ALBANY, FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1876.

Tried and Found Wanting.

Four months ago and the Democracy took possession of the lower House of Congress. With howle and bitter curses against the extravagance and wickedness of Republican rule, they went into office, promising that "reform and economy" should at once be inaugurated under their honest and rightcous management of public affairs. And yet after four months of power what have the Democracy done to make good their word? Have they "reformed" the financial policy of the Government? Have they accomplished any reform in the civil service branch of the Government, which they pronounced was in such a wretched state? Have they succooded in reducing the expenses of the internal machiners of the Government -expenses which they represented while making the canvas, as excessive? Changing all manner of evils at the door of the party, and pledging themselver at once to remove them all, have they succeed, or even made an attempt to correct any of the evils complained of? While imagurating expensive investigating committees, ostensibly for the purpose of hunting up and punishing rascals in office, have they not shown that the spirit which actuated them was simply a partisan one, by hunting to the death Republican officials and letting Democratio thieves escape? Isn't this fact so patent that every man with average common sense can see it? In the language of a cotemporary: "The campaign of investigating Republican and passing over Democratic delinquencies has been presented with commendable vigor and rigor. That is well. No guilty man should escape exposure, unless he is a Democrat, Some peoplethe offices, that they want. That they are extremely desirous of these, is patent. Further than that, the Democratic policy is something which "no fellow can find out." They have been weighed in the tulance and found deplorably wanting in all the requisites of the hour. They have wen the confidence of the country in but one particular, namely, that they are a set of empty and hungry leeches who are striving to fasten univer on the people by any means that will serve the purpose. Beyond this they are already a demonstrated failure, and house Democrate all over the country build the utter incompetency of their representatives with ill-constitutes are appreciated disgust. BEOWNSVILLE CORRESPONDENCE.

BROWNSVILLE, April 3, 1876. EDITOR ALBANY REGISTER: - Oregon still maintains her reputation for "moisture," and the farmers of this section are beginning to feel rather uneasy about their crops. It has been confidently asserted by old Oregonians that there never has been a son, for the farmers will be unable to get it in, in proper time.

During the sitting of the 'Grand Jury' there was a perfect stream of travel from stage line between this place and Halsey reaped a harvest of coin; but the attempt On the 4th the U. S. The resignation of the Secretary of War, and mi-demeanors, is the chief topic of conversation in the ranks of the "Unterified " at present, but they wholly fail to in the charges and inculpated along with the unfortunate Secretary, had the committee not found that they were handling a two-edged sword that would cut both ways. While I am in favor of literally unearthing and punishing frauds comtransactions which involve political friends and tavorites, lies supjuely on its back, and Buit has been entered by the United not only permits the necessary witnesses and pays their way, drawing their fees already due and forwarding them by mail, them show it by pursuing triends as well as toes, as the Republicans have done. But, no; they are not honest; all they are doing is for the sake of political capital; and I suppose in the coming campaign they propose to hold the Republican party responsible for all frauds committed by Republican officials, while they cover up and hide from the public gaze all fraud and wrong in the Democratic ranks. In this they will tail, for the Republicans go even further than they do, and say "let no guilty man escape," whether he be Republican or Democrat: and the Republican party is not responsible, nor can it be held responsible, for these wrongful acts.

It would be wrong to hold the Democratic party in Oregon responsible for the crimes of any of the appointees of Gov. Grover. If he has made bad appointments, let him be held responsible, not the party; and so it is with Gen. Grant; if he has committed a grievous error, let him respond to the public and not the Republican party, which everybody knows is found, with far more success than the Democrats, and that, too, when the Democrats On the 2d, Porforia Dias, the revolu- are pushing their investigations with no
