SEWING MACHINES.

A BIG VICTORY!

FOR THE

New Wilson

Underfeed Sewing Machine!

IT WILL DELIGHT THE MANY Friends of the

NEW

Wilson Improved Sewing Machine.

To know that in the stubborn contest for superiority in samples of work, at the great Northern Ohio Fair, their favorite has carried off the two great premiums—the Medal for best six-stitch sewing machine work, and the Diploma for best embroidery. As the great competition was in these two classes, it will be seen that the Wilson's victory is complete. We know this would be so; it could not be otherwise. There is no talking down the fact that the New Wilson is the best Family Sewing Machine now manufactured—capable of doing the best work on any kind of goods, under all circumstances.

This award of the highest premium should and will silence the talk of that large class of sewing machine men who have made this machine the object of their special enmity, simply because it is a moderate priced machine and undercuts their expensive ones.

Go and see the Premium New Wilson Sewing Machine, the best in the world, now on exhibition at Snow & Rose's Art Gallery, 73 First street, Portland, Oregon, and remember you can buy this premium machine for $50.

REPORTS.

A reporter, in depicting a wreck at sea, says that "no less than thirteen unfortunates bit the dust."

An editor in the upper part of this State, says: "We expend $500,000-000 yearly for drink." And his paper has a circulation of only seven hundred copies, too. We don't see the use of exaggerating that way, even if he is an editor.

Oshkosh, Wis., has an an Enoch Arden, who instead of going away quietly like his great original, lingers about the premises, and declares his intention to make it "hot for 'em."

A Washington lady, unable to procure a hearse in the city for the burial of her child, which had died of small-pox, bought one for the occasion, paying $240 therefor.

A beggar posted himself at the door of the Chancery Court, and kept saying, "A penny, please, sir! Only one penny, sir, before you go in!" "And why, my man?" inquired an old gentleman. "Because, sir, the chances are you will not have one when you come out!"

A new dish is grape leaves fried in an egg batter. It is called a French dish, and is imported from Lake Mahopac. We can't think of anything that would be more delicious than fried grape leaves, unless it is a circus poster on toast.

Says Josh Billings of November: "The butterfly has hung up his fiddle. The bug and the cricket are still; No more can be heard in the marshes. The mosquito filing his bill."

A Redding gentleman who came to Danbury this morning to make a few inquiries in relation to the coming agricultural exhibition, stepped on a piece of watermelon in front of the post office, and sat down on the pavement so violently as to turn his pockets inside out. "Pickled Jehosaphat," said he, more in sorrow than in anger, as he struck out for the depot.—Danbury News.

An exchange says: "It is said that the Andes are gradually sinking." When the Andes are entirely flattened out it will be necessary to revise and reprint the "The Isles of the Amazons," in which "the great Andes" rhyme to "peaceful seas" so often and Joaquin will probably be dead by that time.

A man at Cleveland, Ohio, fell asleep in a church, a Sunday two ago, and awoke just as the minister began to read in a loud voice the lesson of Scripture which begins, "Surely there is a vein for the silver, and a place of gold where they find it." Jumping to his feet in the greatest excitement, the merchant stretched his hand and shook his book to the astonished minister, exclaiming, "I'll take 500 shares!"

The vexed question of the proper mode of baptism was disposed of by "Uncle Cesar," a colored preacher out West: "I hear great fuss 'bout dese words, in and into, and folks wants us to believe dey means under; and dat when de Scriptur' speaks of an individual going down into de water, de Bible mean to say dat he went under de water. S'pose some day I go over to see brudder Solomon and he werry politely say, 'Uncle Cesar, come into de house,' does anybody s'pose dat dis heah nigger would crawl under de house?"

The Detroit Free Press says: Just as a passenger train going west on the Detroit and Milwaukee road yesterday was clear of the city, and running at the rate of ten or twelve miles an hour, an old man named Dixon, living in Ionia county, suddenly leaped from his seat, rushed to the platform and bounded off, turning about forty somersaults before he brought up against the fence. In a short time he appeared at the depot, looked all around and then exclaimed: "What an old fool: I thought I had left my umbrella here and jumped off the cars to get it, and now, hang me, if I don't remember chucking it under the seat."

A revival preacher lately worked hard at Ironton, Ohio, to get up an interest, preaching day and night, but unsuccessfully. The last night the house was crowded, and the preacher outdid himself, but not a soul rose for prayers, and he sat down completely discouraged. Before the benediction was pronounced, however, a long-faced man got up, and said that the Elder had been working hard and labored faithfully with them, and as a token of their appreciation he moved the congregation give him three cheers. It was done with a heartiness which made the pews tremble.

A little boy, attending the Episcopal church for the first time, innocently whispered to his mother, as the pastor appeared in his white robe: "Does he put that on to look like the Holy Ghost?"
