PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

From Salt Lake, August 22d, comes the following: Judge Emerson sustained defendant's demurrer in the case of "Ann Eliza Young" vs. Brigham Young for divorce. The decision is against the jurisdiction of the District Court. The Judge held that the Probate, not the District Court, had jurisdiction in divorce cases. This is in direct opposition to the opinion of Judges McKean and Hawley, virtually of the Supreme Court of the Territory. The case again comes up before Judge McKean in October in the District Court. Rev. C. C. Stratton, Methodist Minister, has offered to vindicate himself in a long card in a newspaper from the charge of influencing Ann Eliza Young to enter a divorce suit and join the Methodist Church. He makes grave charges against her lawyers and asserts that they attempted to fleece their client. He admits acting as confidential adviser but vindicates himself from the old charges of scandal in the ministry in Oregon. He gives the history of his connection with the effort to compromise, which was somewhat important, but as he holds, not controlling. He defies the world to prove that his ministerial character was impaired. He is not ashamed of his crime and will not be badgered out of a correct nor into a false position. It is understood that the legal advisers of Mrs. Young will give their statement to-morrow. Great interest is displayed by the community. The discussion promises to be warm.

Judge Tillford and Smith, counsel for Mrs. Ann Eliza Young, in the divorce case, have published a long and pungent card in reply to Rev. C. C. Stratton, charging him with interfering in the case and attempting a compromise with Brigham without their knowledge, and intimating that he received pay therefor. He is charged with lying in asserting that they had defamed her character. The card is spicy and strong, and closes by stating that Mrs. Young's case is not lost. They believe that she will ultimately triumph. They will appeal to the Territorial Supreme Court, and will not trust longer to Mr. Stratton. The case is to be pushed ahead. It causes a good deal of talk.

John Bingham, Minister to Japan, was in Salt Lake on the 23d.

Two San Francisco young bloods fought a duel with pistols, at Lone Mountain, on the 22d, about a woman of ill-repute. Their names were not given.

On the afternoon of the 24th, Sunday, Buislay made a balloon ascension from Woodward's, San Francisco. A strong west wind carried him rapidly over the Potrero and when a considerable distance outside Long Bridge the balloon rapidly descended, and when about 20 feet from the water Buislay jumped out and was soon rescued. The balloon was also fished out. Hundreds of people hastened to the city front supposing the aeronaut would certainly be drowned.

Grasshoppers have made their reappearance in Prickly Pear valley, Montana, and farmers are alarmed lest they take the balance of the grain left by the first lot.

Gen. Rosser, charged with the railroad survey of the Stanley Yellowstone expedition, has submitted to the authorities of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company in New York his official report of results accomplished by the expedition. He finds a new and final route across western Dakota, from Missouri to the Yellowstone river, entirely practicable and satisfactory, it being superior to those of former days. The distance is 205 miles, 21 miles shorter than the survey of 1871. The expedition is now prosecuting the survey westward, up the left bank of the Yellowstone to Pompey's Pillar, where it will join the survey made last year from the West, and complete a surveyed line across the continent.

The Oregonian has this: Mr. N. W. Smith, who owns a farm several miles southwest of the city, cut the present season a small patch of oats of the "Enterprise" species. The oats attained an unusual height, and were very prolific as to yield. Subsequently Mr. Smith has had the oats threshed. On an average the entire yield will weigh forty-seven pounds clear of the sack, which may be regarded as rather extraordinary. Usually oats will range from forty to forty-three pounds to the bushel.

Boise City is $1,200 in debt to teachers and old debts on the school house. No school will be had until these are paid, it is conjectured.

Rev. C. C. Stratton has replied to the card of Tillford & Smith, Mrs. Young's counsel in the divorce case. He reiterates his former statement that he has had nothing to do with advising Mrs. Young to compromise. He accuses counsel of defaming their client and himself. He quotes General Maxwell, who has also a card somewhat bearing his statement out. The balance of the statement is a general denial. He says that he is opposed to race-ality in general, and hopes the law will take its course. Finally, he will have his say. The suit will go on, it is said, before Judge McKean, although Mrs. Young is again reported to be attempting to settle.
