FRIDAY..........OCTOBER 15. 1875.

ANOTHER SMASH UP.—About 4 o'clock Monday morning, as our old frend High Smead, who lives about a mile south of this city, was driving a pair of spirited horses, hitched to a wagon loaded with cedar posts, on the bridge over the Calipoola, between South and North Brownsville, the horses became frightened and backed the wagon in such a manner that the rack and posts slipped off, at the same time precipitating Mr Smead some ten or fifteen feet down the bank, where the entire load fell on him. He was picked up and carried to the residence of W. C. Baird, and Dr. Crawford called in. Although pretty badly bruised and "shuk up," High was found to have sustained no serious internal injuries, and at last accounts was getting along finely. The horses were caught eventually, after they had made a pretty bad wreck of the wagon.

INCENDIARY.—Tuesday morning about a quarter to two o'clock, the fire bell sounded the alarm of fire, and soon the cry of fire! fire! came from all quarters of the city, men, women and children with their clothes about half adjusted, made their way towards the scene of conflagration, which was in the lower portion of the city, in an old building that had been used as a school house, but at the present time had not been occupied for about three weeks, and has not had a particle of fire about the premises for some months past, therefore, it is in all probability the work of some scoundrel that either had a spite at the owner of the building or was done for pure diabolical meanness. The firemen were promptly on hand, but owing to the fire being under such headway before the alarm was given, and distance they had to travel, the building was almost consumed before they arrived. The building belonged to Dr. Hill and was valued at $800. No insurance.

RUNAWAY.—Yesterday afternoon as Mr. Marks was about crossing the railroad track just east of the city, in a two-horse hack, the train for Portland came along. The team, a span of grays, took fright, whirled and started off on the Lebanon road at full speed. Mr. M. had just got out, handing the lines to another party in the hack, the two being the sole occupants. As soon as the horses started the gentleman in the hack jumped out, leaving the team to wander at their own sweet will. The hack was torn to kindling wood.

ARM BROKEN.—Brownsville, although not the largest town on the Pacific Coast, is full of energy and enterprise. When life becomes the least bit monotonous, some of the enthusiastic denizens get up a horse race, a shooting scrape, or something to stir up the bile and make things hot for a season. Yesterday was one of the big days for accidents, and we chronicle two runaways and grand smashups, the fist being High Smead's team, the other being a team driven by young Tom Philpot. The first we give an account of elsewhere; in the case of the latter, Philpot was thrown out with great violence, resulting in breaking one of his arms, and otherwise making him resemble a walking hospital. We are sorry for Tom, but must say we are obliged for the item. Every man muts do his part in this world toward entertaining his fellow-creatures.

GOOD 'NUFF.—Our fellow townsman, Wm. Cannon, has secured the contract for carrying the express between this city and the depot. Mr. Sol Ling, of Corvallis, has heretofore had the contract. This is the business that was to be changed that we made mention of in yesterday morning's CALL. Some of our readers mistook our meaning in the matter, and thought that there was to be a change in the agent at this place. We make this statement for the benefit of the agent, Mr. Wyatt, a gentleman in whom Wells, Fargo & Co., and the whole community, have the utmost confidence.

A MOVING STORY.—The good people of Gospel ridge were talking of moving their meeting house to a more agreeable locality. Among the advocates of the movement none were more earnest than one whom we shall call good old Deacon A——, who, by the way, had an uncontrolable habit of sleeping in church. No matter how interesting the discourse, the old deacon was sure to drop off about such a time. On the Sabbath preceding the day appointed for moving the house, the postor preached an interesting sermon on "The Rock of Ages." Growing eloquent in his remarks, the minister finally added with great emphasis, "Who can move it?" The deacon having been asleep as usual, woke up just in time to catch the query, and thinking the pastor referred to the meeting house, rose up in his seat and exclaimed, "I'll bring over my yoke of steers, and they will jerk it along the whole distance, if you will keep plenty of hard wood rolling under it." The deacon never slept in meeting alter that.

WILL SETTLE.—Our old fellow townsman, B. Kohn, who, after traveling all over the United States and "de Faderland" has returned to Albany and concluded to go into business again in this city. He leaves to-day for San Francisco for the purpose of laying in a full stock of gent's fancy and furnishing goods, and will open out in one of the store rooms in Froman's new brick about the first of November. He says Oregon is a great country, and that Albany is good enough for him.

There were 1,024 entries at the Fair Ground last Monday evening at 6 o'clock.

OREGON STATE FAIR.

SALEM, TUESDAY, Oct. 12, 1875.

SECOND DAY.

At an early hour this morning the sun shone out beautiful and everybody appeared anxious to get to the Fair Grounds, at which point all was bustle and confusion. Taking a stroll through the

PAVILION

We discovered that a large number of new articles had been entered for premiums. In fact the whole thing appears to be a perfect jam in that department. In the art department we noticed a beautiful ornamental painting by Miss Alice Scott, said to be the handsomest thing of the kind ever seen on Fair Ground.

THE CAMPERS.

The number of campers that had arrived last night exceeded anything of the kind ever known within the history of the Oregon State Fair. Up to 10 o'clock they were still pouring in, and all the outside precincts were to hear from.

THE SISTERS' FAIR.

One of the prominent and worthy features of the ground is the Sisters' Fair. A large number of the articles to be sold are the handiwork of the Sisters and their pupils, which are to be disposed of by raffles. Among the articles to be raffled are a lady's gold watch, an excellent piano and a beautiful sofa, all having been donated by frends of the school. The postoffice department is under the management of Miss Mollie Smith, the accomplished daughter of mine host of the Chemeketa.

AT THE TRACK,

Monday afternoon, an exciting race took place, which is said to have been the most hotly contested of any that has ever occurred on the grounds. The horses entered were Capt. Jack, by G. G. Glenn; Yakima, by J. F. Bybee; Alpha, by Wm. Thompkins. The horses secured an excellent "send off," Alpha taking the lead and keeping it to the half mile pole, where she was passed by Yakima, who came home in 1:56¼, with Captain Jack second. The second heat was a very exciting one, Alpha taking the lead again, but was soon overhauled by Yakima, who held his position until the home stretch was reached, when he bid Alpha good-bye and came home in 1:53, winning the heat by a half length.

RECEIPTS.

We learned from Mr. E. M. Waite. the Secretary of the Society, yesterday, that the total receipts were about $2,500 in excess of any previous fair on the evening of Monday. The crowd is greater than on any previous occasion, and every sign gives token for a magnificent success of the fifteenth Oregon State Fair.

ACCIDENTS.

But few accidents have happened as far as heard from, the principal one having taken place in the city. A little boy named Wm. Moras, while playing with a derrenger, was accidentally shot, the ball passing through his hand and into his body. A Physician was summoned who dressed the wound, but at last accounts the bullet had not been extracted.

EVERYTHING QUIET.

On the grounds and in the city everything is exceedingly quiet, but few drunken men are to be seen, and the Marshals and Police complain that "Othello's occupation is gone.

LARGE STOCK.—A. Carothers & Co. have ordered, and are now receiving, an immense stock of fresh goods in their line, to which they call the attention of buyers, feeling assured they can do as well by them in price and quality of goods as any other drug house in the city. Their supplies of choice cigars is specially complete and full, among them a few of the finest brands ever brought to this city. Proof of the pudding is in the eating—or smoking.

READY TO BE REPLACED.—The ball and vane that was blown off from the dome of the Court House in this city several years ago, is now ready to be placed in its proper position again. It should have been placed back again long before this time, and not allow the Court House to look like a bob-tailed pullet in a hail storm.

A NICE STORE.—Mr. Myer Harris has secured the new brick now being erected on First street by Dr. Tate, and will fill it with a complete stock of gentlemen's furnishing goods, late and elegant styles, cigars tobacco, etc. It will be just the place to get nice goods, and Harris is just the boy to keep such an establishment. It'll win.

FOR OCHOCO.—Mr. Wm. Circle and his son Vince and their families start this morning for Ochoco. They intend to spend the winter in that section of country.

CHEAP.—One dollar and six bits is the cost of a ticket from this city to the State Fair Grounds, below Salem, and return. Cheap at half that figure.

ERYSIPELAS.—Ed. Carter carries a handsome face. Erysipelas is what's the matter. Mr. Maine is also troubled with the same disease in the left eye.

DIED.—At the logging camp across the Calipoola, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rizor. Burial service yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

RUNNING FULL.—Four passenger coaches full of people, passed over the O. & C. road northward at noon yesterday.

SPRAINED ANKLE.—John Circle sprained his right ankle in some manner at the fire Tuesday morning, since when he has been hardly able to get around.

EARLY.—We issue the REGISTER somewhat in advance of the regular day of publication day, so that all hands may enjoy a visit to the State Fair.

Rumor has it that $10,000,000 is on its way to San Francisco from Europe, to be used in purchasing grain. It is hoped that some of it may find its way to Linn county.

EXTRA CHOICE.—Those cigars at A. Carothers & Co's.

YOUNG HOODLUMS.—There are a number of extremely rude boys, some of them the sons of our best citizens, who congregate at the railroad depot about train time each evening and raise particular Ned with evrybody in the vicinity, swearing, blackguarding, fighting, and in fact, they are into all kinds of mischief and meanness. The leader of these hoodlums is probably twelve or fourteen years of age and is said to be the most accomplished and profane hoodlum in the State. The presence of ladies doesn't act as a check on their obscenity, but seems to add to it. Complaint has been made, time and again, of the outrages commited by these young scapegraces but seemingly with no good effect. It should be the duty of the Marshal to jug every one of them the very next opportunity, and fine them to the full extent of the law. A few heavy fines may induce parents to look after their children, and learn where they are and how they conduct themselves during the evenings.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.— Rev. S. G. Irvine, D. D., Pastor. Sabbath services at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M. Sabbath School at 2½ P. M. Prayermeeting every Wednesday evening at 7 P. M. Young Folks' Bible reading every Saturday evening at 7 P. M.
