Translated from the Latin of Abraham a Sancta clara (Ulrich Megerie). Saint Anthony at church Was left in the lurch; So he went to the ditches And preached to the fishes.
They wiggled their tails,—
In the sun glanced their scales.

The carps, with their spawn, Are all thither drawn; Have opened their jaws, Eager for each clause. No sermon beside Had the carps so edified. Sharp-snouted pikes, Who keep fighting like tikes, Now swam up harmonious

To hear Saint Antonius. No sermon beside Had the pikes so edified. And that very odd fish, Who loves first-days, the cod-fish,— The stock-fish, I mean,— At the sermon was seen.

No sermon beside Had the cods so edified. Good cels and sturgeon, Which aldermen gorge on, Went out of their way To hear preaching that day. No sermon beside Had the eels so edified.

Crabs and turtles also-

Who always move slow—
Made haste from the bottom,
As if the devil had got 'em.
No sermon beside
Had the crabs so edified. The sermon now ended.

Each turned and descended;-

The pikes went on stealing,

The eels went on eeling.

Much delighted were they,— But preferred the old way. The crabs are backsliders, The stock-fish thick-siders, The carps are sharp-set;— All the sermon forget.

Much delighted were they,—

Christmas in a most delightful way. The prestige of New York as a comm cars were unusually crowded, and a heavy snow was falling. The car companies, who are managed by the kind of men who look upon a man and a horse as so much money to be doubled in the shortest space of time, were dragging the cars up town, loaded to twice their capacity, with the two flores usual to good weather. It was one strain from the Post Office up town, and the jaded steeds only got on by pulling their shoulders out of joint. At 23d street, Bergh's officers stopped every one of the cars, and compelled them to stay there till additional teams could be put on. There was no help for it, and over three hundred cars, all loaded to their utmost with hungry men, were held there an hour, till the teams necessary to drawing them with some degree of comfort could be brought and attached. The passengers were as wroth as the companies, but Mr. Berr's in Word of time, were dragging the cars up town, loaded to twice their capacity, with the two flores up town, and the proper in every direction, so as to flow the strge in event of fire. One theatre was compelled to suspend till this was done, and the people who crowd them breathe more freely. The churches are to be overhanded next, and then the factores and large buildings in which people work six stories up are to be looked after. The effect of it all is, to make life tolerably safe cars, all loaded to their utmost with hungry men, were held there an hour, till the teams necessary to drawing them with some degree of comfort could be brought and attached. The passengers were as wroth as the companies, but Mr. Berr's inmoney to be doubled in the shortest space and attached. The passengers were as to make them safe. wroth as the companies, but Mr. Bergh informed them that he did it for the purpose formed them that he did it for the purpose of awakening them to the necessity of taking some interest in humanitarian movements. While he is about it he ought to do something for the drivers, who are as badly overworked as the horses, and not half as well fed. The car driver in New York is compelled to work from fourteen to sixteen hours a day, in freezing weather, rain, snow or sleet, night and day, for which they receive the munificent sum of $1.65! They are compelled to stand on their feet all the time, and then there is scarcely one of them who has not varicose veins, or some other disease brought on by exposure, equally serious; and as severe as is the labor, and hard as the work is, there are thousands applying for the positions.

Five thousand ladies of the "first families" signed an agreement not to offer intoxicating liquors to their callers on New Year's day. The blg temperance demonstrations will commence immediately after New Year's, and will be kept up just as long as any feeling is shown. Boston and Philadelphia are to join with them, working the same way, the speakers changing about so as to always have something new and attractive. It is hoped by the originators to get up a feeling that will count on the rum mills, especially the fashionable ones. It is a business men's movement, and has the support of the heaviest merchants in the city.

The weather is cold and delightful, much to the joy of the ice companies and the livery stable people. The avenues leading to the park shine with splendid equipages. It makes a very brilliant show. are thousands applying for the positions, for every place that is vacant. It is a MERCH HAS STO salary $1,800 a year, and that his defalcations in two years footed up over $90,000!

And he got away to Australia with nothing—his mother sold stocks to get the few hundreds that were necessary to take him out of New York. Every cent of it has gone on his vices. His mistress sold his carriages, horses and jewelry, and immediately proceeded to find another victim to roin. Another clerk, at a salary of $1,500, embezzled in about the same time $60,000, which he spent in the same way. It is a singular thing that the business of a great house should be managed so as to make such thefts possible, but it is so; and they occur almost daily.

POLITICAL

POLITICAL. The holidays have taken the spirit out of the politicians, and there is nothing new ed on Monday.

on the chess-board. The democracy find it hard work to keep up an excitement, and they have about abandoned the idea of interposing any objection to the leanguration of the legally elected President, Hayes. They have quit drinking blood, and as an easy way of letting themselves down, talk mysteriously of an appeal to the courts. Nothing will come of it. They have lost the game, and have made up their minds to grin and bear it. The men of money will not respond to the invitation to the tented field, for fighting means money, and the merchant who has a regular business has not the interest in putting Brown, the ward-striker, into a sinccure in the custom-house that Brown has. Consequently he don't want to go to war for custom-house that Brown has. Consequently he don't want to go to war for Brown's sake, and Brown has not been able to stir him up to it as yet. The editorial mill is still sending out its readymade intellect, but there are evidences that it will close next week. Uncle Samuel has bled many millions and he has got tired of it, especially as he is certain to be beaten in the end, and the effect of the election of Hayes is showing itself more and more. Gold is down to 71/3 making it possible to resume specie payment at any time. While business is dull. everybody feels hopeful that the spring will being a revival, and business men are content to wait till the matter is settled beyond a peradventure.

New York has received another off-set. The grain trade has been gradually leaving the city for Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Vanderbilt made an effort to get it back by cutting freight in favor of New York, but the other lines have finally beaten him. The Baltimore and Ohio brought him down, and the New York Central has in the new arrangement raised its rates, so that Baltimore has a very heavy per cent. over New York. The wholesale inerchants are feeling ugly over this surrender of Vanderbilt, for goods are very largely bought where grain is sold. All this is bad for New York, but it is well for the interior cities and the producer. There are no facilities in New York for handling grain, and it costs altogether too much to get it through the city and on shipboard. Chicago, Toledo and Milwanukee are shipping heavily to Baltimore, and the dry goods and grocery trade is following it. The elder Vanderbilt is still on his bed, and his son William does not seem to have the acuteness of his father: At all events All the sermon forget.

Much delighted were they,
But preferred the old way.
