FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1876. Queen Victoria has to keep herself fed and clothed on the pitiful sum of $2,200,000 a year, or $6,270 a day.

Loss Tweed is said to be very despondent since being placed on the U. S. Frigate Franklin. A close watch is to be kept over him to prevent his suiciding.

"Live within your income" has a significant sound to Tilden just now. No doubt he wishes—in view of his two outlets—that he never had an income to live within.

Hayes bleeding upon the field of battle in defense of his country and Tilden presiding over a Democratic peace committee at Chicago in 1864 are two pictures attracting considerable attention just now.

The Jersey City Express wants to know how Mr. Blaine was able to lay up $200,000 in fourteen years out of an income of $5,000; perhaps Mr. Tilden, who, his friends say, laid up $3,000,000 in twelve years out of an income of $7,118, can give the Express the desired information.

Ex-Mayor Eastman, of Poughkeepsie, has given 500 of the street boys of that city a straw hat each, with this advice pasted inside the crown: "Don't drink, don't swear, don't chew, don't smoke. Be industrious, work hard, study hard, play hard, and you will never be 'hat-less.' With the best wishes for your future welfare."

The Democrats are trying to figure out a gain in the recent Vermont election. They boast of having made a gain of fifty per cent, in one town. Investigation discloses the fact that out of 325 votes cast, three were for the Democratic ticket. As they had but two votes last year they have gained just fifty per cent. This looks encouraging.

The Democratic platform demands reform in order to restore the public credit. The promptness with which the capitalists of this and other countries take the proffered loan of $800,000,000 at four and a half per cent, looks as if our public credit was in excellent condition. As it stands better than ever before in our history it is not likely that a term of Democracy could improve it.

During the late civil war there were three classes of people in the North who were dangerous enemies to the Government. We knew where to look for the armed foe. It is easier, at this late period, to forgive the men who took up arms against the constituted authority of the Republic than it is to forgive the insidious wickedness of the three kinds of conspirators who are remembered as draft skeddaddlers, bounty jumpers, and tax-dodgers.

The Democratic politicians setting themselves up as the great "reformers." Will somebody cite us to a single instance in all the history of that party where it, or any of its leaders have ever inaugurated or carried out any measure of public reform? Will anybody point us to a single measure of practical reform that has ever been proposed or carried out which that party or its leaders did not vehemently oppose? By their fruits, not their promises, do we know them.

The Republican candidate for Governor of New York, Hon. Edwin D. Morgan, is not a professional honest man like Gov. Tilden. He is the real article without the professions. During the war the Legislature of New York appropriated $1,000,000 to be expended on the defense of New York harbor. Gov. Morgan was appointed Chairman of the Commissioners appointed to expend the money. He performed the necessary work at an expense of $6,000, and returned $994,000 to the State Treasury. Tilden was head of a Commission to reform a Western railroad. He performed the work for $280,000 less than the estimate, and turned that sum into the pockets of himself and fellow members of the Committee.

MORE REBEL OUTRAGES.

The Tribune's Washington special under date, Chicago, Sept. 30th, says: Gen. Worthington, collector of the port of Charleston, South Carolina, in a public speech here said more than fifty Republicans have been assassinated since the nomination of Wade Hampton, and it is certain not less than five hundred more will follow in South Carolina before the election. Republicans are outraged and insulted in every city and town in the State while walking the streets, and even when partaking of the sacrament of the body and blood of Christ in their churches they are not free from insults and sneers on account of their principles. They ask the colored people to give them another chance to rule them; but they were a thousand times more degraded under the famous black code than when slaves. During the last Presidential campaign over 200 negroes were brutally murdered for opinion's sake and over 3,000 men and women were whipped.

DEMOCRATS SCENT DEFEAT.

The wise heads of the Democratic party all scent defeat in the coming election. Seymour, the cunning old fox, is not so sick but that he could have accepted the New York nomination if he had wished; but all the pressure of the party could not budge him from his determination not to run for Governor. Judge Rainey is not ill enough to keep him from attending to some weighty business; but after a week of hesitation, he declines the nomination for Congress in the Twentieth District. The character of Tilden is too much for them—they cannot afford to be associated with him in his ruin.

The camp fires of patriotism are lighting up everywhere. The loyal people are awake to the necessities of the hour and are rallying to the defense of the old flag as never before. Keep it up! Put forth every effort to make the victory the completest in our history. Democracy is already on the retreat. If our friends work energetically we shall make the defeat an utter rout.

One of the principals of a prize fight which took place recently in New Jersey died soon after leaving the ring. The other principal has been arrested and will not be able to vote the Democratic ticket this fall. If these prize fights could only be duplicated with like results in every town in New York and New Jersey, these States would be sure to give an overwhelming majority for Hayes and Wheeler.

Democracy is in full retreat. If the friends of law and order follow up the advantage the retreat will be a rout by November. Let no opportunity to bring out a full vote be lost. Every Republican should labor from this time to the election as if on his vote depended the contest. We cannot have too many votes. If the cause should be lost by one vote it would be as fatal as if lost by a million.

Republican meetings are held under disadvantageous circumstances in many of the Southern States. The Democrats have a peculiar rule which they enforce. They take half the time of the meeting for their speakers, and insist that the Republicans shall say nothing against Democracy the other half. This is what is called free speech in Mississippi and South Carolina.

Dr. Isaac Newton Love is a promising young physician of St. Louis, but, when he had a sign beautifully graven on the glass door of his office: "Dr. I. N. Love; from 8:00 A. M. till 9:30 P. M.," every body that passed by wondered where his transient affections wandered after half-past nine o'clock, and why it was that he was fancy free, and why his bosom's lord sat lightly on its throne all night.

Says the Burlington (Iowa) Hawk-eye: The Gatesburg, Illinois, papers publish weekly reports of the births and deaths in that city; in case of the births the name of the officiating physician is always given, and in the case of the deaths it never is. Now, what is the use of the Grainger law if this kind of discrimination is allowed?

The spire of the new Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, in New York, Rev. Dr. Hall's, was finished a few days ago, the cap-stone having been put on at a height of 236 feet, two more than Trinity. Trinity has hitherto been the highest-headed church in town.

A student complained to his professor: "It's no use; I was out for a loater." "Well," declared the professor, surveying the student critically, "whoever cut you out understood his business."

A September apple, mellow and sweet, is ahead of any "eye-opener" as a morning appetizer.

George Francis Train in Madison Square.

The writer strolls through Madison Square in this city, (N. Y.) every evening. Among the observed of all observers is the of the ambrosial locks and bronzed face, who every evening sits on a seat remote from the others, surrounded by a bouquet of flowers, in the shape of a hundred or more children, mostly little girls. As we pass by we observe that he is reading a paper, and at the time handing out bon-bons to the children, and supplying them with jumping ropes and balls.

As we gaze on this interesting spectacle we hear the children exclaim: "Mr. Train, Lizzie's got my ball!" "Mr. Train, Kitty's stole all my candy." The name of Train seems familiar to us, and yet we cannot recall it, so we step up to the gentleman who so benevolently deals out candy to the children, and commence our interview.

"I beg pardon, is your name Train, sir—any relation of George Francis Train?"

"That, sir, was my name in the olden time before I evolved," he replied, smilingly, and looking us full in the face with his large, expressive blue-grayish eyes.

"Before you what?" we asked, not quite catching his meaning.

"Before I became passive. I, who before was so active; who held over a thousand conventions, and ran for the Presidency. But now, sir, I am passive, because the country has gone to the devil. She is like a yacht with her sails set and at anchor. There, there, Lizzie, don't pull my hair; it hurts. They have contracted the currency, and see to such an enormous extent, that they have run the country around; and, sir, it's too late to do anything. The process of equalization is going on now. You see the hundreds of men sitting around in the parks and begging at the basement doors. They are happy, because the rich men have got to take care of them. Eighty men out of one hundred are paupers—the other twenty must take care of the rest. That's what I call equalization."

"Let's down and talk it all over," suggested your correspondent.

"Excuse me, I don't allow anybody to sit on this seat with me. I don't wish to be tapped. You see I have been tapped by the people to such an enormous extent, that I have shut down on it entirely. My vitality is enormous, as you see, but I wish to preserve my vitality and magnetism; that's the reason I don't go to any meetings or speak as I might at the Academy of Music at a dollar a head. If I did I should come into contact with a great mass of incongruous forces, and should depreciate my magnetism; in short, be tapped. You have had candy enough, my child; too much candy is dangerous at this time of the year. Do you observe how many people are sitting around here? How they are attracted about here by this great magnetic force that I possess?"

Your correspondent was about to interrogate Mr. Train further, when a gentleman came up and extended his hand in the most hearty manner. "Excuse me, my dear sir, I don't shake hands with any one; I have not for two years. It's a singular evolution, but nevertheless; and what's more I have established the two-minute rule, and don't converse with any one over two minutes except those children who become a little child, and learn wisdom from them. Grow up people know little or nothing, and will not learn anything. I told them years ago that they would drive the country into bankruptcy, and now they must come to me to get out of it. The children would elect me President to-morrow if they could. Want more candy, Kitty? But I have evolved, and intend to stay so. This park is getting too much for me; people come around and try me. I have become a little child, and learn wisdom from them. Grow up people know little or nothing, and will not learn anything.
