on his native platform, and he heard the warning toot of the whistle for brakes; The shadowy train bore him swiftly on; the telegraph posts flitted past quicker and quicker; the whole country fled by like a panorama mounted on sheet-lightning rollers. In his dream he heard far off another toot, and swinging out by the railings he saw another train coming at lightning speed around the curve. Both trains were crowded with passengers; in another moment they would rush together and from the piles of ruin a cry of agony would shiver to the tingling stars from the lips of the maimed and dying. The engineer had seen their danger, for at that moment, in his dream, he heard the whistle calling for brakes sound loud and so earthly. With the strength of desperation he gripped the brake and turned it down. There was a yell of pain, and "Ed." woke to find himself sitting up in bed and holding his wife by the ears, having almost twisted off her head.

"That's how 'Ed.'s wife came to wear a piece of red flannel round her throat and complain of a wry neck."

ROUGH ON 'EM.—Old Jones had been playing a sharp game on the mosquitos. You see, he had a mosquito net on his bed, but the persevering insects used to get inside in the daytime, and when old Jones sought his couch to court the drowsy god, they used to make sweet music for him, and let his blood out, and old Jones, you understand, couldn't stand it at all. But he is square on the mosquitos now, Jones is. You see, he goes to bed and leaves the net about half open, and then the mosquitos, thinking they have got a soft thing, swarm in and begin to buza. When he thinks they are all inside, old Jones quietly slips out and closes up the net tight, and there he has them. And then he makes up a vice bed on the floor, and lays there and kicks up his old heels, and laughs at those poor, swindled mosquitos, and those mosquitos tear around in that net, and break their necks against the bars trying to get out, and they hold indignation meetings, and protest, and all that. Why, the mosquitos in that room look like living skeletons, and still old Jones is heartless enough to keep right on fooling these poor insects, and laughing at them.

"THE SMITHS."—John Smith—plain John Smith—is not very high sounding; it does not suggest aristocracy; it is not the name of any hero in the away novels; and yet it is good, strong and honest. Transferred to other languages it seems to climb the ladder of respectability. Thus in Latin it is Johannes Smithus; the Italian smooths it off into Giovanni Smith; the Spaniards render it Juan Smithus; the Dutch adopt it as Hans Schmidt; the French flatten it out into Jean Smeat, and the Russian sneezes and barks Jonoff Smitowski. When John Smith gets into the tea trade in Canton he becomes Jovan Shimmit; if he clambers about Mount Hecla, the Icelanders say he is Jahu Smithos; if he trades among the Tuscaroras he becomes Ton Qua Smitin; in Poland he is known as Ivan Schmittiweskie; should he wander among the Welsh mountains they talk of Jhon Schmidt; when he goes to Mexico he is booked as Sontil F'Smitti; if of classic turn he lingers among Greek ruins, he turns to Ion Smitkou; and in Turkey he is utterly disguised as Yoe Seef.

A San Francisco paper is put out of benevolence by a little fun at his expense, and says: "We regard the atrocious correspondent as an infernal fiend, a false-tongued midnight monster, a red-handed assassin, a thief, a schoolmarm, a fraud, a ghost, and an unpleasant person! We esteem him a pea-green demon of the steaming pit, with a cotton-wood tail, eyes in his sides, and a cork neck, studded with hot door-knobs! If there is anything worse than this, we think him that."

New York city pays a million of dollars a year for gas. Ought to be enlightened.

SEWING MACHINES. A BIG VICTORY! FOR THE New Wilson Underfeed Sewing Machine!

IT WILL DELIGHT THE MANY friends of the NEW Wilson Improved Sewing Machine.

To know that in the stubborn contest for superiority in samples of work, at the great Northern Ohio Fair, their favorite has carried off the two great premiums—the Medal for best six specimens machine work, and the Diploma for best embroidery. As the great competition was in these two classes, it will be seen that the Wilson's victory is complete. We knew this would be so; it could not be otherwise. There is no talking down the fact that the New Wilson is the best Family Sewing Machine now manufactured—capable of doing the best work on any kind of goods, under all circumstances.

This award of the highest premium should and will silence the talk of that large class of sewing machine men who have made this machine the object of their special enmity, simply because it is a moderate priced machine and undersells their expensive ones.

Go and see the Premium New Wilson Sewing Machine, the best in the world, now on exhibition at Snow & Ross Art Gallery, 73 First Street, Portland, Oregon, and remember you can buy this premium machine for $36.
