

STATE RIGHTS DEMOCRAT.

[FOR THE STATE RIGHTS DEMOCRAT.]

A NEW PARTY.

We hear occasionally now-a-days the opinion expressed that there is soon a party to spring into existence which will completely demolish both of the existing political organizations, secure the reins of government and control the destinies of America.

The Democratic party, in its present position, that in all probability President Johnson will to the Republican party. The Democratic party approved of his veto of the National Bank as heartily as they approve of Johnson's veto of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill.

ONE OF 'EM.—B. H. Day, an intense-ly loyal Radical of New York was fore-man of the Grand Jury which indicted several Democratic papers for disloyalty two or three years ago. The same B. H. Day is now charged with printing and publishing indecent and obscene pictures.

REBEL-GENERALS.—Late State papers say Ex-Generals Heath, Pillow, Hood, Longstreet, and other Southern leaders, have been in Cincinnati and engaged since hundred white laborers, and purchased eight hundred cotton ploughs, to work plantations in the South.

THE NEW ORLEANS CIRCULAR describes a character in that city—an old man, clad in a rusty garb, bent in form, and wrinkled in face, dependent upon friends, who once enjoyed an income of $50,000 a year, and was a perfect prince in his hospitalities.

The Confederate Cause.

We think it a high and important duty devolving upon this generation of the men of the South, says the Montgomery, Ala. Ledger, to transmit to posterity an impartial vindication of the noble but ill-fated Confederate cause.

Every vestige of vitality and potency in the cause itself is lost; but its spotless honor and reputation should be as dear to now and hereafter as in other days upon some glorious victory of Lee or Jackson.

GOOD AGAIN.—The loyal seceders who arrested, imprisoned and otherwise outraged Democrats in the North during the war, on allegations of disloyalty, are now being made in many cases to atone for their acts of villainy.

THE HYPOCRITE.—In Cleveland, Ohio, a short time ago, a loyal Justice summoned a jury to try a case, and among the loyal jurors selected was one negro. The other jurors were to a man Abolitionists who had favored negro suffrage in the South; yet they all got very indignant at having a negro on the jury with them.

NOT DEAD.—A short time ago the papers reported that McCormick, the inventor of the celebrated reaper, was dead. He is not, it now appears, and has lately made a bequest of $10,000 for the establishment of a professorship of practical mechanics in Washington College, provided over by Robert E. Lee.

BEAST BUTLER.—During his reign of terror in Louisiana Beast Butler stole a statue of Washington from the State House in Baton Rouge, and sent it North. The people of Louisiana are now endeavoring to ascertain what became of it.

The Oppression of Taxation.

The receipts from internal revenue, to-day, were seven hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. The receipts from July first up to date are one hundred and eighty-seven millions five hundred thousand dollars.

It is well known that the difference between the cost of a suit of cloth purchased here and one purchased in Canada has become so great under our system of duties as to defray the expense of a journey from many parts of this country to Montreal or Toronto.

The Petersburg Index says: An old negro woman in the market a few mornings since, was interrupted in the sale of some articles she exposed for sale.
