REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State Convention is hereby called to convene in the city of Portland, Wednesday, May 3d, 1876, at 11 o'clock A. M., to select six delegates to the Nation-al Republican Convention, candidates for judges of the supreme court in the second third and fifth judicial districts, for prose-cuting attorneys for the several judicial districts, three presidential electors, and a candidate for representative in congress, and for the transaction of such other busi-and for the transaction of such other bist-ness as may come before the convention. It is recommended that primary and county conventions in the several counties be held as follows : Primary conventions on Wednesday, April 19th, and county conventions on Wednesday, April 20th, or at make other times as the county commitat such other times as the county committees may appoint.

tees may appoint. The following is the apportionment of delegates in the said convention upon the basis of the Republican vote for representa-tive in congress in 1975:

In making this call for a Republican State Convention, the State Central Committee realize the fact that too much importance cannot be attached to preliminary tance cannot be attached to preliminary operations. This being a "government of the people, by the people, for the people," the agents or officers of the government should be in accord with the people. Ac-cording to the general accepted plan of selecting candidates, the first steps are ta-ken in our primary, county and State con-ventions. These form the ground work of ventions. These form the ground work of political organization upon which the whole uperstructure must stand or fall. If honest men desire houst officials, is it asking too much that they lay aside for a day all other business affairs and devote the time necessary to select proper persons to attend county and State conventions?

In view of these considerations and of the important interests at stake we earnestly appeal to all legal voters who are in sym-pathy with the principles of the Republican party, regardless of personal likes and dislikes to rally at the primaries, and see to it n are entrusted the business of preparing for the coming political campaign: Select men who are not only true themselves in the brondest sense of that term but men of discriment, men who can and will choose wisely for the good of the people in definice of "rings" "cliques. It is unneccessary at this time to reiterate in this call the principles of the Republican party; its glorious record is still fresh in the memory of an enlightened public; it is sound upon all the great principles affecting our national existence; it is the party of progress and development; it exposes corruption wherever found and inflicts punishment upon conspirators, learful and sud-den, without respect of person or positiou; it tavors the universal enlightenment of the people without trammel of creed or ism; and its banner is found in the van leading on the hosts of reformers in all that tends to higher civilization and enlarged freedom. The Young Lawyer.

The tie which bound a certain Detroit youth to a lawyer's office was severed yesterday, and his parents were happy. They wanted the boy to make a great lawyer, but he was getting along too fast. He pursued his studies with an the household and created considerable neighborhood talk. He got trusted for candy and repudiated the bill on the ground that he was a minor. He bought a dog and went into bankruptey. He borrowed a pair of skates and defled the owner to get out a writ of replevin. He borrowed fifty cents and then made the lender his assignee. But the worst of it was in the family. He had a legal name for almost everything, and his desire was to prove to his parents that he was just absorbing deadloads of law. If he wanted a potato at dinner-table he would remark:

"Father, file my claim against that baked potato and I'll prove the indebtedness this afternoon.

If he wanted bread he said: "Mother, get me out a writ of attachment for a piece of bread."

It was expected of him that he would build the morning fires, but no sooner had he gained an insight into law than he said to his father:

"I'm going to move for a change of venue unless some other arrangement is made."

He moved for a stay of proceedings when asked to go to the grocery, and if chided for being out nights he replied : "File your declaration and give me a chance for a jury trial."

stories about how Old Chancery was going up town one night and met Old Equity and asked him how Decree was etting along. Old Pleadings and Exeptions came along just then, and there ras a big fight, and the young lawyer rould slap his leg and add: "If Indictment had only been there e'd have whaled the whole crowd!" The other day the long-suffering ther severed the tie. He was trying bear up, hoping for reform, but as he at down to the tea-table his son brightned up and remarked:

"The defendant will now take the stand and he sworn. Now sir, did you or did you not come out of a Griswold street saloon at 11 o'clock this morning, ed to that side the oceans and air of the wiping your mouth on the back of your hand? 'Tell the jury all about it, sir!" It was a little too much, and the boy abode of life. doesn't study law any more. He plays with a wood-pile in the back yard.

SHEEP THE SALVATION OF THE FARM -"Horses have ruined the farm and sheep must save u," said a practical and thoughtful farmer to us recently; and the remark has in it a great deal of wisdom. However much we may prize the horse for his valuable service to man, all sensible persons must admit that the breeding of horses has in the few past years assumed undue proportions, which has not brought corresponding profitable returns to the farmer, at least. Now, sheep husbandry is "profitable to direct." a weary march of many weeks, but they made no disturbance in the city, and There are no losses and few risks to be met with in the business. Early lambs, fat wethers, wool and pelts, always bring good prices at a market. Besides, heep bring up the condition of the farm, and as the old adage has it, turn the earth to gold wherever their footprints are tound. Nothing is so good to counteract the effects of too much horse, as a course of sheep husbandry, well-selected and judiciously followed. Wc are not sure but our practical friend was not more than half right when he said sheep were to be the salvation of our farms and the restoration of our farming to a safe basis ; and if more could realize and follow it, we verily believe a larger share of prosperity in farming would be the result. PICKLING BEEF .- To pickle beef for long keeping: First, thoroughly rub salt into it and let it remain in bulk for twenty-four hours to draw off the blood. Second, take up, letting it drain, and pack as desired. Third, have ready a pickle prepared as follows: For one hat and knee breeches. The organizahundred pounds of beef use seven pounds of salt; saltpetre and cayeune pepper, of each one ounce; molasses, one quart, and

Professor Proctor, the English astronomer, has recently delivered a very interesting lecture upon the moon, extracts from which are here appended: The moon's diameter is 2,100 miles and she is distant 238,828 miles. Her ardor which cast a judicial shadow o'er surface is less than our globe in the proportion of one to thirteen and a half or in other words, includes about 14,-700,000 square miles, equal to the combined extent of North and South America. The volume of the moon is to that of the earth as one to forty-nine and a half, and the relative masses as one to eighty-one,

The speaker had heard that the observatory to be established on the Rocky Mountains will bring the Moon in thirmiles of us; but that is impossible. The optical image formed by the object glass of the astronomer has defects. When you get beyou a certain point it is useless to magnify it-you magnify the detects. When you get beyond a certain point it is useless to magnify the image as it appears, and there is no hope of any telescope larger than Rosse's to get a close view of the moon It is hopeless to expect to find signs of life on our satelite, for the moon has no atmosphere. This is by the fact that shadows thrown by the lunar mountains are seen black, whereas, did atmosphere exist, they would vary in intensity. Also, when the moon passes over a star the latter flashes out suddenly; if there were any atmosphere, the star would be seen precisely as our sun when sinking. The moon has no water, for it it had, and it even a shallow atmosphere existed, When he was in goood humor he would be raised into the latter, and increase or decrease the streaks or marking which appear cn the great floors. In answer to the question: Where then has the water gone? four suggestion are made. The first is that a comet carried away the lunar oceans and atmosphere. The second, that the surface is covered with trozen snow. The objection to the latter is that there is no sign of the whiteness which would then appear, for, in fact, the color of the moon is about that of weather-beaten brown sand. The third idea is that the lunar oceans have been withdrawn into the substance of the moon; and the tourth is that the moon is egg-shaped, and that the center of gravity, being displaced on the further side, has carrimoon, and that the side of the moon never toward us may be comfortable equipments and in courage; but an Englishman, traveling in the East, says that these soldiers are under wonderful discipline, and are trained to habits as self-control and good order, elsewhere nnknown. He saw a body of four thousand soldiers enter Constantinople after a weary march of many weeks, but they their presence was hardly know. "Not a single extra case was brought before the police courts; not a voice of quarrel or complaint was heard in the streets. The few efficers who accompanied the men sat at ease in the coffeehouses. Evening after evening passed off, quiet and orderly, into the unbroken silence of an Eastern night. Morning dawned, and if the bazaars and baths were crowed, the mosques were no less so. Not one of the four thousand but turned to Mecca five times a day, in witness to the unity of God and the mission of the prophet." Soldiers of this stamp, if led by great General, ought to do good service on the battle-field. A Centennial novelty in the way of political organizations will be a feature of the approaching Presidential canvass in Chicago. It will consist of a Republican club of one hundred men who will parade in uniforms of the continental pattern, with the traditional cocked tion will, it is likely, visit the centernial exhibition to suggest to other Republicans the propriety of similar clubs in different parts of the Union. It will tavor Blaine and Senator Oglesby for the Republican nomination, but will, of course, support the regular nominee. A London dispatch says Lord Ails ford's wife has eloped with the Marquis of Blandtord, eldest son of the Dake of Marlborough. The Marquis of Blandford is notorious for his social escapades, and the Marlborough gems have been, it is said, left to pay his debts. He is a brother of Lord Randolph Churchill. Lord Ailstord, the unfortunate husband, was called home from Indis on urgent affairs some time ago. The elopement is the all-absorb-ing topic of conversation. On the evening of the 13th, at Eureka, Nevada, David Roach was shot and killed by Lawrence Lynch, on Ruby Hill. Two shots were fired, both bullets hitting Roach in the head.

The Echo says: "In Lewis county, about eight miles northwest of Boisfort, there is a tract of land which has no superior in point of richness. It is term. ed praire land, and is represented to have the richest of scil. It is entirely dissimilar to ordinary gravely praires with which our Territorial readers are so farmiliar. The Gough brothers have cut a road from Boisfort to the tract of land to which this article refers. A way is now prepared for settling this magnificent praire in the no distant future. A beautiful stream of water passes through the prairie, on which there is an excellent site for a mill." The Jacksonville Sentinel says: "The coming spring and summer will afford a good opportunity to prospect for new diggings, water being abundant everywhere to permit a thorough test. There are many sections where water has been scarce that have never been prospected, and should they be found to contain gold in good paying quantity, it would be an inducement to bring water to such places."

The Echo says: "A snow storm visited Olympia on Saturday, March 11, which more than equals anythig of a similar nature which we ever knew. Snow flakes, which would measure two inches across, fell from the heavens in wonderful rapidity. As the thermometer indicated a thaw, the ground was barely made white by the extraordinary amount of snow which fell in a short space of time."

"The Chicago and North-Western Railway will, on and after May 1, 1876, and until October 31, 1876, have on sale in all of its coupon ticket offices, (including its two ticket offices at Omaha), round trip excursion tickets to Philadelphia and New York and return for Centennial Visitors. These tickets, for soft batter, eight gallons; boil and skim well, at d when cold, pour it over the the round trip, will be sold at one and one-half of the usual rate for a trip one beet. way. They will be of two classes, but will be sold at the same rates. One class of tickets will be good, East of Chicago, going and returning by the same route, and the other class will be good, East of Chicago, going by one route and returning by another, thus offering to the purchasers a choice of routes and chances to see various parts of the country.

Neither cars nor trains will be chartered for excursion parties going to the Centennial by this or any other road, nor will rates be less per person for par-ties large or small. Every person going will have to pay the same rate as is paid by his neighbor. No other road will be permitted to sell round trip tickets for the Centennial at any less rate than is quoted above. Reduced rate tickets reading only to the Exposi-tion will not be sold, and the rates made are all for the full round trip. All Agents of the Chicago and North-Western Railway will, in due time, be fully advised as to rates from their stations for these Centennial Tickets, and will, after April 1, 1876, be glad to answer all enquiries in regard to them."

Up in Minnesota, people don't hang around the postoffice and worry the urbane clerks, but patiently wait till they know their letter has come. Mrs. Butler, of Green Bay, has just received a letter which was mailed to her in a town twelve miles distant nine years ago.

He sat in a railway car. His head was thickly covered with a mass of red hair. Behind him in a seat sat s mau with hardly any hair on his head. He humorous in the remark of a girl who said to him, "I guess you wasn't around when they dealt out hair." "Ob, ves, I she was not too tired. "Well, my boy," said a New York father to his eight-year old son, the oth-er night, "what have you done to-day that may be set down as a good deed?" "Gave a boy five cents," replied the hopeful. "Ah! ah! that was charity, and charity is always right. He was an orphan boy, was he?" "I didn't stop to see," replied the boy; "I gave him the money for licking a boy who upset my dinner basket."

MUFFINS .- One pint of milk, two tablespoonfuls of good yeast, enough flour to stir, let it rise and just before putting into rings add two well beaten eggs and a tablespoonful each of butter and sugar.

"No sir," said a weary looking man, on a street car, to an individual by his side, "I wouldn't marry the best woman alive. I've been a dry goods clerk too long for that."

"Was the crowd tumultuous?" inquired one man of another who had just come from a mass-meeting. "Too multu-ous," replied the other. "Oh, no! just about multuous enough to comfortably fill the hall."
