Albany, Oregon, January 1, 1869. A HAPPY NEW YEAR-to patrons all-To old and young-to great and small : Joy to the mourner-relief to the poor-Additional treasure to the rich man's store, All this, and more, as I trudge along, Is the heartfelt vein of my joyous song: To the orphans, protectors and shelter from co And loved ones their minds in wisdom to mold; To the maiden a husband—the bach'lor a wife, To open the doors of a truer life. In fact I would wish, with a boisterous cheer, That all may enjoy a Happy New Year. Twelve months have passed, since with gleeful lay J. F. McCoy. I hailed you all on New Year's Day, And brave SIXTY-EIGHT has run his line, And "passed in his checks" to SIXTY-NINE; While joys and sorrows have alike held sway-

Been welcomed, and mourned, and passed away. The bride has been led to the altar and wed, And the grave has closed over its silent dead. But this is the "old, old song again," So I'll tune my lay to a different strain, And sing of the railroad, and men, and things That are whirling about on fleeting wings. The railroad is coming ! Of course you have seen How they skirmished about it up at Eugene, For fear they'd be left "clean out in the wet," And not a "snout full" of the iron-horse get; And how the people of Harrisburgh, too, Began to conclude the thing looked rather blue, And their chance for the railroad mighty "scant," If Stites did vote for the "Holladay Grant." And in our own little city a thunderin' muss Was kicked up, and many a muttered "cuss," From property-holders and capital-men, Was heaped on the head of the recreant Ben. A meeting was called, and Jim Foster sat In the chair of authority holding his hat, Waiting, with a patient and heavenly grin, For the speeches to open and "biz" to begin; When up jumps Bill G., with a nod and a wink, And took Captain H. out to give him a drink ;

To bring the railroad right "slap-dab" into town And as we've no doubt the thing will succeed, This subject we'll drop, and to others proceed.

And on motion a committee of "eleven or nine"

Were appointed to bring the Directors to time,

And see how much "skads" we would have to pay

The affairs of our nation demand some attention, And 't would not be amiss the subject to mention: How Phillips, and Sumner, and Ashley, and Wade, Banged on Impeachment'till the thing was 'played, And President Johnson, "as large as life," Stood above suspicion, like Casar's wife. But he soon the circle will swing around, From the Halls of State to his native town, Where, without fear from any man-The Union League, or Ku Klux Klan-With his tailor's scissors and press-board nigh, "Everything is lovely and his goose hangs high."

Yes, step out, Andy! and walk in, Grant, With your dogs, and horses, and warrior's chant, To rule as dictator, and your cigar wave "O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!" With your shoulder-straps and aids-de-camp, And guard before your door to tramp-In fact, we would not be amazed if you made The Rump go on "inspection" and "dress-parade," Just to keep them in trim and battle-array To clean out the copperheads passing that way. Well, go in, Grant, and Rumpites all-Every one for himself, and the devil take all; (And if rumor is right he will nip one soon-Cock-eyed Butler with his silver spoon. The sooner the better for our country's weal, For there's no man like him "on the steal.")

We suppose it is useless to mention last Spring, When we got the Radicals "on a string." And with "Carving-Fork Joe" to lead the van, We sent up Salt River the Republican clan, And Davy Logan came out of the strife A used up man for the rest of his life. We here might allude to our county fight, Where the Cayuse bolters were cleaned outright; But as we're only a newsboy on business bound, The "political cess-pool" we'll pass around, And speak of themes where less of strife For pelf and plunder is the aim of life: Of the farmer's field of waving grain, And his lowing herd on the verdant plain; His garner with cereals crowded high, And cottage white in the grove hard by, Where the frugal wife the dairy tends, And thread-bare garment so carefully mends; His children-rosy, and healthy, and gay, With never a thought of a troublous day-With slate and pencil, books and rule, And dinner in basket, trudge to school.

Shall I speak of our city, with its many rows Of buildings crowded with groceries and clothes; With its churches, its college, and fine graded

And court house where lawyers "yank" fees from their tools;

With its beautiful river that dashes along By the side of the city with murmuring song, Bearing high on its bosom of glittering sheen Swift steamers to heighten the beautiful scene. Of our ladies, who beauty and modesty blend, And snub up their nose at the "Grecian Bend, Declaring, with many a stamp and frown, That the abominable thing shall not come to town,

But my doggerel is ended, my song is run out, And my rythmical muse is "gone up the spout." I trust you will pardon my wandering rhymes, And drop into my cap your glittering dimes. I have served you through showers and sunshine the same, For two years or more, with ne'er failing aim, And these gifts from your bounty repay all my pain, And lighten my course through the pattering rain. J. C. MEUSSDORFFER & BRO'S, My thanks I'll not tender in doggerel muse. But in serving you weekly with all the news, And I'll wish you in life unbounded joy, And a heaven above with the CARRIER BOY.

Consumption is talked of, and perhaps the youth is removed from school and sent into the country. This is one of the worst movements. Removed from ordinary diversions of the everchanging scenes of the city, the powers of the body too much enfeebled to give zest to healthful and rural exercise, thoughts are turned inward apon themselves.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAM, Jan. 28, 1868, Mr. H. T. HELMBOLD: Dear Sir :

Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret and is the best on the River, without any excep for the purpose ever effered to the public, and do diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a Drug Store the other evening, my mind was changed en the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Inclosed please find our rates of advertising.

DR. H. T. HELMBOLD: Two bottles only of the package of your valua-ble Buchu presented to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect sucess. In the case of our little Lieutenant A. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily MENDENHALL & REDPATH, Proprietors anathemas of the chambermaid, who has charge of his bedding. I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save many a Superintendent and Matron of Boarding Schools and Asylum.
