Dr. J. F. Hendrix, President of the day, called the audience to order. After prayer for the prizes: by the Chaplain, the choir sang that grand national air, "America." Then followed the reading of the Declaration of Independence, by O. S. Porter. Mr. George Grimes recited a poem, written for the occasion, when the Orator of the day, Rev. I. D. Jones. Driver, was introduced, who succeeded in iolding the assembly wrapt in intense interest to the close of his able and eloquent

Scio, and other points to pass the Fourth, it was deemed next to impossible to get up any general celebration here, therefore no attempt was made, further than collecting sufficient funds with which to purchase powder for the usual morning salute. A few citizens, unable to leave the city on account of sickness in their families, and other causes, concluded to have a little pionile in Hackseman's grove, just in the eastern edge of the city, thus having a pleasant time and showing a proper spirit in giving some observance to the day. Unexpectedly quite a large crowd gathered at the design of the context and of the fournament:

10% inches. Protection No. 4 was the last competing steamer. As soon as she tould be placed in position the steam was turned on and the fun commenced. This steamer behaved handsonnely and did excellent work, but failed to distance any of her rivals. The faithest point reached by No. 4 was 215 feet. At the close of the contest among the steamers, Tiger Engine Co. No. 5 brought out their hand engine, and there being no other company to compete with, the boys gave her a lively have up, just to show their metal. They did remarkably well, throwing a stream 173 feet in length.

The following summary will best indicate the result of the tournament:

Value Received.—For clothing, dry goods, boots and shoes, and other necessarily conspelled to "feather in" and inake things as lively as possible. Send in your job work.

Send in your job work. ritions had been made and much coin spent in attempting a grand lay out. There was base ball, "two-old cat," croquef, etc., in abundance, and in these and other innocent pastimes, the old covies as well as those younger in years, spent a pleasant, agreeable day. Had there been an effort made, with unity of action, it would have been an easy thing to have secured a vast crowd, rivalling that of Portland. As it was a large number of the citizens of Linn were not afforded, and joined in no general celebration. However, these who went to the plemic generally enjoyed themselves better than they of the citizens model."

These measurments which are not disputed, give Linn No. 2 the first medal by 6 feet 2½ inches over No. 4. Williamette No. 1 gets the second medal by 17 feef 3½ inches over Columbian No. 3.

The contest was witnessed by over 1,000 persons, who seemed to manifest a lively interest in the result. Good order was maintained, and the very best of recling prevailed smong the members of the various companies. We have not heard a single person, whether a fireman or not, express the least regret at the outcome. On the contrary, the universal verdict, without an exception, is: "I am glad the Linn boys took the first medal."

AT SCIO.

A huge time was had at Scio, from all accounts, the attendance being the largest ever witnessed in that place, the crowd being yariously estimated at from two to four company, both from those at Albany, and latest the parties of the property of this handsome little steamer, great interest was felt in the result, and it was confidently asserted by many, that Linn engine would "get away" with her larger rivals. When the signal was at length given and water was seen dying from the nozzle, the excitement became intense, and shouts rose from the throats of a host of friends of that gallant company, both from those at Albany, and latest dates the self-on the largest into line. came intense. And shouts rose from the throats of a host of friends of that gallant thousand. Everything went off pleasantly and to the general satisfaction of all. We expected to get a full report of the 'blow out' there in time for this issue, but were disappointed—therefore this meagre description. Among those who were called upon and made eloquent responses to toasts offered on the occasion, were Capt. N. B. Humphrey, and Judge Garretson, of this city.
