Again are we compelled to differ with a co-worker in the Democratic ranks. We very much regret to do this, but in justice to ourselves and the principles we try to advocate, we cannot avoid the responsibility. In the Herald of the 19th we find a labored argument in favor of the Fay construction of the 8th resolution of the Democratic Platform. The article is entitled, "The advantage they give us," and is a masterly absurdity. It proceeds first upon the assumption that the bondholders have repudiated the terms of their contracts because they insist that the bonds are payable in coin. Was there ever a wilder assertion than this made by any one above the age of puberty? A owes B a note calling for one hundred dollars. B insists that he is entitled to coin; A says he will only pay greenbacks. Does this make B repudiate his contract with A and entitle A to say I will repudiate the debt because you want me to pay in coin? What arrant non-

THE TRICK.

The Republican party has opened the campaign with the cunning of the fox. Like the wily Reynard in his wager of battle with the wolf, the Repubican leaders seem to have shaved themselves, greased themselves, and are dancing around the Democracy and endeavoring to blind them by throwing dirt into their faces; in this way they hope to win the fight.
