A FINE WAREHOUSE.—Messrs. A. B. Morris, Allen and John Parker, of this city, propose erecting, the coming season, on the land owned by Mr. Morris, on the bank of the river, just east of the Farmer's Warehouse, a magnificent building for the storing of grain. The building will be laid upon a foundation of stone, and will be ninety by sixty-six feet, and about forty feet in height. It will have, also, a shed ninety feet in length and sixteen in width, on one side, and an awning on the south side six feet in width. It will have four bins 25x25 feet, and eight bins 20x25 feet. Two large hoppers will be placed in the center of the building, so that two teams can be unloading at one and the same time, while two cleaners will be running constantly, perfectly cleaning the grain for shipping. The machinery will be of the best and most improved character, and will be propelled by water from the Santiam Canal. The warehouse will have the Willamette river running past its north front, and the O. & C. Railway on the south, and can take advantage of either to ship its grain. It is calculated to hold upwards of one hundred and fifty thousand bushels of grain, and will cost from $12,000 to $15,000. The machinery will be so arranged that, if necessary to clean the grain thoroughly it must be run through the fans twice, or even oftener, the grain can be drawn from the bins to the fans, and back again when cleaned, thus doing the business expeditiously and rapidly, and at a great saving of man-power. Mr. A. F. Cherry, proprietor of the Albany Foundry, has the credit of drawing the plans for the building.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. Joseph Emery, of Corvallis, will preach in the Congregationalist Church to-morrow, Sunday, at 11 o'clock A. M. A general invitation is extended.

Service at the M. E. Church as usual to-morrow. Subject of the evening discourse: The conscious existence of all who have departed this life—the righteous are enjoying the bliss of heaven, the wicked are banished from the presence of God into a place of punishment. Proofs strictly scriptural. All are cordially invited to be present.

PHONOGRAPHY.—Prof. A. B. McCaw is succeeding finely with his Phonographic Academy. He has quite a large number of pupils, and will have more. It is a business that, if thoroughly understood, pays the very best of salaries—a good shorthand reporter always being in demand at high rates. Our young men could not do better than to attend the Academy.

NO RELATION.—Baker, the young man captured at Corvallis on Monday, a States Prison convict, from Nevada, is no relation to the lawyer of that name of this city.

PARAGRAMLETS.

Gus. Wheeler, of Salem, crossed our threshold on Monday.

The woolen mill enterprise is having good success.

Rebekah meeting this evening at 7 1/2 o'clock.

Quite a number of the children in this city are enjoying the mumps.

J. J. Whitney has been elected City Attorney by the City Council.

Judge Denny, of Portland, was in the city last week.

Philip Low was adjudged insane and taken to the Asylum by Sheriff Parker on Thursday.

Democratic primaries on the 28th.

The Old Fellows are talking of erecting a hall during the coming Summer.

The Harrisburg Grange has eighty members, and applications still come pouring in.

The Brownsville woolen mill continues to turn out quantities of excellent goods.

The Brownsville school has an average attendance of sixty-eight.

Mr. Gilbert is principal of the school—an excellent teacher.

The Brownsville Grange numbers sixty odd members.

The attention of those whose business it is to attend to the matter is called to the crossings of the Canal on Third and Fourth street. They are badly in need of attention.

The Albany & Santiam Canal Company are now ready to furnish water to those needing it.

W. H. Mendenhall is now lying dangerously ill, with hemorrhage of the lungs, at the residence of C. C. Godly.

Dr. Golden has gone to Illinois from California—expects to return to this city in May.

There remains in store at Harrisburg, some 60,000 bushels of wheat, unsold to shippers, although it has been purchased from the farmers.

Mr. Foster thinks of tearing down the frame building between Carother's drug store and Fox's store, on First street, and erecting a brick, the coming season. It would add materially to the looks of the block.

Ben. Kohn departed on Monday for a visit to Bavaria, Germany. He proposes to induce as many as he can to return with him to Oregon.

Messrs. Marshall and Goodchild, the first of Junction and the latter of Eugene, passed several days in our city during the week, looking at the advantages offered for the erection of a sock factory.

The brick store on the corner of Washington and First streets has received a new floor, preparatory to being occupied by a Portland merchant, Mr. Bloom.

Mr. Arnold reports, so far, 86 children between the ages of four and twenty years, who have attended no school during the year; 26 who have attended College; 126 that attend the District school.

Elder Stephenson delivers his last lecture on the course, at the Court House to-morrow evening, commencing at 7 o'clock. Subject—The Coming Conflict among the Nations.

C. P. Burkhardt was thrown forward on to the horn of his saddle, a few days since, hurting him so severely as to confine him to his room for some days. He is about again, however.

See advertisement of Samuel E. Young, successor to Blain, Young & Co., elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Young is determined by close attention to business, liberality and the low figure at which he will sell goods, to deserve the continuance of the popularity enjoyed by the firm of which he was a leading member.

BORN.—To the wife of Jo. Elkins, of Lebanon, a boy—10 lbs.

To the wife of Johnny Atkinson, of Portland, a daughter. Another printer to luck.

To the wife of Jos. Webber, on the 6th, a boy—10 pounds.

VIVIAN—Gave one of his elegant entertainments at Pacific Opera House on Monday evening. A good house greeted him.

MASONIC.—Corinthian Lodge No. 17, A. F. & A. M., of this city, having grown too large for one Lodge, a division is called for, and an application presented to the Grand Master for the institution of a new Lodge, to be called St. John Lodge. Geo. Humphrey is recommended as Master, and J. W. Bakwin and J. R. Herren as Senior and Junior Wardens.
