The Usury Bill.

Many inquiries having been made regarding the fate of the usary bills introduced into the last Legislature, the Farmer furnishes the information required in its Issue of February 13th. Two bills were introduced to reduce the rates of interest : House Bill No. 48 by R. H. Tyson, and House Bill No. 87, by Mr. Bradley: The first was withdrawn or postponed indefinitely in favor of the latter. After the all animal or vegetable life will be desecond reading of H. Just as long as capitalists can obtain twelve per cent, for their money, they will never invest in enterprises so greatly demanded in developing the resources and wealth of the State, because legitimate enterprises seldom pay so large a per cent. It is well enough to know who is for us and who is against us as we meander

On the 24 th of February, M. DeLessers accompanied by a number of his corps of engineers, arrived in New York, where a grand banquet was tendered him. Already, according to the telegram announcing the above fact, he has made sufficient surveys of his proposed canal route to satisfy himself of the practicability of his plan, and he is confident that within the period of eight years, and at an expense not exceeding $160,000,000, he can open communication between the two oceans for the commerce of the world. There can be no doubt of his great executive ability in the line in which he has won a world-wide fame; and as there is just as little doubt of the probity of his character, his matrired views on the subject of the interoceanic canal, after be has had full opportunity to test them by personal examination of the proposed scene of his labors, will certainly carry with them great weight.

Representative Hill of Ohio, being exhilerated with champagne and the victory of Cincinnati, lost his head and betrayed the Democratic party at the serenade at Wilard's Hotel in Washington. He declared with much unction that whoever the Democrats nominated at Cincinnati that man they proposed to inaugurate next March weather they elected him or not. Longer-headed men who had not absorbed so much "extra dry" tried to explain that Mr. Hill was in a happy mood and that his words must be taken as pure jest. It was very funny-for Republican spectators.

Is Our Climate Changing?

In considering the question asked at the head of this article, the S. F. Chronicle

The consideration of the curious caprices of temperature of which the people of this coast have for two months past been the victims, suggests the query whether the climate is not changing—whether the Japan gulf stream (the Kuro Shiwo) has not loose from its old course and determined no longer to give life and warmth to a land which refuses to recognize the virtues of a Mongol race. It is a grave question, which demands investigation. If this sea current has been trifled with by some sportive submarine volcano and induced to alter its time-honored con. se, then good-by to all future peans on our "glorious climate." We shall be unable to show straw berries in February. even under glass. We shall be foreclosed from bragging about an exceptionally warm day as the usual alleged winter weather. In brief, we shall be completely chopfallen. There is little difference in latitude between this city and St. Paul, Minnesota, or Portland, Maine. At the latter places the mercury is given to the custom of dropping down to thirty or forty degrees below zero. So, if the current has been deflected, this is what is in store for us. The prospect is not cheerful and we await the arrival of special news from some scientific mariner with much impatience.

A gloomy Cincinnatt philosopher, who has been sharply observing the stars while the most of his tellow citizens have been killing hogs and packing pork, publishes a startling prediction. He announces what is already well known, that in the latter part of the year 1881 there will occur a coniunction of the four principal planets, "an event that has never been recorded in the history of the world," and he therefore proceeds to prophesy in a diabolical strain that would cost him his life in some countries. He thinks that If the electrical emilibrium of the earth's axis is disturbed by this planetary conjunction, the earth will either "be shattered into infinite space and fall in meteoric fragments," or that scaring everybody to death. The Eastern papers are full of items showing the reckless freedom with which the Western miner handles coin as well as deringers. The latest fable is of a Leadville miner who attended a ball in Chicago, got drunk, became very warm while waltzing, took off his coat and laid it in a window. A police officer took posession of the coat and found in a pocket $127,000 in bills! As Miss Edgeworth always said when drawing a remarkably long bow: "This is a fact."

The gold value of merchandise imported into the United States for the eleven months ending November 30, 1879, amounted to $453,956,062; the merchandise exports of the country for the same period amounted to $684,305,032. The excess of exports over imports amounts to $230,310,000. This showing is highly favorable to Amergean industries, but, compared with the precedling year, a considerable falling off is apparent. It is probable, however, that when the figures of December, 1879, are included, the difference will not be materlal.

Many farmers are exceedingly dissatisfied with their profession, and repine at their duties. On the other hand, Socrates, the wisest of ancient philosophers, sald of Iti "Agriculture is an employment the most w r by of the application of man, the most ancient and the most suitable to his nature.
