LECTURES BY REV. H. H. SPAULDING Early Oregon Missions—Their Importance in Securing the Country to Americans.

On reaching the settlements, Dr. Whitman found that many of the now old Oregonians—Waldo, Aplegate, Hamre, Kiser and others—who had once made calculations to come to Oregon, had abandoned the idea because of the representations from Washington that they were to take wagons and ox teams through the Rocky and Blue mountains to the Columbia had failed.

By TELEGRAPH. WASHINGTON, January 11.—Wade called up in the Senate the bill relating to the organic acts of Territories, and offered a substitute.

The Doctor next sought an interview with President Tyler, who at once appreciated his solicitude and his timely representations of Oregon, and especially his disinterested though hazardous undertakings to cross the Rocky Mountains in the winter to take a caravan of wagons.

Mr. Hubard asked leave to introduce a resolution appointing a select committee to inquire into the deficiency of the rifled guns objected to.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—The next Congress will commence at noon on the 4th of March. The House passed the bill for its convenement before the holidays.

ing alive, at his home, again on the banks of the Walla Walla, these thousands of his fellow summer pilgrims, way worn and sun browned, took him by the hand and thanked him with tears for what he had done.

During the Doctor's absence his flour mill with a quantity of grain, had been burned, and consequently he found but a small supply at his station on his return, raised by Mr. Geiger, a young missionary.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Territorial Committee of the House has agreed to report Ashby's Bill establishing Territorial Governments in the South.

It seems very proper that, as teachers, we should enquire whether there are any errors in our modern theory and practice of teaching, which are gross enough to fall under the general appellation of follies.

By order of the Commander of the Post Mr. Whitmore has just arrived from the Agency, and reports that Klamath Lake has lowered about six feet and is still falling.

POPULAR FOLLIES.

An Address Delivered before the Linn County Teachers' Institute, At Astoria, December 27, 1863. BY T. M. MARTIN.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: It may be safely asserted that the present civilization of our country is, to a remarkable extent, sensational.

This musical broese "played itself out" and was soon followed by the Kossuth sensation. By means of "Kossuth on the brain," that distinguished and patriotic Hungarian swindled the sovereigns out of millions of money.

The vibrations of this popular current of enthusiasm seem to ignore the law of consistency, but follow rather after the law of physics, that "action and re-action are equal and in opposite directions."

JACKSONVILLE, OREGON, January 13.—The following letter is to the Oregon Sentinel, sent from Fort Klamath, dated Jan. 8th.

It seems very proper that, as teachers, we should enquire whether there are any errors in our modern theory and practice of teaching, which are gross enough to fall under the general appellation of follies.

not, among teachers, an unwarranted disposition to cling to old forms and systems. What else will explain the remarkable tenacity with which we cling to our present absurd system of spelling?

Allow me to call your attention to the popular notions about the musical education of girls. It is assumed in practice that every girl may become a musician.

Well, surely, the same objections cannot be brought against the universal study of the French language? No, indeed! This is the indispensable study!

And what greater folly is there than fashion itself? It is simply this: You must wear what some absurd French person wears, because he or she leads the fashion.

It seems very proper that, as teachers, we should enquire whether there are any errors in our modern theory and practice of teaching, which are gross enough to fall under the general appellation of follies.

By order of the Commander of the Post Mr. Whitmore has just arrived from the Agency, and reports that Klamath Lake has lowered about six feet and is still falling.
