FRIDAY, APRIL 21, 1876.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State Convention is hereby called to convene in the city of Portland, Wednesday, May 24, 1876, at 11 o'clock A. M., to select delegates to the National Republican Convention, candidates for judges of the supreme court in the second third and fifth judicial districts, for prosecuting attorneys for the several judicial districts, three presidential electors, and a candidate for representative in congress, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the convention.

It is recommended that primary and county conventions in the several counties be held as follows: Primary conventions on Wednesday, April 20, and county conventions on Wednesday, April 26th, or at such other times as the county committees may appoint.

The following is the apportionment of delegates in the said convention upon the basis of the Republican vote for representative in congress in 1875:

Baker	3	Linn	10
Benton	6	Marion	13
Clackamas	6	Multnomah	13
Clatsop	3	Polk	4
Columbia	1	Tillamook	2
Cook	2	Washington	8
Curry	2	Wasco	3
Douglas	7	Washburn	4
Grant	3	Yamhill	8
Jackson	4	Total	115
Josephine	2
Lake	2
Lane	7

In making this call for a Republican State Convention, the State Committee realize the fact that too much importance cannot be attached to preliminary operations. This being a "government of the people, by the people, for the people," the agents or officers of the government should be in accord with the people. According to the general accepted plan of selecting candidates, the first step is taken in our primary, county and State conventions. These form the ground work of political organization upon which the whole superstructure must stand or fall. If honest men desire honest officials, it is asking too much that they lay aside for a day all other business affairs and devote the time necessary to select proper persons to attend county and State conventions?

In view of these considerations and of the important interests at stake we earnestly appeal to all legal voters to unite with us, pathy with the principles of the Republican party, regardless of personal likes and dislikes to rally at the primaries, and see to it that none but true men are entrusted with the business of preparing for the coming political campaign: Select men who are not only true themselves in the broadest sense of that term but men of the highest men who can and will choose wisely for the good of the people in defiance of "rings" and "caligues."

It is unnecessary at this time to reiterate in this call the principles of the Republican party; its glorious record is still fresh in the memory of an enlightened public; it is sound upon all the great questions affecting our national existence; it is the party of progress and development; it exposes corruption wherever found and inflicts punishment upon conspirators, fearful and sudden, without respect of person or position; it favors the universal enlightenment of the people without trammel of creed or sect; and its banner is found in the van leading on the hosts of reformers in all that tend to higher civilization and enlarged freedom.

L. S. SCOTT, Chairman.
 J. C. MORELAND, Secretary pro tem.

Linn County Republican Convention.

A Republican Convention for Linn County, Oregon, will be held at the Court House in this city, on Wednesday, April 26th, 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of electing ten delegates to attend the Republican State Convention, and for the nomination of a full county ticket, as follows:

State Senator, six Representatives, County Judges, two Commissioners, Clerk, Sheriff, Treasurer, Assessor, School Superintendent, Surveyor and Coroner.

The Committee suggests that the several Presidents of the county hold their primaries on Saturday, April 15th, 1876, at one o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing delegates to the County Convention. The Presides are entitled to the following representation:

Albany	10
Orleans	4
Halsey	4
Harrisburg	4
Brownsville	4
Cross Creek	2
Sweet Home	1
Waterloo	1
Lebanon	1
Santiam	1
Franklin Butte	2
Solo	1
Syracuse	1
Center	1
Total	47

It is hoped that every Republican in the county will attend the primaries, and see to it that honest, capable, trustworthy and representative men are elected delegates to the County Convention.

Albany, March 17, 1876.

There is a flood in the Mississippi river. It is already thirty-five feet above low-water mark, and higher than any rises of late years. A rise of one foot more will put it above the highest water known. In St. Mary's parish, Louisiana, meetings are being held to devise ways and means to prevent an overflow in that section. Levees are being inspected and repaired.

Frank Chalmers, a member of the Board of trade of Chicago, has absconded leaving the payment for some six hundred thousand bushels of wheat unprovided for. The wheat had to be thrown on the market for immediate sale, which caused a rapid decline.

SOMEHOW OR OTHER.

Life has a burden for every one's shoulder—None may escape from its trouble and care;
 Miss it in youth, and 'twill when we're older,
 And fit us as close as the garments we wear.

Sorrow comes into our lives uninvited,
 Robbing our heart of its treasure of song;
 Lovers grow cold, and our friendships are slighted,
 Yet somehow or other we worry along.

Every-day toil is an every-day blessing,
 'Trough poverty's cottage and crust we may share;
 Weak is the back on which burdens are pressing,
 But stout is the heart that is strengthened by prayer.

Somehow or other the pathway grows brighter
 Just when we mourn there was none to befriend;
 Hope in the heart makes the burden seem lighter,
 And somehow or other we get to the end.

THE DIFFERENCE.

The nation has been plundered to the extent of millions of dollars by dishonest Democratic officials, many of these officials now holding high place in the estimation of their party friends. Boss Tweed, with his $20,000,000 stolen from the tax-payers of New York, was an apt scholar of modern Democracy. Intrusted to the custody of a Democratic sheriff, who had enjoyed in other days the princely hospitality of this persecuted official, the Bos disappeared between dark and daylight months ago, and nothing has been heard from him since. It is believed by many that he is still in New York city, the guest of his Democratic admirers. Had he been a Republican official he would have been breaking stone at Sing-Sing, and the Democratic press would have been holding him up as a fair sample of Republican corruption. But as he was a Democratic leader his short-comings are overlooked, and his crime scarcely mentioned by the Democratic press. Even the sheriff holds his position, and Governor Tilden needs consent. The great difference between Democracy and Republicanism is just this: the former shields its official rascals, the latter punishes them whenever found. There is not an instance on record where the Republican party shielded an official known to be dishonest.

IMPEACHMENTS.

There have been only six impeachment trials before the United States Senate, and but two persons were convicted. The first case was that of Senator Blount, charged with treason in 1798, but there was no trial, the jurisdiction of the Senate being denied on the ground that a Senator was not an officer of the United States. Judge Pickens of New Hampshire was found guilty of drunkenness in 1803, and removed. Judge Humphreys of Tennessee was impeached for treason early in the war, and convicted. The most celebrated trial, down to President Johnson's, was that of Judge Samuel Chase of Maryland, who was impeached in 1804 for political partisanship in the trials of Fries and Callender for libel, five years before. Chase was a Federalist, and these men were virulent Democrats at a time when the partisanship of the press was vastly more bitter than it is now. The trial was the great event of the day, but resulted in acquittal. Chase was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and a great spirit. Having once ordered a sheriff to summon a posse and take some rioters to jail, he was timidly answered that nobody would respond. "Summon me, then, and I'll take 'em," thundered the Judge. Aaron Burr's trial, one of the few famous American State trials, was after the expiration of his term of Vice President, and before a jury on an indictment for high treason, of which he was acquitted.

Kentucky has the liveliest centennarian yet produced. Lucy Kennon is her name. She is colored, lives at Milford, Bracken county, and was formerly a slave. She is within a few days of being 123 years old, has been married seven times, and is the mother of twenty-three children; teeth sound, eye-sight good, hearing perfect and memory astonishing. What is perhaps equally remarkable, she has always been an invalid, and never, within the recollection of the living, did a day's work.

There is a town out West that has not had in three years a death or a wedding, neither doctor nor a lawyer whose time is devoted exclusively to professional work. It is otherwise remarkable—having no Sunday schools or dance houses, no religious meetings or services of whatever kind and a public school that is well attended. The town is Lake City, Colorado.

THIS AND THAT.

A special Washington telegram dated April 7th says:

THE SERGEANT-AT-ARMS OF THE SENATE proceeded this evening to the house of Belknap to serve on him the process issued by order of the Senate as a court of impeachment. Belknap was up stairs when the sergeant was announced; but he did not keep that functionary waiting long. He came into the drawing room with a brisk step, and with a smile on his face and extended his hand to the sergeant, saying, "How do you do, Mr. French?"

A new kind of door hinge has been invented. Its peculiarity is that the door shuts quickly and noiselessly, and it hits the person who leaves it open a fierce blow on the back. We would like to see some of the new hinges imported into this town.

A POETICAL REFUSAL.—It seems that Mr. Donald G. Mitchell was imperturbed by the soft money party of this State to be a candidate for Governor. He declined the honor in poetical language. He talked about the meek-eyed violet, the sturdy dandelion, and the dancing water; but to be a candidate for this greenback followers was out of the question. Among other things he said: "On tell me this movement is strong and popular; suppose I should be elected and compelled to take up my abode in brick and mortar evinced Hartford, while all the coppices of Edgewood are bright with summer bloom. I would rather be a farmer than Governor; I would rather sit in my library of an afternoon and watch the growing corn undulating in the western wind than sit in the chair of state signing bills for public acts, and the bright flag flitting above the Capitol would not be so pleasing in my eyes as the smoky banner of the far off steamer seen athwart the dancing waters silencing in the June sunshine.—Harford Times.

Do they ever bark?" asked old Mrs. Dorkins, gazing at a pair of stuffed sea dogs in the museum. "No, mum," said Elianah, "not now. Their bark is on the sea."

Behind the scenes—Stage manager: "John go see if the ballet are all dressed, for it is time to ring up the curtain." Boy returns: "About ready, sir; got most of their clothes off!"

The centennial regatta will be a proud event.—Philadelpia Star. It is sternly demanded that newspapers steer clear of such puns this year. Norristown Herald.

An old Dutchman froze his nose. While thawing the frost out, he said, "I had carry dat nose forty year, but he never freeze himself before. I no understand dis ting."

"Can you see me, dearest?" said a Chicago man to his dying wife. "Tell me, can you see me?" "No," she faintly whispered, "but I can smell your breath."

A generous but ugly boy gives his younger brother "400" for stealing one of his apples, and that night the apples give him "sixty" 2, how many apples did the younger brother receive?

"Ann," observed a Barbary house-keeper to the hired girl the other morning, "as we have entered upon the dawn of another century of our nation's history, I guess you had better get a tooth-brush of your own."

I clasped her fair hand in a rapture of bliss
 And thought, oh, how blessed our fates!
 Till I looked on the gloves that encircled her wrist
 And found that, alas! they were "eights."

If there is anything in this world calculated to make a man forget he's been to hear Moody and Sankey on the previous evening, it is to bounce cheerily out of bed in the morning and light on the business end of a tack.

"It is said that the peculiar odor and great strength of Russia leather are owing to the use of white birch bark in tanning." They formerly used a great deal of white birch for tanning purposes in New England, but it developed an agility rather than strength.

A pretty little Ohio schoolmarm tried to whip one of her pupils, a boy of fifteen, but when she commenced operations he coolly threw his arms around her neck and gave her a hearty kiss. She went straight back to her desk, and her face was "just as red."

"Well, Pat," said an indulgent master to his coachman, who had just been describing the glories of a St. Patrick's Day dinner, "was your appetite satisfied?" "Satisfied, it is, your Honor, an' it wasn't." It had to stand up along with myself most of the time."

There is a deacon in Cleveland who is training at present with the noble army of independent voters. The other day a party man twitted him with being on the fence. "Yes," said our deacon, "I am on the fence and there I propose to stay as long as it's so contumaciously muddy on both sides."

The other day, up in Watertown, the wind blew a lady directly into a gentleman's arms, and ever since that time, whenever Old Probabilities indicates breezy weather, the sidewalks of the town are so crowded with young men as to render them almost impassable.

Herr Bille, the leader of a monster orchestra in Berlin, is one of the few men who want to see our centennial prove a failure. When it was announced that Bille was coming to our celebration, nearly all our newspapers, in spelling his name, got the "e" before the "s"—and that is enough to make any man feel sore.

"Here, father, take care of your own hair dye," remarked an irreverent Brooklyn youth, as he handed a suspicious looking blue bottle to his paternal relative, at a party the other evening. It is supposed that the old gentleman had previously refused to honor some pecuniary demands, and that this was a punner on revenge.

We have two large suction fans, in addition to other fans, attached to the mill, that by water power, and are thus prepared to all the wheat received. Can take in and clean 10,000 bushels per day. Cleaned wheat is worth much more in all foreign markets than four wheat, and most shrewdly be shipped without cleaning. Our charges will be five cents a bushel on wheat, and four cents on oats. We have to furnish those storing wheat with us, free to those whose wheat we purchase, and at the lowest cash price. Those that ship their wheat from our house to other buyers. Persons storing wheat with us are not expected to be able to pay the highest possible price. Having prepared ourselves to do a large business, we hope for our share of the public patronage.

CLEAN

SIXTY THOUSAND SACKS
