POETRY.

MOTHER'S GRAVE. MISS LYD. A. MILLER. The trembling dew-drops fall Upon the shutting flowers, like souls at rest The stars shine gloriously, and all Save me are blest.

> Mother, I love thy grave ! The violet, with the blossoms blue and wild Waves o'er thy head. When will it wave

Above thy child? Tis a sweet flower, yet must

Dear mother, 'tis thine emblem-dust Is on thy brow. And I could love to die—
To leave untasted life's dark, bitter streams,

By thee, as first in childhood, lie, And share thy dreams.

And I must linger here, To stain the plumage of my sinless years, And mourn the hopes of childhood dear With bitter tears. Aye, I must linger here,

A lonely branch upon a withered tree,

Went down with thee. Oft from life's withered bower, In still communion with the past, I turn And muse on thee, the only flower In memory s urn.

Whose last frail leaf, untimely sero,

And when the evening pale Bows like a mourner on the dim blue I stray to hear the night wind's wail Around thy grave.

Where is thy spirit flown! I gaze above-thy look is imaged there-I listen, and thy gentle tone G. D. Prentice. Is on the air.
