Albany Register.

ALBANY, OREGON, APRIL 16, 1880.

The hobby of the Democracy is States Rights. People's Rights is what the Republican party go in for, and are determined to maintain.

There was no humbug about Gladstone's Midlothian "boom." Disraeli must now gather up his imperial baubles and retire from the scene.

The Republican State Convention meets on Wednesday, April 21, at 11 o'clock A. M., and will consist of a hundred and sixty-five delegates. A full attendance is promised.

The Astorian has been enlarged and now puts in an apperance as an eight-page, six column paper. We congratulate friend Ireland on this evidence of his prosperity.

Dispatches from Havana continue to announce, at stated intervals, that the insurgents are being beaten and captured. Curiously enough the whole of them are never gathered in, and probably never will be.

Jay Gould is now accumulating wealth more rapidly than any man in New York and probably in America, except Wm. H. Vanderbilt. His income is now estimated at $2,000 per day. Twenty years ago he was jobbing sole leather, and had a tannery in Pensyivania woods, the place called Gouldsborough.

The Czar has sent a fresh division of troops to Kuldja, and his watchword is that "The Chinese must go." Per contra, 30,000 martial pigtails are floating on the breeze very close to the scene of dispute, and actual war may possibly result.

The Chicago Times has just closed the largest paper contract ever made in the United States. It was for 1000 tons. The order was given to a mill in Canada. The Times loses $100,000 a year by the increase in the price of paper.

The Portland Mercury supports John Burnett, but repudiates Prim and Kelley, the other two Democratic nominees for the supreme bench. Personally there is no better man in the Democratic party than John Burnett, and he will run away ahead of his ticket.

If the voice of the rank and file of the Republican party is to be heard, Hon. M. C. George will be the nominee of the Republican State Convention for Congress. He is in favor of and will work for the interests of the whole State, and will not use his official position to work in the interest of monopolies to the detriment of the people. He will poll more votes than any man in the State of Oregon. Nominate Hon M. C. George and he will be our next member of Congress.

The timber trade of Canada is every year attaining greater importance. It is estimated that during the present season a thousand million feet will be cut, which, at the present prices, will be worth $13,000,000, but will not be sufficient to supply the demand. Fortunately the forests of the dominion are so vast in extent as almost to defy the inroads that are being made. Localities convenient to the coast will, however, soon be denuded.

The following is said to be the comparative milk yield of the various breeds of cows: A native cow produces annually 2794 pounds of milk; Jersey, 3820; Ayershire, 4300; and an American Holstein, 4527. Taking the weight, 950 pounds, of native cows, they produce five times their weight in milk; Ayershires, six and one-half; Jerseys, four and a half; and Holsteins, five times.

Judge McArthur, being twitted in the late Democratic State Convention, of his action in 1870, when he presented and endorsed the repudiation plank of the platform on that occasion, had the manliness to say that he was ashamed of his course on that occasion, and he hoped never again to be guilty of such a shameful act. Several of the Democratic leaders of Oregon might profit by McArthur's example, and before it is too late make public acknowledgment of their repentance and conversion.

Autenreith, the Jacksonville windbeater, who boasted his mixture of Dutch and Irish blood, and also of being mixed in his financial ideas, showed by his speech at the Court House Thursday evening of last week, that his tendency is to get mixed on everything. While addressing his audience against the wickedness of scratching the infallible Democratic ticket, he said a Democrat, if asked to scratch his ticket, could get out of it by saying that he was ignorant and afraid he might make a mistake and scratch the wrong name. This might be practicable down South, where the oligarchs of the slave plantation opposed the education of the people, considering education as properly one of the exclusive luxuries to be enjoyed by the children of the aristocracy, but such an argument will not apply in Oregon, and in fact was nothing less than an insult to the entire audience present.

While Russia and China are drifting into hostilities, there is also a rising war feeling between China and Japan. It is quite probable that the differences between the last named countries are partly due to European intrigues, as it would suit the purposes of England and Russia very well to have the two eastern rivals exhaust their resources in a desperate struggle, till they became fit subjects for foreign intervention and the parceling out of territory. The counsel of Gen. Grant to the government of Japan, that it keep on good terms with China, in order that the two might present a united front against the mechinations of Europe, was evidently sagacious, and the soundness of his views will become more apparent as events in the future develope.

The Financial Problem Settled.

The late Democratic Convention gagged a good deal at the finance doctrines they were called on to endorse, but not as bad as their constituents will in the coming election. The hard money resolution of one wing threw the other into spasms, while the soft money plank of the other in like manner unseated the bedrock stomachs of the old-liners. But finally the concentrated wisdom of the Solons assembled, succeeded in evolving a hermaphrodite declaration on the subject of money which, while it will no doubt electrify the financial world, will soothe and harmonize all the jarring constituents of the Oregon Democracy, and is about a counterpart to the toppiece of that celebrated "Hoosier" sage in the story, who insisted that one-half his head was human and the other half tater!

That pronunciamento was:

That while we hold gold and silver to be the constitutional currency and only real money, we regard any further contraction of the paper issue of the Government as uncalled for and impolitic in the present condition of the country.

That is, gold and silver are the only sound money, but greenbacks are just as good; while we regard the greenback as a Black Republican lie, an infamous fraud perpetrated by a despotic radical majority as the unconstitutional engine of centralized tyranny issued for the purpose of waging war on Democrats, and coercing sovereign States in armed hostility against the Federal Union, nevertheless we will refuse to allow the fraud to be removed and the violated constitution to be restored by the abolition of greenbacks. In other words, we plant ourselves in toleration and support of the most flagrant outrage upon the rights of the people and violation of their constitution ever perpetrated by a Congress and arbitrary party.

This is the meaning of the resolution if it means anything at all. But the Democracy is satisfied, of course. It is as asinine as its long-eared representative—neither horse or jackass—a mere hybrid thing! But the Democracy will be satisfied, and ask no questions.

Of course, the theory of the money-uttering power of a popular government, in the present state of public thought, is too complex a subject for the average ability of an average Democratic convention to grapple with, with much satisfaction to itself or benefit to its constituencies, yet we are of the opinion that the honest and sincere men of that party in Oregon had a right to expect that its convention would have taken a manly, outspoken, positive stand on this vital question, and not have sneaked out of it in the mongrel, half horse, half aligator kind of style it did. As Gen. Lane said: "The Democratic party never knew or recognized any money but gold and silver," and he believed there couldn't be any other. It is a pity that the chosen representatives of that party in Oregon, a party that dates its principles back at least as far as 1789, and for the most part behind that time, a party indeed that boasts its courage as its best stock in trade, could not have had the backbone to stand squarely out on its principles.

The Rebublican party be it remembered, gives no uncertain ring. It plants itself squarely on the constitution, and declares that gold and silver are the only standards of value, but gives the people in addition, for the facility of business, abundant greenbacks of equal value with gold, and resting on a standard value for their stability. This is and has been the position of the Republican party, but is not that of either wing of the Democracy.

In view of such an ignominious and ridiculous backdown and juggle-ma-juggle on the part of the convention, it is plain that the Democratic party has lost its savor, and that whatever mission it may have had is ended. And the most creditable thing it can do to retrieve its reputation, would be to lay its antiquated and palsied bones on the shelf, its soft money wing going over to the Greenback party where it belongs, and the balance, if sincere in their protestations of love to their country and its liberal principles and institutions of fraternity, equality and unity, into the Republican party where they belong.

What is Demanded.

In selecting a candidate for Congress, the Republican Convention soon to assemble in Portland, must select a man known to be not only honest, competent and able, but he must have put himself on record as being in favor of all the interests of the State; that is, he must be known as a willing and ever ready worker for any and every interest demanded by the people of every section of the State. He must not be ready to work for the interests of one section to the detriment of another. The people of the Willamette Valley are loudly demanding that Congress, while liberally aiding other sections of this Union, shall extend a helping hand in aiding this people to unloose the grip of the giant monopoly that is crushing them to the earth. The citizens of Eastern Oregon and the Central Valley demand an appropriation for the improvement of Yaquina Bay, and no man, Republican or Democrat, or what may be his ability, will receive the suffrages of this people who is not heart and soul in accord with them in this demand. And we are free to say to the Convention that, if it places in nomination a man who is in the least doubtful upon this point, whose record does not show that he has been at all times a consistent advocate of the people in this matter, his defeat in June is certain. General politics will have less to do with the success or defeat of the candidate for Congress at the coming election than ever heretofore. Legislation is demanded in the interest of this valley and Eastern Oregon; and while we acknowledge the right of other sections of the State to similar aid, in this matter of the Yaquina Bay improvement we do not propose to be ignored, and our citizens will make it the sine qua non of their support.

Recorder Bowie has given several "vags" a job to work a piece on Salem streets.

The Man Oregon Needs in Congress.

We have said that in the Hon. M. C. George the voters of Oregon have the man above all others to represent their interests in Congress. That he fully stood every test of honesty, capacity and ability, and that with a progressive spirit and a mental breadth equal if not superior to any man in the State, he would be an honor to Oregon, and would wield an influence that could not fail to redound to the general welfare and prosperity of our people. In his hands every interest of Oregon will be safe—he will labor faithfully for every part of the State. And right here we take the liberty of printing an extract taken from a private letter received by us a few days since, as it shows to a dot how and where Mr. George stands regarding the interests that are especially before our people at this time. He stands with us, and will help us in securing the so much needed aid in the enterprises so near our hearts, while he will not forget the interests of other portions of the State; and therefore he is the man for the hour, for the times, for the people, for the country, and the people demand his nomination. Read the appended extract and say if we are not right in what we have written:

* * * Business matters are good with me, and I hope the same with you, although I suppose the rust-stricken section centering about Albany is somewhat depressed just now; but live in hope, for prospects are good ahead, and there seems to be a bright future in store for the farmers of the interior valley. This whole northwest will ere long be honeycombed with railroads, and the upper valley counties seem to be equally favored in this respect, for by the papers I see that work is commencing on the Yaquina Road. This is business, and I hope to see it pushed through to final success. I have ever- and long before I moved from Linn county—regarded it as one of the great enterprises of the State, and it is of State importance that all of nature's outlets for our rapidly growing commerce should be opened for traffic. Entertaining such views, while occupying a seat in the State Senate I favored the measure all in my power. I believe that we scarcely realize the grand future that is in store for us as a State, and all narrow-minded sectionalism is inimical to our future prosperity. Yours Truly,

M. C. GEORGE.

From the S. F. Chronicle we get a few facts in reference to Mr. James Burrill Angell, the newly appointed Minister to China. He is a native of Connecticut, and is 51 years of age. After graduating at Brown University, Rhode Island, he passed two years in Europe for the purpose of studying political science and literature, after which he became professor of Modern Languages and Literature at his alma mater. During the war of the rebellion, as editor of the Providence (R. I.) Journal, he advocated the Union cause with great vigor and effect. Subsequently he became President of the University of Vermont, and in 1871 accepted the Presidency of the University of Michigan, which has flourished to a remarkable degree under his administration, its students now numbering over fourteen hundred. As a lecturer, and as a contributor to the North American Review, he has also won considerable reputation. He is a conservative Republican, and is on intimate terms of friendship with the President. It is to be hoped that his visit to the Orient will result in the ultimate restriction of Chinese immigration.

In the Democratic State Convention held in this city last Thursday, two resolutions were introduced, one of which endorsed S. J. Field as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, while the other endorsed Tilden, and Hendricks for the Vice Presidency. A fierce debate followed the introduction of the resolutions, during which McArthur and Hayden declared, in effect, that Tilden was a coward and could not be elected. Their assertions that Field could be elected, and that he would be inaugurated if elected, was greeted with loud cheers. Every speaker, with blood in his neck and clenched fist, declared that if the Democratic candidate for the Presidency was elected in November, he should be inaugurated in March, 1881. And if it is possible for such an event to occur, we can safely make the same prediction, as no Republican will raise a hand to prevent it. Therefore we ask the Young Democracy not to be alarmed.

A Clincher.

Fred. Holman, grappling with the tariff question, reasoned thusly: "Manufacturing industries will not pay in Albany, therefore we should go in for the abolition of protective duties so that the foreign vessels coming to Portland will come there freighted with foreign goods, instead of coming empty as now, carrying loads but one way." May be our system is wrong and we need some modification, put it certainly looks as if the gentleman's argument was a kind of blunderbuss affair that kicks back harder than it shoots.

Bloody Shirt.

It is rumored that sabre practice, manual of arms and Hardee's tactics now form a part of the regular programme of exercises in the Club rooms of the "Young Democracy," preparatory for the inaugural work of the coming campaign. It is a very diverting recreation for young men with more muscle than brains and more blood than sense.

Pacific Slopers.

The population of Astoria has nearly doubled within the past three weeks, but times are still very dull, as the bulk of fishermen and many other employes have not yet got to work.

Prisoners in the Raseburg jail very nearly sawed their way out the other day, with an old knife with a hacked edge. In a few hours more they would have had an aperture for escape.

Emigrants from Colifornia, says the Roseburg Independent, have already commenced passing north. A family from Visalia with one two-horse and one four-horse wagon, bound for Marion county, arrived in town to-day.

The Eugene Journal says: From all parts of the county we hear good reports in regard to the growing crops. Fall-sown grain is looking fine, and, without some great misfortune, the farmers will reap a rich harvest the coming season.

The citizens' ticket carried, at the Eugene City election, except for marshal. Officers and councilmen are: Wm. Edris, John Sloan, A. V. Peters; recorder, H. C. Humphrey; marshal, J. O. Atterberry; treasurer, J. S. Luckey.

Work has been commenced on the Cow creek hill, and the grade will be so improved that the ascent will be made at the rate of one foot to fifteen. The Grave creek hill will also be made passable at all seasons of the year for heavy freight wagons.

A heavy purse will be offered to the base ball players at the State Fair, the Salem boys, the Statesman says, are canvassing the town for funds to prepare grounds in the University square, and propose to have a well trained nine at the tournament.

The twenty-four delegates to the State Convention elected by Multnomah county, are said to be for Grant and Mallory. It will be the only Grant delegation in the Convention.

Our Candidates.

Our candidate for sheriff, Joseph J. Charlton, is a solid, substantial farmer, honest and capable, and these qualifications will elect him by a good round majority.

Messrs. John Geisendorfer and Marion Cunningham, our candidates for Commissioners, are gentlemen of undoubted ability, honesty and good judgment, in whose hands the affairs of the county can be safely trusted. If special adaptability for the office will secure it, then we confidently expect their election.

For Assessor we have D. P. Porter; for Treasurer, the present incumbent, Isaac Bruce; for School Suprintendent, Prof. J. L. Gilbert, one of the most accomplished educators and christian gentlemen in the State, whose fitness for the office is universally acknowledged, and under whose care educational interests in this county would make vast strides, and for whom every man who has the future welfare of the children of this county at heart, will cast his vote; for Surveyor, J. N. B. Fuller, an accomplished young man, asks the votes of all who desire faithful work, while F. S. Dunning fills the bill as a just and upright Coroner, who will take pleasure in interring, politically, the entire Democratic ticket next June.

All the above gentlemen are competent, honest and true, and will make most faithful officers, and each intends to work to secure his election. It now remains for Republicans and all honest men who really desire efficiency and economy in county affairs, to earnestly support the ticket put forth by the Linn County Republican Convention. In their hands the affairs of the county will be faithfully and economically managed, taxes will be reduced, much needed improvements made, and the growth and prosperity of our people advanced.

The Lewiston folks are talking of bridges across the Clearwater and Snake rivers at that place. Our people ought to take courage.

Religious Meetings.

The revival meetings under the charge of the ministers of this city and Rev. Mr. McLafferty, have been held each evening during the week, with good results. On Sunday night there was a perfect jam at the Court House, the churches of the city uniting on the occasion. There is no attempt at undue excitement at these meetings; a sincere effort is put forth to make all who attend see their need of a Savior, and urgent necessity of forsaking their sins. Let the good work go on.

To the Ladies.

Mesdames Herren & Van Cleve are engaged in the manufacture of ladies' furnishing goods, children's clothing, all kinds of work in embroidery, braiding, etc., and will promptly fill orders for all work entrusted to them on most reasonable terms. Ladies are invited to call at their shop, at present at the residence of Mrs. Herren, on Ferry between Second and Third streets, and leave their orders. They guarantee satisfaction.

Fined $20.

Chinaman Tom, who keeps the tenement house on Ferry between First street and the river, was arrested on Saturday charged with disregarding the ordinance in regard to filth and general uncleanliness in and about his house, and fined twenty dollars and costs. This little hint will do more toward making the Chinese bosses keep their dens comparatively decent than a cart-load of notices served upon them by the Marshal. They show a desire now to comply with the requirements of the ordinance.

A Hint.

A new woolen mill is to be erected in San Francisco to cost $700,000. It is by manufacturing, no less than by commerce, that cities and communities must assure a grand future. A good woolen mill built at this city would enhance the value of property, vastly increase the general business as well as population, and would retain among us thousands of dollars that now go to purchase manufactured goods elsewhere.

Our Children.

God bless them! Not knowing what moment they will be attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup, good mothers also have handy a bottle of that truly childrens' blessing, Dr. Young's Yankee Cough Syrup, so pleasant to take.

Temperance Matters.

The Blue Ribbon Club of this city flourishes apace. A grand meeting of the Club was held last Saturday night, at which a resolution was passed pledging the membership to vote for no man who handles, sells or uses ardent spirits.
