Home News.

Mist fell on Thursday.

Camp meets this evening.

Apples are coming in by the wagon loads.

The little son of W. W. Parrish has been quite ill during the week.

Mart. Brown and wife returned from Yaquina Tuesday.

Pat. Farrell, of Lebanon, was in the city on Wednesday.

Hardly a day passes but persons are inquiring for harvest help.

Girls to do cooking during harvest get from $1 to $1.50 per day.

Thursday was a cold, chilly, cloudy, disagreeable day indeed.

The Oregon Legislature convenes next month.

Layton Blain and wife started for Fish Lake on Wednesday.

N. Baum went to 'Frisco on the last ocean steamer.

Butter is worth 25c; eggs, 20c per dozen.

A. F. Cherry made the castings for the new cistern tops. Good job.

Large bands of the palex genus now cause many fearful oburgations in the various parts of the county.

The cisterns will be topped out and the iron flanges placed in position to-day or to-morrow.

Show may be easily purchased, but happiness is a home-made article.

The colored posters for the Linn County Fair have been received. They are gay and festive.

A large party are talking of starting for Pass Creek, in a few days, and enjoy life in the mountains.

Aaron Backus was out on the street yesterday, looking a little pale after the stabbing.

Dave Froman and wife and W. W. Parrish and family start for the Upper Soda to-day.

Our physicians are kept pretty busy, attending to the accidents and "incidents" hereabouts.

We hear of one piece of wheat just South of the city that harvested fifty bushels to the acre.

The race-track at the Fair grounds now presents a lively appearance for a few hours each morning.

A. N. Arnold will soon be putting on style with his new express wagon—and well he may, for its a beauty.

The machinery for cleaning wheat at Morris & Parker's warehouse was tested on Wednesday, and worked to a charm.

Fred. Hill, County Clerk, has been absent from his office during the major portion of the week, because—well, he wants to stay at home. It's a boy—mother and child doing well.

Capt. Jase Wheeler has been busily employed for several days strengthening the weak places in the banks of the Santiam Canal. The necessary dirt and gravel were transported by his canal boat, "Red Jacket."

Home News.

A young man of this city who is barefooted on top of the head, says it is from chewing gum! We gum it up.

Some of the Indians who have been lazily lolling around in the sun for weeks past, are now being utilized in the harvest fields.

Dr. Gray and John Millard returned from the Bay late last night. We are indebted to them for a mess of sea crab.

As high as thirty-three wagon loads of wheat have been unloaded in one day at the Albany Farmers' Warehouse, the present week—over 1,700 bushels.

Mr. Hugh Small, Esq., traveling correspondent of the Oregonian, was in sight on Wednesday. High is one of the boys from the old dart.

The breaking down of our press Wednesday has crowded us somewhat to make the raffle on time, and shortened our time for hunting up locals.

When a painter charges up thirty-two pounds of putty in glazing four windows, twelve lights, it leads to the suspicion that he's pntt(y)ing up too much.

Jim Harris has a new horse—bay—that gets away with a stinky in good style now. With proper training he may come in with the fast ones.

Mr. C. D. Burkhart has been suffering from a bad cough, spitting blood, etc., for several days past. His friends are somewhat alarmed about him.

Beach & Monteith will construct a ditch, probably tapping the California branch of the Canal, to convey water to their mills at the foot of Ferry street.

The balance of the premium list for Linn County Fair will appear in our next issue. We expected to have it all ready for to-day's paper, but failed in our expectations.

Mr. O. Rubarts took the cars for Portland on Thursday morning. He will take passage on the next ocean steamer for San Francisco, and from thence overland to Washington City. He goes on business connected with a certain patent right in which he is interested. May success attend him.

Last Saturday the fine farm residence of J. W. Shattuck, something over a mile north of this city, in Benton county, was destroyed by fire. The family was absent at the time. A small portion of the furniture, we are informed, was saved. The residence was one of the best in the valley, and was erected by Judge Thornton some years ago, at a cost of over $3,000.

COLLEGIATE.—Albany Collegiate

Institute opens on Monday, August 31st, 1874, for the reception of pupils. The course of study embraces the following departments: Classical, Scientific, Commercial, Music and Art. Under the guidance of President Warren, the Institute has attained a high reputation for thoroughness and completeness, which will be fully sustained so long as President Warren remains at its head.

JUST RECEIVED.—P. O. Harper

& Co. have just received a new supply of fancy goods and notions, groceries, crockery, etc., which they offer at bedrock prices. Drop in as you pass, and examine goods.
