

SCISSORINGS.

New name for sky—air apparent. Burst of eloquence—An exploded idea.

Cat-music is done purr-puss-ly, isn't it? If thine enemy wrong thee, buy each of his children a drum.

Should an old acquaintance be forgotten—Not if they have money. The first thing that we take in life, is milk, the last thing is our hair.

The mother's heart gives 4th year at the baby's 1st year; and "y" nok. Turkeys and chickens know when Thanksgiving comes—they get their dispatches.

Don't be afraid to invest in printer's ink, lest your sands of life be nearly run out. "What are you doing there?" said a grocer, to a fellow who was stealing his lard. "I'm getting fat," was the reply.

The editor of an Eastern paper says that many of his patrons would make good wheel horses, they hold back so well.

Barnum wants three hundred men who neither drink nor swear, and has gone to Washington, of all the places in the world.

More than half the evils we endure are imaginary. So it is with our pleasures; most of our enjoyment consists in anticipation.

A young man generally gives a lock of his hair to his sweetheart before he marries her. After marriage she generally helps herself.

A wretched old bachelor says: "After all, a woman's heart is the sweetest thing in the world; it's a perfect honeycomb—full of sells."

A Dutchman put the following sign on his premises: "Mebbe you don't petter had lofz rount here ven you don't got some peesness, a'ntit."

A clergyman said, the other day, that modern young ladies were not the daughters of Adam and Ham, but the daughters of Hem and Sham.

Editing a newspaper is very much like making a fire—every one thinks he can perform the operation better than the man who has hold of the poker.

The Western confectioner who a few months ago taught his parrot to say "pretty creature" to every lady who entered his store, is now a millionaire.

College students have adopted the fashions of wearing their hair "banged" over their foreheads, which makes many of them look like escaped convicts.

The Danbury News says: "The composition of a Danbury school boy seeks to demonstrate that a hen is not of this world, because the earth has its sunset and a hen never does."

An unknown man broke through the ice at Bay City, Mich., several days ago, and his dog has sat watching the hole in the ice ever since. He can neither be coaxed or driven away.

The following knotty question claiming the attention of one or all of our debating societies: "If a man has a tiger by the tail, which would be the best for his personal safety—to hold on, or to let go?"

A Boston paper expresses the deliberate conviction that "a man who will not do anything himself, nor let any one else do anything, by way of public improvement, ought to keep tavern after everybody else is dead."

As a gentleman was telling his friend, that a mutual acquaintance was sent to the Penitentiary for gross intoxication, he was asked why he didn't bail him out. "Bail him out!" he replied, "why you could not pump him out."

A saloon keeper having started business in a building where trunks had been made, asked a friend what he had better do with the old sign, "Trunk Factory." "Oh," said the friend, "just change the T to D, and it will suit you exactly."

A facetious gentleman of Williamsburg, Mass., dining upon a tough fowl in a Boston hotel, asked the land-lady where the fowl came from. She replied that it came from Williamsburg. "Impossible!" exclaimed the gentleman, "for the town hasn't been incorporated over four years."

Jones and his wife were always quarreling about their comparative talent for keeping a fire. She insisted that just so surely as he tried to re-arrange the sticks with the tongs, he put the fire out. One night the bells sounded an alarm, and Jones sprang for his fire bucket, eager to rush to the conflagration. "Mr. Jones," cried his wife, as he reached the door, "Mr. Jones take the tongs."

A characteristic anecdote is related of an out-at-elbow poet who by some freak of fortune coming into possession of a five dollar bill, called to a lad and said: "Johnny, my boy, take this William, and get it changed." "What do you mean by calling it William?" inquired the wondering lad. "Why, Johnny," replied the poet, "I am not sufficiently familiar with it to take the liberty of calling it Bill."

A CURIOUS CUSTOM.—It was the custom in Babylon, five hundred years before the Christian era, to have annually an auction of the unmarried ladies. In every year, on a certain day, each district assembled all its virgins of marriageable age. The most beautiful were first, and the man who paid the highest price gained her. The second in personal charms followed her, and so on, so that the bidders might gratify themselves with handsome wives according to the length of their purses. There may yet remain in Babylon some for whom no money was offered, but the prudent Babylonians managed that.

When all the comely ones are sold the other orders the most deformed who will marry her for a small sum, she is adjudged to him who is satisfied with the least, and in this manner the money raised on the sale of the handsomest serves as a portion to those who are either of disagreeable looks or have any other disaffection.
