FRIDAY, NOV. 12, 1890

Useful Recipes. A LUNCHEON DISH.—Beat two eggs mixing with them a tablespoonful of cream.

CROWS NEST.—Fill a deep pudding tin, or dish, with apples cut in thin slices, sugar and cinnamon, or lemon, to sweeten and flavor to taste, and a little water; cover with a thick crust made as above; bake until apples are tender; serve hot with hard sauce, or cream and sugar; be sure to cut air holes in the crust to let the steam escape.

OYSTER TOAST.—This is a nice little dish for luncheon or a late supper: scald a quart of oysters in their own liquor, take them out and pound in a mortar, when they form a paste, add a little rich cream and some pepper. Get ready some thin, neat pieces of toast moistened slightly with boiling water and spread with fresh butter. Spread the oyster paste thickly upon the toast, put a thin cut round lemon upon each piece, and arrange them on a platter garnished with parsley. Serve very hot.

GINGERBREAD.—Before the buck-wheat season fairly begins, fresh gingerbread is nice with coffee for breakfast; it is convenient to make it sometimes when you haven't bread enough for breakfast and dinner both. A simple way of making it is to take one teacupful of molasses, four tablespoonfuls of hot butter or lard, stir in as much flour as you can, then put in a teaspoonful of saleratus, a heaping one of ginger in a teacup, and fill the cup almost full of boiling water; beat this into the dough a little at a time.

Stem Agriculture. Cultivation by steam has been successfully accomplished in England with a steam digger, a recent invention, which, worked by a single cylinder engine of eight-horse power, under seventy pounds pressure of steam digs at the rate of ten acres per day and takes three horses to plow an acre per day at the same depth. It is claimed, also, "that the diggers in penetrating the ground ease the weight of the engine to a considerable extent off the traveling wheels, and also by their back action drive the engine forward."

Thirteen of the widows of Brigham Young still live in the Lion House at Salt Lake. Their shares of the estate were $21,000 each, according to the will, but by threatening litigation they obtained about $10,000 more. They receive, however, only the income from their property; but that is sufficient to give them excellent fare in the old home, with servants, horses, and $75 a month in money. Louise, one of the daughters of the Prophet by Emeline Free, the most intellectual and intelligent of the wives, says that all of her full brothers and sisters have renounced polygamy; but a majority of Young's 47 children are Mormons. Speaking of the household as it used to be, she says: "We lived very happily. My father's ruling hand had a good deal to do with it. He taught us to love one another. Every morning wives and children met in the parlor, when we had prayers and singing. People have often asked me how in the world father knew all his children and wives, but I can tell you it is a single one was missing at prayer, he knew it, and found out where he or she was. Our house was like a great hotel, and we the guests. Our father was a great manager, and very practical about superintending his household affairs. Our rooms opened on to a long hall, like the one in the hotel here, but larger, and when we wanted anything from sisters, brothers, or wives, we went into this room or that at will."

Some conjugal fidelities can be explained on the hypothesis that many a woman is satisfied to be nothing in her husband's heart so that she is everything in his life.

Iowa is the banner Republican State so far, having given over eighty-five thousand majority for Garfield and Arthur—a noble State.

Oregon's Vote.

The following counties give Republican majorities: Benton, 45. Coos, 75. Douglas, 154. Polk, 54. Yamhill, 116. Washington, 302. Tillamook, 60. Columbia, 84. Clackamas, 204. Marion, 668. Clatsop, 120. Multnomah, 492. Total, 2,464. Democratic majorities: Jackson, 322. Lake, (est.) 150. Josephine, (est.) 80. Lane, 79. Linn, 261. Wasco, 205. Umatilla, 325. Union, 226. Baker, 256. Total, 1917. Republican majority, 547.

In the above Grant and Curry are not estimated, but their vote is more likely to increase the Republican majority than to reduce it.

Many curious stories are told of the influence exercised by the Afghan chiefs over their followers, among the most striking of which is the following: A young English subaltern attached to the Kabul expedition of 1841, rescued an Afghan pilgrim from some British soldiers who were handling him roughly. The pilgrim warmly thanked his deliverer, saying with emphasis that "an Afghan never forgets a good turn or a bad one." Some months later, during the fatal battle of the Kurd-Kabul Pass, our hero saw one of the enemy point to him repeatedly, and concluded himself singled out for destruction. But, to his amazement, he remained unharmed amid the hottest fire, while his men were dropping around him like leaves, those who had molested the pilgrim being the first to fall. At length several of the enemy disarmed and dragged him down by main force, checking those who wished to kill him by declaring him to be under the protection of their chief. The chief in question proved to be identical with the rescued pilgrim—a disguise assumed to aid his designs against the English—and the officer, having been hospitably entertained, was dismissed without ransom.

A Boston electric engineer proposes erecting in Holyoke, Massachusetts, a tower seventy-five feet high overlooking the town. This is to be surmounted by an electric light which, if successful, will be followed by the erection of seven or eight more. It is expected that these will charge the upper strata of air with so much light that it will produce the same effect which the sun exerts upon the atmosphere during the day, thus superseding all other kinds of light. In this manner it is believed that electric light can be made to penetrate spaces inaccessible to direct rays, just as the sun after it has set still illuminates the atmosphere. In other words, he intends producing artificial daylight.

The Next Cabinet. Since cabinet making is getting to be the order of the day, says the Statesman, and last President elect Garfield should fail to do the proper thing for want of good advice, we condense to suggest the proper arrangement of the incoming cabinet: For Secretary of State, James G. Blaine, of Maine; for Secretary of War, Ulysses S. Grant, of Illinois; for Secretary of the Treasury, John Sherman, of Ohio. We will name the others when our advice is asked. Not so bad.

A backwoods preacher once elucidated as follows in connection with the parable of the virgins: "In ancient times, my beloved hearers, it was the custom, after a couple had been married for two virgins to go out with lighted lamps and meet 'em on the way home, five of these virgins being males and five females."

It is said that Queen Olga, of Greece, "is in love with Copenhagen." The Queen should come to this country and attend a Sunday school picnic. She would get enough "Copenhagen" in three hours to last her a week. The boys would not fight her just because she is a Queen. In this country a Queen is considered as good as the daughter of a clumpion pedestrian.

A hotel is to be built at Quebec on the spot where Montgomery fell when leading the charge of the American troops on the citadel in 1775. There will probably be charges made on that spot which for recklessness will throw that of Montgomery entirely into the shade and, as before, the Americans will be the sufferers.

"Do we eat too much?" asked the Detroit Free Press, and out of five dozen boardinghouse keepers sixty answered in the affirmative.

"Pansy O'Rourke"—Your poem, "Lines to Mand," cannot be used. Mr. Vanderbilt has turned Mand out for the winter, and, besides, she has lines enough.

If any body asks you why the Arctic and Antarctic oceans are like politicians, you can tell them it is because they lie around the poles.

A poor corset got his skull fractured, and was told by the doctor that his brain was visible. He replied: "Write and tell my father, for he always swore I had none."

"I am surprised," said a Galveston politician to a heavy property owner, "that you don't run for some office."

"Well, you see somebody has to do the taxpaying."

Bjornstjerne Bjornson, threatens to sue Wilhelm for infringement. Eminent lawyers, however, think the case won't lie. If the fiddler had written it "Wijlhelm," it would have been a clear case.

"Lurline"—Your poem about gray-hooded eve cannot be published, because it lacks fidelity to fact. By looking at any fashion journal you will discover that gray hoods are not fashionable this season.

Two schoolmasters of a western town have been put to flight by the inhabitants for cruelty to the children. The pupils do not intend to set out in search of the missing whalers.

Mr. Gastadoni of Vincoago, has invented something that will prolong the sound of the piano note. It is very trying at a time like this to reflect on the fact that no gun will shoot from here to Italy.

The dull thud of a stick of wood in contact with joints of stoves is heard in the land, the air is full of muttered curses, and there are loud calls for court plaster, to cover scalped knuckles.

"Silence enumerates 288 species of organic forms in the air we breathe." Just think of it! Every time you draw a breath a whole zoological garden slips down your windpipe, and no free tickets to the press.

According to an English writer Mr. Gladstone walked eight miles the other night to reach home after a long railway journey. The person who forgot to send the carriage for William has our heartfelt sympathy.

Old red farmhouse—big kitchen—twenty bushels of apples—forty boys and girls come to the paring bee—winks, nods and squeezes, and a dance after supper! Rise up, ghosts of by gone years!

A baby can pat its rony toe in its mouth more easily than its father can, but when it comes to putting his whole foot in it, the man of years and experience can dismount the baby half a hundred and then run out.

A noted author says that "little children are the lilies of the valley of life." There is nothing so touching as the sight of a ten-year old lily scotching up a back alley Sunday afternoon with his pockets full of fish lines and bait.

The three men who captured Audie were playing cards in the bushes as he rode up. Had they not come there to play cards he would have escaped and our country been lost. Let us take the right bower of hearts for our national ensign.

Laywer C—(entering the office of his friend, Dr. M—, and speaking in a horse whisper): "Fral, I've got such a cold this morning that I can't speak the truth" Dr. M—: "Well, I'm glad that it's nothing that will interfere with your business."

P. T. Barnum offers to give $1000 toward a reading and amusement room in Bridgeport, Conn., where young men find sociability away from sa'oons. Mr. Barnum is evidently allowing his remorse at having sold so much bad lemonade to take the right direction.

A hackman's idea of hire education—Knowledge how to charge. Horse laugh may be "Hay hay"—Rome Sentinel. Neigh, neigh.—New Haven Register.

There is a postoffice down South called Dammit. This too bad, as Richard Dedeley would say.

When a Cincinnati man speaks of the productions of his pen, you never know whether he is a literary teler or a hog raiser.

When the Sheriff arrested the girl he had to halter. Whoa!—Wheeler Sunday Leader. No doubt she would have preferred a bridle trip.

A Galveston school teacher had a great deal of trouble making a boy understand his lesson. Finally, however, she succeeded, and, drawing a long breath, remarked, "If it wasn't for my you would be the biggest donkey on Galveston Island."

We pronounce that young man happy who is content with having acquired the skill which he aimed at, and waits willingly when the occasion of making it appreciated shall arrive, knowing well that it will not linger.
