Several days previous immense posters were pasted on all the walls in town, announcing that Reynold's Great Mexican Gymnasium and Menagerie would exhibit in Forest on that day. Early in the morning all the roads leading to town were thronged with people, of all ages, sexes and colors, and by ten o'clock the whole town was alive with visitors awaiteleven the fine brass band announced the arrival of the show and by twelve the canvass was stretched and the cages of the animals arranged.

The huge elephant Hereules-the largest ever imported to this country-was chained to a stake, and by way of caution to those entering the canvass, Mr. John Alston, his keeper, stated that he had for several days manifested a disposition

POINTED AND ELOQUENT WORDS.

During the debate in the Pennsylvania Legislature upon the resolution to ratify the Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, Mr. Rodgers, a Democratic member, said:

I am free to say, and I challenge contradiction, that not a single member of the Congress who passed the Amendment or of any Legislature now in session was elected on this issue. Every newspaper of your party, every orator at your hustings, every candidate, every platform, from Chicago down or up, expressly disavowed negro suffrage and conceeded that the subject belonged to the States-loyal States-and the people thereof. It may be as the gentleman from Lancaster says, that this was owing to the fact that the Republican party was weak-kneed; but whether so or not it was the plea under which you craved an extension of power, and the people, believing your plighted word, your boasts of patriotism, economy and reform, and your hackneyed charges of disloyalty against us, trusted you again and to their destruction. Your pledges were written in the sands of expediency only to be washed of insubordination, and begged that no the question now to them.
