Home News.

FRUIT TREES.—Call at A. Carothers & Co.'s when you wish to order fruit trees—they are agents for the Walling nursery, and can furnish you anything you desire in the shape of fruit trees. They can also furnish you with locust and other ornamental trees and shrubbery. Order early.

JUST RECEIVED.—P. C. Harper & Co. have just received a new supply of fancy goods and notions, groceries, crockery, etc., which they offer at bedrock prices. Drop in as you pass, and examine goods.

A new enterprise has been started over on Long Tom, which is nothing more nor less than an elk-hide harness shop. The main feature in this kind of harness is that it will fit the smallest jackass rabbit, or the largest elephant, equally well, according to whether the atmosphere happens to be dry or moist. Success to the enterprise, any way.

Capt. Wheeler has commenced operations with his canal boat, Red Jacket, hauling 300 bushels of wheat at one load, with one horse, with less than two feet of water in the Canal. When the depth of water is increased to three feet, as we are told it soon will be, he can carry a much larger load.

Quite a number who saw the corpse found on the bank of the river Sunday, were confident it was the body of Sam Price, of Independence; others were equally as confident it was a Mr. Lemon, a book agent, who left this city for Harrisburg two or three weeks ago.

To-morrow Prof. Tapp will have an especially ugly customer in the shape of a wild, unruly horse, to put through a philosophical course. Those who have not attended the school, should not fail to be there to-morrow. All can learn something that will prove of great value to them in the handling of horses.

The Farmers' Union Warehouse at Shedd, A. Wheeler & Co., managers, has been placed in perfect repair, and, with additional room in process of construction, offers superior advantages to farmers for the storage of grain. See card in this number.

Mr. L. C. Burkhart, agent of the Grangers of this county, will have a large amount of wheat for sale, probably 500,000 bushels, stored at different points in the county, for which he now awaits bids. From the expressions let fall by farmers we are inclined to think that very little wheat, if any, can be purchased for less than 80c, while the great bulk will be retained until $1 per bushel is obtained. Our farmers are in a position to hold over, and will probably do it rather than take less than the price demanded.

N. BAUM
Wants 200,000 lbs.
of good WOOL, and will pay the highest market price for it. Pays 16½c for eggs, 15 to 20c for butter, $1 87½ for lard in 10lb. cans, and for all other produce the highest market price. He has the largest stock of goods, and sells them cheaper than any house in the city. Call and see for yourself. In 'Headle's brick building, First street.

Clouds threatening.

Butter 25c; eggs 20c.

Have you seen Arnold's gay outfit.

Dr. Haskell's entertainment Monday night was very pleasing.

Weather cloudy and threatening rain for some days.

Quite a number of new-comers in the city, looking for homes.

Mr. Brainer, of Brownsville, was in the city on Wednesday.

Jas. Cowan, of Lebanon, was in the city on Wednesday.

As high as 60c per bushel has been offered for wheat. Oh.

Hams 14 @ 15c; sides 11 @ 12c; shoulders 8c.

Mumps still raging with unabated swellingosity.

Sam Knox's youngest child was buried on Monday.

Fred Grat had made eight coffins up to Wednesday—all ordered.

Mrs. Baber is still very ill, with little or no improvement since our last report.

Clement's wife presented him with a little girl, no longer ago than Saturday. Bully for Clem.

Jackson county boasts of a lad only 15 years of age, who measures 6 feet and 2 inches. Velly good.

Grouse and pheasants are fat as butter, and anxious to grace the table.

Plummer, the elocutionist, is keeping books for a logging firm or mill company, over on the Sound.

Mr. C. D. Burkhart has been confined to his house for some days with a severe attack of bronchitis.

Mrs. P. C. Harper has gone to Salem where she will remain for a week or two.

Dr. Hill and daughter, Mrs. Addie Mansfield, returned from the Bay on Tuesday.

We learn that Father Shepherd, of Keosauqua, Iowa, intends spending the coming Winter in Oregon.

We publish the list of premiums to be awarded at the Linn County Fair, entire in this issue.

Fires in the mountains beyond Brownsville, but beyond destroying vast quantities of fine timber, no damage reported.

A huge sea lion was killed at the Bay a few days ago. Pleasure seekers there were having a splendid time.

Watermelons are to be had in market—red cored fellows, you know—and we have agreed to pull out as long as they last.

The immense number of wagons loaded with wheat constantly pouring into the city, keep clouds of dust constantly flying.

Miss Lizzie Halbrook is learning the "art preservative" at the Democrat office. She'll make a nifty little printer's devil.

The Parker & Morris warehouse is 90x70 feet, with an elevator 40 feet high, and has two fans which will clean 7,000 bushels in ten hours, run by water power. The house will hold nearly 200,000 bushels of wheat. It cost about $14,000.

Two more numbers closes volume Six. We shall issue number One of volume Seven on a sheet just twice as large as the one before you, which will make the REGISTER equal in size and, at $2 50, cheaper in price, than any paper on the Pacific coast. To entitle them to the low price, subscribers must pay in advance—otherwise the price will remain three dollars. Come in at once, pay up and renew.

Quite a number of the farmers living near the Santiam Canal, propose using it in shipping their grain to this city. The canal boat takes it to the jump-off near James Elkins' place, whence Morris & Parker will haul it, free of charge, to their fine warehouse at the mouth of the Canal. By next season locks will be constructed at the jump-off, enabling boats to go the entire length of the canal. The Canal is proving itself a greater blessing every day.

We secured from John R. Smith, on Tuesday, a few stalks of wheat and oats grown on his farm in Albany Prairie, that resemble corn stalks in size. The heads are unusually long and full, and the grain large and plump. We never saw such grain anywhere before.

Harvesting is progressing with unabated vigor. Grain turning out much better than anticipated. In fact, we are inclined to believe, from reports, that the crop generally will prove larger than that of last year, and that was over average.

The Odd Fellows have decided to have a railroad excursion to Pam Creek, or in that vicinity, where they spent such pleasant days last season. The intention is to start the first of next week.

The bite of a man is said to breed hydrophobia, but even this knowledge won't diminish the number of couples who ooze over the gates in the evening as the shadows lurk in the apple tree.

Young ladies who are subject to nervous debility should beware of exercising too much. Let them, as much as possible, lie quietly upon the lounge or sofa, and suffer their mothers to fan them!

The twin infants of J. Hackleman, ex-County Clerk, were buried yesterday. They succumbed to cholera infantum. Mr. Hackleman and wife have the full sympathy of the entire community.

Mr. Galloway Warwick, an aged gentleman, lately from the East, died on Tuesday evening, and was buried by the Masons of this city, of which order he was a member, on Wednesday afternoon.

John C. Mendenhall, looking as natural as life, only a little more so, came up from Portland last Saturday. He returned on Monday. John C. is at present mail agent on the Westside railroad.

Quite a number of Masons were in attendance at the funeral services of the late Mr. Warwick, on Wednesday, from Lebanon and other points.

Dr. Alexander was in the city on Wednesday, looking much thinner than we ever saw him. The Doctor's many friends will be glad to hear that he is once more able to be among them.

Baker Gay and wife were in the city yesterday.
