The yield of grain in Linn county the coming harvest at present bids fair to equal if not exceed anything yet exhibited in the famed Willamette Valley. In a little trip of fifteen miles out in the county on Wednesday, with grain to be seen growing in every direction, we did not see a single field where the growth was not dense and thrifty-looking—no thin patches anywhere. As there is a much larger area seeded to grain this season, the yield, with no unfavorable weather, will be simply enormous.
