THE BEARD HEALTHY.—There are more inducements for wearing the beard than the mere improvement of a man's personal appearance, and the cultivation of an aid to everyday di-plomacy of life. The hair of the mouscalitivation of an aid to everyday diplomacy of life. The hair of the moustache does not only absorb the molsture and miasma of the fogs, but it strains the air from dust, and the scot of our great smoky cities. It acts also, in the most scientific manner, by take ing the heat from the warm breath as it leaves the chest, and supplying it to the cool air taken in. It is not only a respirator, but with a beard entire we are supplied with a comforter as well, and those are never left at home, like the umbrella, and all such appliances, when they are wanted. Moffatt and Livingstone, the explorers, and many other travelers, say that at night no wrapper can equal the beard. A remarkable fact is, too, that the beard like the hair of the head, protects against the heat of the sun, as the thatch does file ice-house, but, more than this, it becomes moist with perspiration, and then, by evaporation, cools the skin. A man who accepts this protection of nature may face the rudest storms and the hardest winter. He may go from the hottest room into the coolest air without dread, and we verily believe he might sleep in a morass with impunity; at least his chance of escaping the terrible fever would be better than his beardless companions. companions.

A FATHER'S ADVICE TO A BRIDE.— Said a young husband whose business speculations were unsuccessful, "My wife's silver tea-set, the bridal gift of a rich uncle, doomed me to financial ruin. It involved a hundred unexpected expenses, which, in trying to meet, have made me the bankrupt that I am." His experience is the experience of many others, who, less wise, do not know what is the goblin of the house, working its destruction. know what is the gobiln of the house, working its destruction. A sagacious father of great wealth exceedingly mortified his daughter by ordering it to be printed on her wedding cards, "No presents except those adapted to an income of $1,000." Said he, "You must not expect to begin life in the style I am able, by many years of labor, to indulge; and I know of nothing which will temot you to try it. ing which will tempt you to try it more than the well-intentioned but pernicious gifts of rich friends." Such advice to a daughter was timely. If other parents would follow the same plan, many young men would be spar-ed years of incessant toil and anxiety; they would not find themselves on the downward road, because their wives had worn all of their salary, or expended it on the appointments of the house. The fate of the poor man who found a lincipin, and felt himself obligto make a carriage to fit it, is the fate of the husband who finds his bride in possession of gold and silver valuables, and no large income to support the owner's gold and silver style.
