

FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, R. B. HAYES.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT, W. A. WHEELER.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET. FOR GOVERNOR, HON. R. WILLIAMS, of Montgomery county.

FOR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS, W. H. ODELL, of Lewis county, J. W. WATTS, of Warren county, J. C. CARTWRIGHT, of Wasco county.

General Hayes During the War.

IN CAMP, Oct. 2, 1862.—Yours of the 29th ult. is received. I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time for the purpose of electioneering ought to be scapled.

Rutherford B. Hayes.

W. A. Wheeler's Speech in Congress, 1874.

The people are now illly able and illly disposed to bear the burdens not demanded by a people, immediate, pressing necessity. They demand of us to practice here the economy to which they are forced, and to bend to the necessity which overpowers them.

European Wheat Market.

The Mark Lane Express says the prospects of good crops now seem certain of fulfillment. Hay has been gathered in excellent condition, though it is not quite so plentiful as it would have been with more favorable auspices.

The Democratic Reformer.

I think he [Tilden] cannot carry New York. Those who claim that he is unassailable do not know him, or, if they do, then they are quite as dishonest as he is.

JUST ONE FEATHER TOO MANY.

At one of our fashionable hotels the other day a colored waiter innocently asked a guest of the Democratic persuasion whether he preferred his eggs boiled hard or soft.

THE HONESTY TRI-O.

When two such illustrious ex-ponents as John Morrissey and John Kelly promise reform under Samuel J. Tilden, who can be so soulless as to doubt the genuineness of the reform movement.

It is asserted that the deadlock in Congress in the appropriation bills is given way, and will be broken in a day or two, and that Congress will adjourn about the middle of next week.

It is believed by old mountain men of experience that the effective fighting force of the Sioux Indians, all well armed and provided, amounts to no less than 10,000 warriors.

LOVES LABORERS.

The Democratic Congressional committee had prepared an immense amount of statistics, speeches, and documents for the campaign which they now have on hand and find useless.

THE DEMOCRATIC SOUTH.

The great question for the people to decide next November is whether they are ready and willing to at once surrender the government of this great country into the hands of the very men who a few years since sought to destroy it by rebellion.

On the 24th an engine and train over the branch line of the Central Pacific, between Oakland and Berkeley, California, was brought to a halt by an old lady, who was sitting on the track.

AN EXAMPLE OF DEMOCRATIC SENILITY.

The Democratic ticket, on the great question of finance, is like a certain class of war vessels built for service during the late rebellion.

GOV. HAYES'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

The letter of Governor Hayes, accepting the Republican nomination for the Presidency, appears in our columns this morning. It is a moddle letter of its kind, and one which will greatly enhance the high regard in which the Republican standard-bearer is held.

DEMOCRATIC REFORMERS.

Already the name of John Morrissey is announced as a very proper one for a place in Tilden's Cabinet. He certainly should be rewarded by such a recognition, as the nomination was largely due to his manipulations at St. Louis.

THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE.

The honesty of the great Democratic reformer is clearly shown in his very modest remark, when his nomination was announced to him, that it was not the work of politicians in convention, but a clever expression of the will of the people in favor of reform.

Albert E. Redstone is urged as the proper candidate for Vice President on the Peter Cooper Presidential ticket.

Tilden, the Reformers, and Boss Tweed.

Samuel J. Tilden, present Democratic candidate for the Presidency of these United States, and Wm. M. Tweed, the notorious New York thief, were formerly bosom friends.

The following letters may throw a ray of light on the relationship existing when Tweed was in his glory, between himself and the present candidate for Democratic honors on the so-called reform ticket:

No. 15 GRAMERCY PARK, August 12, 1866—I AM. My DEAR SIR:—I decided to go to Philadelphia in the morning, and shall not be able to see you before I leave.

My DEAR SIR:—I beg to present to your attention the case of Mr. Samuel Allen, a very old friend of ours, who is in great need of a small appointment under your department, for which he has applied.

NEW YORK, September 8, 1868. The National Broadway Bank will pay to order of William M. Tweed five thousand dollars.

The friends of Samuel, the Reformer, are now asked to rise and explain what he did with the $5,000 received from Tweed. As the Democracy cast over 50,000 fraudulent votes in the city of New York in the fall of 1868, the receipt of this money from Tweed, the head of the Ring, looks suspicious, to say the least.

When secession was threatened and loyal men forgot party and thought only of the danger to the nation, Gov. Tilden wrote: "The framers of our Government left revolution organized; left it with power to snap the tie of confederation as a nation might break a treaty, and to repel coercion as a nation might repel invasion."

Hon. William A. Wheeler's letter accepting the Republican nomination for the Vice Presidency, appears elsewhere in this issue. It is just such a document as was expected from him—plain and to the point, breathing in every line an honest and pure purpose.

The Charley Ross matter, that filled the papers to the exclusion of almost everything else a few months ago, is once more up. This time it is a malate that knows where Charley is, and it affords the necessary chickamin, we suppose, will furnish him instantly.

A telegraph line has been completed from Portland to Astoria. The rates are 75 cents for the first ten words and 25 cents for each additional five words.

Henry Wakefield, the husband of eight cotemporaneous wives, was convicted of bigamy in the Alameda (Cal.) County Court, on the 24th.

The House Committee, through Wrigginton, has reported favorably on Lane's bill to annex Walla Walla and Columbia counties, W. T., to Oregon.

Smallpox still prevails in San Francisco, fifteen cases being reported on the 24th.

The Sun says Tilden has an eye single to reform. Yes, that's his left eye—he hasn't seen out of it for years.

The recent flood in the Red river has damaged the cotton crop to the amount of 20,000 bales.

Roasted crow and boiled lock form the staple dish at Democratic boarding houses just now.

Red Cloud and Spotted Tail Indian agencies have been turned over to the military. Well.

JUDGE DAVIS REASONS FOR NOT SUPPORTING TILDEN.

Can we be surprised that Judge David Davis refuses to support Samuel J. Tilden for the Presidency when we read the judicial opinion delivered by Davis with reference to one of Tilden's consolidation frauds, which was contested by the stockholders, in Davis court? Read it:

"These stockholders of the Galena and Chicago Union Railroad Company who have exchanged their stock in ignorance of their rights can now be restored, and the bondholders saved from impending ruin by joining in the efforts which are now being made to set aside the pretended consolidation which was consummated by trickery and fraud, while the public can be rescued from the despotism of the most gigantic and heartless monopoly ever attempted to be fastened upon a free people, by making proper efforts to sustain those who are now engaged in contesting against this self-constituted monopoly."

Tilden was the lawyer who planned the fraud upon the owners of these railroads, and the head man of the monopoly which Judge Davis refers to.

The Democratic nominations for the Presidency and Vice Presidency still hang fire, neither Tilden or Hendricks having conformed to the custom and written letters of acceptance, and as a consequence the Democratic under lip hangs exceedingly low.

It is pretty well understood, and generally believed among stock men, that a well organized band of horse thieves have their headquarters located at some point on the Columbia above the mouth of Snake river.

HORSE AND CATTLE THIEVES.

This band, we understand, are believed to extend their operations as far down as the Hudson Bay farm, on the Walla Walla. A few head of cattle and horses are occasionally missing and are not apt to turn up again.

The heated term is in full blast and the thermometer ranging close to 100 degrees in the shade; so also, with the ideas of the Democracy in their so-called economy; and one would suppose that the House of Representatives expected the Diplomatic and Consular representatives of the United States to live by foraging on the different countries to which they may be severally accredited.

By the way, you hear and read in the papers a great deal about the era of good fellowship in the South, and how anxious they are down there to welcome any decent respectable Northern man with or without capital who desires to settle amongst them.

The House has succeeded in stopping the fast mails to the west. The N. Y. Herald carelessly says that these noble Democratic reformers should not stop at this, but at once put an end to telegraph and railroads.

The woman of weak sweeps everything before her; the woman of fashion sweeps everything behind her.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, July 14, 1876. THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER TO EX-SECRETARY BUSTOW—DEMOCRACY IN TROUBLE IN N. C.—THE RESIGNATION OF P. M. G. JEWELL, AND THE NEW P. M. G. TYNER—HEATED TERM AND DEMOCRATIC ECONOMY—THE ERA OF GOOD FEELINGS IN THE SOUTH NOT YET—WHAT A NORTHERN CARPET-BAGGER SAYS, &c.

The sudden departure of Mr. Jewell from the Cabinet, and the immediate nomination of Judge Tyner to fill his place, was not so much of a surprise among the knowing ones here. Notwithstanding Mr. Jewell was very affable, he leaves the Post Office Department with fewer friends among the clerks than any Postmaster General ever preceding him.

The President's letter to Ex-Secretary Bristow is like a bomb shell in the Democratic camp. It is thought that so much having been said concerning the whisky ring frauds to the injury of the President, that he, the President, will urge the different members of his cabinet to go before the committee and testify to everything that has been spoken in cabinet meetings.

The nomination yesterday of Judge Settle of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, for Governor of that State, is affecting Mr. Vance sorely. In talking with a Democrat the other day, Mr. V. said that his State was not by any means sure for Tilden and Hendricks, but as far as he was concerned in his Congressional district he was all right.

The heated term is in full blast and the thermometer ranging close to 100 degrees in the shade; so also, with the ideas of the Democracy in their so-called economy; and one would suppose that the House of Representatives expected the Diplomatic and Consular representatives of the United States to live by foraging on the different countries to which they may be severally accredited.

By the way, you hear and read in the papers a great deal about the era of good fellowship in the South, and how anxious they are down there to welcome any decent respectable Northern man with or without capital who desires to settle amongst them.

The woman of weak sweeps everything before her; the woman of fashion sweeps everything behind her.

Now let me ask if that is the way they treat people there what would they do when the whole country falls into their hands? They are howling for reform and trying stop third come to direct public attention from their own demerit; but if you will stop to think a moment, just ask yourself and your readers one question: is there a city or a State in this Union where they have obtained the power and have the government in their own hands, where the financial condition has been improved in the slightest degree? No, not one.

Retorn, well, that is good, too. They have had thirty-one investigations since this session of Congress commenced, and now they have quit, and as one of them told a friend confidentially a day or two ago, "they wish they had never commenced the d—d thing."

Well they have as I say pictured one man, killed about a dozen of their own prominent party claquers, and spent about a million and a half of dollars to do it. They have fooled and puttered along with the appropriation bills until they have gotten themselves and the country generally, into a serious difficulty; brag that they will save thirty odd millions to the country, and passed a bill to take one hundred million out of the Treasury, which will never one-fourth of it reach those for whom it is intended, and the farmers and mechanics and those who have the taxes to pay will have to sweat it out the best way they can.

From An Impartial Standpoint.

The following just estimate of the action of the Republican national convention is from the London Daily Telegraph, one of the ablest English journals, and we present it to our readers that they may see how our cousins across the water regard the Republican nomination for the Presidency:

It is the fashion with English commentators upon the political affairs in America to speak of the candidate whom the Republican party has selected for its champion as being an obscure individual, whose very name had been previously unknown.

1. He possesses the advantages of having awakened none of the personal jealousies and animosities which a more prominent statesman can never hope to escape, and which have invariably been fatal to such conspicuous aspirants to the highest office in the United States as Webster, Clay or Calhoun.

2. He is known to be that American call "sound on the goose" with reference to the vital question of "hard" as opposed to "soft" money.

3. He served through the war with fidelity and loyalty to the Union, yet without provoking any of the vehement hatred excited in southern breasts by such generals as Sherman, Butler, Milroy or Turchen.

4. He has given substantial evidence as Governor of Ohio that he possesses the official integrity and administrative capacity which will stand him in good stead if called to fill the presidential chair at Washington.

5. Like all the presidents since Buchanan, he is a Western man, and therefore grateful to the dwellers in the Mississippi valley, with whom the predominant power in American politics has long been known to rest.

These are five material reasons for believing that the Republican party has been wise in preferring Governor Hayes to Messrs. Blaine, Cooking, or Morton. It is true that Mr. Bristow would have aroused more enthusiasm among the many well-wishers to the United States upon this side of the Atlantic; but it must not be forgotten that the late secretary to the treasury would have been an unwelcome to President Grant and his cabinet, nor is it easy to overestimate the influence upon the choice of a successor which the outgoing President and his officials are able to exercise.

fully pointed at by European disbelievers in Republican institutions. But it was soon found that the Democrats, who return to power was foreseen in the last house of representatives, were little, if at all, to be preferred to their rivals and predecessors in office.

Tilden was a member of the committee in the Chicago Democratic National Convention in 1864, which declared the war a failure, and now expects a loyal people to elect him President. Union soldiers will smile at such impertinence.

There were three cases of sunstroke in Portland during centennial week.

A good brother while giving his experience, not long ago, said: "Brethren, I've been a tryin' this high onto forty years, to serve the Lord and get rich both at once, and I tell yer, it's mighty hard sleddin'."

Printer Clapp has only stolen three and a half millions in seven years. A "type" of Republicanism [Boston Post]. Your remarks give a bad impression. Next—[Detroit Free Press]. The first statement is full of "errors." We want a better proof.—[Narristown Herald]. Can't get it; too much "eye" in the latter, perhaps.—[The Sentry].

More girls graduate from the school of Illinois than boys. Smart!

A Health-Promoting Stimulant. Physicians, who certainly ought to be the best judges of such matters, declare that wholesome stimulation is not only desirable but essential in many instances. However, temporary good effects of a sound stimulant is confirmed and rendered permanent as in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, by the action of tonic and alterative principle combined with it. It becomes infinitely more efficacious as a renovator of physical energy and a corrector of those conditions of the body which invite disease.

New To-Day.

ATTENTION, FRUIT GROWERS! THE DIRECTORS OF THE ALLEN FRUIT FACTORY have announced that they will put the Factory in operation as soon as Fruit and Vegetables are ready for use, and will pay cash for the same when delivered to the factory. Boxes will be furnished to all for the purpose of bringing their fruit to the factory. Fruit should be picked from the trees and not bruised.
