THE STATE RIGHTS DEMOCRAT.

The DEMOCRAT will hereafter be the best medium of obtaining news from the Central Willamette Valley. Subscribe for it and you will get the worth of your money.

The DEMOCRAT is the oldest Democratic paper in Oregon, and has stood the wintry storms of defeat as well as the sunshine of victory, and we are glad to be able to state that it at present has the support and confidence of the public as it had that support and confidence sixteen years ago. Under the same management we hope to make it a medium of information as well as an exponent of Democratic principles that will meet the approbation of the party and of the general public.

MISREPRESENTATION CORRECTED.

We publish elsewhere statistics of a committee on the matter of the cereal products of the Willamette Valley. Those statistics are made up with care and caution, and are only for the purpose of refuting the Oregonian's attempts to belittle the efforts to open Yaquina Bay and give the Valley a commercial entrepot whereby we would not be bottled up by Portland's monopolists' schemes. We do not blame the city of Portland with these assaults upon our Valley's interests. It is only the transportation monopolists—with their monopoly organ, the Oregonian—that we complain of. Those two agencies, with Senator Hirsch's vehement denunciations of our claims of products, undoubtedly defeated the common carrier bill, which would have at least given an even chance for all competing lines of transportation in the State. But Senator Hirsch is in Portland, with all his interests, the Oregonian's proprietors are in Portland, and some of them largely interested in railroad schemes that center there, and tney have one and all used their power to destroy a legitimate effort to open an avenue of communication and an interchange of commerce that may pass through another portion of the State.

This is unfair and unjust, and the people of the whole Valley, with one accord, protest against such misrepresentation to the detriment of their interests.

Portland is prosperous and growing. We are glad of it. There is no jealousy here in the Valley against that city. We all wish it to spread its proportions, but we protest against the use of its power in hampering the interests of our Valley and in preventing us from securing just relief from present burdens.

FRAUD IN NEW YORK.

The New York Star has information that the vote in that State will be investigated. Its Washington correspondent of the 9th says that the Irving Hall, Tammany Hall and State Democratic committees have been diligently at work, and claim to have made discoveries that astound those engaged in the prosecution of the inquiries into various kinds of alleged fraud. Among other things they have found a technical violation of the law, which is a penal offense under that statute, the illegal preparation of tickets. The intent of the voter is not denied, but the law makes certain kinds of tickets only voted, and opens the penitentiary door to persons implicated in preparing them otherwise.

The National Committee has not yet taken hold of the matter, but its executive committee meets in New York on Friday. At that meeting the reports from the three other committees now working the matter up will be heard.

These committees will request the National Committee to insist upon the appointment of a Congressional committee of investigation in the New York election, and make it the very first business of both Houses at the approaching session.

RATHER SICKLY.

It is an impudent kind of sorcery, to attempt to blind us with smoke, without convincing us that the fire has existed.—Junius

Last Wednesday evening the court house was lit up for the purpose of arranging a Garfield "ratify," and about five "foolish virgins" were present. The general impression seemed to be that they should "wait for the news," but a conspicuous curb stone broker of the city insisted that they should go ahead anyway—news or no news! And the presumption now is that they will go ahead and ratify without knowing who is President.

In the meantime sensible people will await the result and quietly abide by it.

THE HANCOCK GUARD.

That splendid organization, the Hancock Guard of Albany, is entitled to great credit for its efficient work in the campaign. Led by Capt. Cline and Lieutenant Humphrey, with their efficient aids, the Guard visited a large number of places in the State, and for their gentlemanly appearance and soldierly bearing, were generally the center of attraction.

All honor to the "Hancock Guard!"

OUR VALLEY PRODUCTS.

The following communication explains itself:

ALBANY, Or., Nov. 5th, 1880.

Wallis Nash, Esq., Corvallis:

DEAR SIR:—During the agitation of the question of the location of the proposed Harbor of Refuge on the Oregon coast, a portion of the undersigned with other citizens of Linn county, collated statistics touching the amount of wheat raised in the Willamette Valley in the counties of Linn, Lane, Benton, Marion, Polk, Yamhill and Washington, and and ventured the statement that the amount of grain produced annually for export was at least six million of bushels in those counties.

This estimate having been called in question by certain interested parties, we have been led to a re-examination of the matter; our estimates are based upon the actual yield this season so far as we have been able to obtain the exact figures, and upon reasonable and moderate estimates as to the residue.

Counties.	totals.
Benton	559,000
Marion	1,297,000
Washington	294,000
Polk (estimated)	750,000
Lane	500,000
Linn	1,117,900
Total	5,017,900
Add 15 per cent for the small warehouses and grain still in farmers' hands	752,685
Total	5,770,585

We have no precise estimates from Yamhill county for this year, and have included it in the above calculations, but we remember very distinctly that Hon. M. P. Deady, then and now the able United States District Judge for Oregon, and at this time and for several years past the President of the Board of Regents of the University of Oregon, printed in one of the leading newspapers of this State one or more articles, the main purpose of which was to prove that the arable land and grain yield in Yamhill county was equal to that of Linn. If this be so we have a grand total of 7,289,185 bushels. But assuming this estimate to be too large, we have no hesitancy in saying that the yield in Yamhill will be equal to that of Lane county, and we have a total of 6,520,585, and it must be remembered that this is, approximately, what these counties now yield—not what they will yield as soon as increased and cheaper facilities for transportation shall have reduced to cultivation in grain the large tracts of land in this valley now lying idle and as yet unfenced. But the time is rapidly approaching when all these lands must be cultivated and must add vastly to our annual production. What that amount will be we have no means of estimating at the present time, but it must be very large.

We may be permitted to add that farmers and producers of this valley and of Eastern Oregon as well, regard with peculiar favor and interest the proposed Oregon Pacific Railroad, with which your name and that of Col. Hogg have been connected. When completed that road will furnish a cheaper and quicker line of transportation to market for the productions of this valley than either of the present roads or the Willamette river, or all combined.

We are, with great respect,

Yours most truly.

ROTTEN SOPHISTRY.

The Oregonian of last Monday said that the Chinese "fill a place in our industrial economy which otherwise would not be filled at all," and then went on to argue that it was because white girls will not work in kitchens. Why will they not word in kitchens? Simply because the introduction of Chinese labor has brought the price so low that no white woman or white man can make a livelihood at the wages given.

The Oregonian's arguments are those of a sophist who is on safe grounds, because it is backed by capital, but those of the Caucasian race who ask for bread demand that a stronger argument than that paper has offered shall be made before the white workingmen of this country will submit to the introduction of this degrading labor.

PERSONAL.

Hon. H. H. Gilfry spent last Sabbath in this city, and was the guest of Messrs. J. H. Hackleman and M. V. Brown. Mr. Gilfry is now Reading Clerk of the U. S. Senate, and is compelled to hasten back to Washington to be in time for the convening of Congress next month. Henry is the same genial, warm-hearted gentleman we have known him to be from boyhood, and we are glad to see that he is among the few that have in no way been corrupted by life at the nation's capital.

ORGANIZATION.

So work the honey-bees, creatures that by a rule in nature teach the art of organization to a peopled kingdom.
—Shakspeare.

And so did the Democracy of Linn work in the November election, and thereby brought the Republicans to confusion.

OREGON is close.

THE FUTURE OF THE DEMOCRACY.

The following article from the San Francisco Examiner of the 6th inst. is so admirable that it should be pasted in every Democratic scrap book:

"The Democratic party is not a creation of the hour. It was not born yesterday, nor will it die to-morrow. Its principles are as true now as they ever were, and the need of their application to the good government of the country, strong as it is at this period, will increase and strengthen as time wears on. The party lives, and will live, because it represents truths that are immortal. If by any mischance we were temporarily to abandon the principles we have inherited, we should but prove ourselves recreant heirs to a property of which we were altogether unworthy, and soon a nobler and better race would arise and call us accursed, to scorn our tergiversation, and to take up and bear aloft the standard we had so discreditably abandoned.

It is true our party has suffered a defeat, that, whilst it is very far from dishonoring us, it in no manner ennobles our opponents. But what of that? There are many essentials to a great party, not the least of which is the capacity to bear a reverse with equanimity. We may search for the causes and endeavor to advantage by the lessons they teach. That is the common-sense duty of reasonable, sentient beings. To go further, and declare ourselves weary of carrying a standard that does not lead us to immediate victory is to avow the disloyalty of the standard-bearers, but is no reflection upon the glory of the standard.

No. There is no abandonment of the old ship. We may strengthen the crew, lengthen the spars and renew the sails, to the end that we may be better prepared to take advantage of every favoring breeze, and here and there an officer or two may have to be changed, a better look-out may have to be kept, and a more experienced sailing master appointed, and one or two of the crew, inclined to mutiny, may have to be put ashore at the most convenient port. But these are matters pertaining to the discipline of the officers and crew, and the better navigation of the ship, and are very remote indeed from any idea of abandoning her. Those who cry "danger" and beg of us to take to the life-boats and secure refuge in yonder vessel that has happened, during the recent fine weather, to outsail us a half knot, are sirens who would lure us from the staunch ship that has outlived many a gale, and who would deceive us into a flimsy craft that may founder during the heavy sea that may arise.

Ours is, and of necessity must be, a Government by party. Under our system nothing yet devised by the mind of man can safely replace the principle of party rule. That is so obviously true that it seems a waste of time and energy to argue it. Yet the wiseacres of the Republican press are busily engaged just now in offering gratuitous advice that we should give up our organization and join theirs; that the South should divide and join those who wellnigh overwhelmed her States with debt, and ruled them by means of bayonets and carpet-baggers; that Northern Democrats should become Republicans, and grow fat upon the fleshpots of Egypt; that the lion should be permitted to lie down with the lamb, and that a young child should be invited to enter a tricecock's den. Fools! Know they not that a healthy opposition is to a Government what it is to trade; it secures a better article, promotes economy, and is the best guarantee against fraud. Pooling gains by tradesmen means inferiority of goods, high prices and unchecked swindling. The pooling of all issues by rival political parties would mean the loosing of the Treasury, the taxing of the people to death, a division of the spoils and finally the downfall of the Republic. A strong opposition is even more necessary to the country than is a strong Government. We may get along without much danger, with a party in power that is not very resolute in its purposes; but nothing but mischief can come from an opposition too weak to resist that corruption towards which all popular governments tend. In short, the very life and soul of a Government like ours consists in having a resisting party, strong enough to prevent the ruling party from carrying out designs not approved by the people. If government by the people, through the people, and for the people, were as clearly and intelligently understood as it ought to be, we should feel ashamed to offer these very obvious truisms. But that it is not so understood, is very apparent from the very general appeals of the Republican press to which we have alluded.

In England the party out of power is considered as much a part of the Government as that which is in power. The former has come to be named "Her Majesty'y Opposition," by reason of strong sympathy with, and approval of, the very substantial service it renders in reviewing, criticising and restraining "Her Majesty's Government." Change the words "Her Majesty" into the grander majesty—"the people"—and you have precisely the state of things which ought to exist here, where party rule is no less essential than in the older country, after which we have in a large measure modeled. There was a time when the opposition here was exceedingly weak. The Grant regime was supported by the entire North and it compelled the support of a considerable portion of the South. What came of that period? Southern States were almost ruined by debt, bayonets were at the throats of men too weak to resist, and they had to submit to the sight of strangers taxing them into debt and making away with the proceeds. The North was little better off. Two hundred and ninety million acres of the public domain were given away without consideration, millions of subsidies were voted to great corporations, and a reign of corruption ensued which gave us the Credit Mobilier, our Belknaps, Babcock's, Boss Shepherds, and many more like corruptionists, and the country was powerless to stem the strong current of evil that had set in, until a tidal wave at last gave the second party strength enough to be effective for exposure and opposition. He who does not highly estimate the value of a strong restraining party in this country knows not the necessities of the government under which he lives.

The Democratic party is still a power in the land, and its power will inevitably increase. No bad legislation can be proposed that it cannot absolutely defeat by reason of its majority in the Senate. It can also refuse to confirm bad appointments, and may thus measurably preserve the civil service pure. Its power in the House of Representatives so nearly equals that of the Republicans that little, if any, harm can be done. Representing one-half of the people of the whole nation, it has only lost the Presidency by the vote of one State, in which it was defeated by hardly more than one per cent. upon the total vote, and that only apparently by fraud. To say that such a party needs to disband, or to be disheartened, or to do other than preserve the even tenor of its way, undismayed by defeat, is to talk nonsense that merits alike the contempt of Republican rule and Democratic opposition.

It would be a sad day for popular government when the oats are forced to give up all hope of ever coming in. The prize of power is that for which statesmen contend. Indeed, it is that which makes statesmen. Without it public men would soon become banditti, with no higher ambition than to unite in a raid upon the Treasury.

The Democracy has done great things in its time, and it has yet a grand future. It lives and will live."

SALARY BILL AND USURY LAW.

There is inquiry made about the matter of the laws passed at the late Legislature regulating the salaries of Clerks and Sheriffs, and also regulating the rate of interest in this State. Neither of these laws having an emergency clause, they could not go into effect, according to the Constitution, before ninety days had expired after the adjournment of the Legislature. Therefore they will both take effect and be in force on the 23d day of January.

These are two important measures, and it is much to the credit of the Democracy of Linn that Senator Bilyeu and Representative Chamberlain were enabled to press these acts to a consummation. The fact is, all reformatory measures that passed the late Legislature originated with Democrats and were pushed to conclusion by Democrats. The foolish Republicans quarreled themselves and gave cudgels into the hands of the Democrats with which to beat their own brains out.

ALBANY CITY ELECTION.

Let Democrats remember the election of municipal officers on the first Monday in next month. The Republicans are hopeful because of the fact that they last year elected a Mayor. This is no proof of their power. Personal popularity will go a long way in the matter of the selection of city officers, and as Albany has always been debatable ground, the strongest man will win.

Democrats have it in their power to carry the election and add their mite to the crowning victory that we achieved over the Republicans in Linn at the November election.

Let every Democrat sink his own personal prejudices in this master and Albany will be as solid as Old Linn!

FOR SHAME!

Aristotle says "dignity consists not in possessing honors, but in deserving them." And yet see how far General Grant has departed from that rule. He has forgotten the high position that he would have occupied before the American people, if he had kept out of this political contest, and has sunken himself to the lowest depths of a pot-house politician.

HOW CONSISTENT.

The Oregonian was last year a free trade organ and opposed to Chinese labor. Now it is for high protective tariff and says that Chinese labor is necessary! Rather a comfortable sheet—isn't it?

DEMOCRATS took the Oregonian, believing that it was in favor of Chinese restriction, and now it says that Chinese labor is necessary here!

UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

We have heard a great deal said about the violation of the law and constitution by officers and judges. These complaints are usually made in the loudest manner by parties who are guilty themselves of the charge or lack an opportunity to qualify themselves for it. Having referred to the unconstitutional payments to the judges our attention is called to another case of much importance. It is this: The modest demand allowed Judge Deady for hearing State cases was put into the appropriation bill, and when that bill was under discussion it came out that if the bill passed it would in that particular be unconstitutional. This appropriation bill can contain nothing but salary and current expense accounts. It cannot contain provisions on any other subject. The constitution expressly prohibits it. It is not a current expense to pay Judge Deady five hundred dollars per day or any other sum for doing scarcely nothing. This should have been paid, if paid at all, by a special law. We are curious to know if Judge Deady will take money from the State which he is not entitled to under the constitution of Oregon, to say nothing now of the imposition expressed in the sum so meekly charged against the State. It is often the case that those men who stand so very erect fall on their back. We have heard of several falls in this direction, and we now wait with becoming patience to record another. We are of the opinion that the constitution will afford no obstacle to taking this money. We take pleasure in saying to such men that what is sauce for the patient goose is also sauce for the voracious gander. This account was put into the appropriation bill at the heels of the session to secure its passage. The unconstitutionality of the measure was understood, but to put it into a separate bill would have reduced it to the legal charge of four dollars per day or defeated it altogether. We shall give the party the full benefit of this unconstitutional draw when made.

MARRIED WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

Following was a bill introduced by Senator Humphrey and passed the Legislature and has since become a law:

A Bill For an act to establish and protect the rights of married women.

Be it enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon:

SECTION 1. All laws which impose or recognize civil disabilities upon a wife which are not imposed or recognized as existing as to the husband, are hereby repealed; provided, that this act shall not confer the right to vote or hold office upon the wife, except as is otherwise provided by law; and for any unjust usurpation of her property or her natural rights, she shall have the same right to appeal in her own name alone to the courts of law or equity for redress that her husband has.

SEC. 2. Henceforth the rights and responsibilities of the parents in the absence of the parents shall be equal, and the mother shall be as fully entitled to the custody and control of the children and their earnings as the father, and in case of the father's death, the mother shall come into as full control of the children and their estate as the father does in case of the mother's death. All laws and portions of laws inconsistent with the foregoing are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its approval by the Governor.

This is a just and proper law. There is no reason why the wife should not have equal rights with the husband; and in fact, when it comes to a question of guardianship and management of children, the maternal, and not the paternal guardianship, should apply.

This law in no manner favors the doctrine of the prancing women suffragists, but simply emancipates married women from disabilities that have heretofore hampered them.

There is no vote given to women under this law. They have simply been given the right to regulate their affairs the same as a man would do under like circumstances.

The Republican Legislature performed one good act in passing this bill, and we are glad that a Republican member from Linn was the author of it.

DEMOCRATS OF OREGON.

We agree with the Standard that the Democrats of Oregon should keep in mind the fact that a U. S. Senator is to be elected two years hence, and a full State ticket. The fight will be an earnest and hard one. The Republicans will go into the contest disorganized and fighting among themselves, and all that is necessary for the Democrats is to remain united—work together and keep out all disorganizing and personal feelings, and Oregon will be placed in the Democratic file for all future time. The people had a full dose of a Republican Legislature, which will last for several years.

(Portland Standard, 9th inst.)

GOOD ADVICE.

SALEM, Nov. 8, 1880.

Editor Standard:

We are of the opinion that it is the duty of all good Democrats to stop the Oregonian. Democrats, why will you support such a vile paper, when it abuses and vilifies you from day to day? Let me say stop it, and that speedily, and don't you forget it! Make up your minds to take only Democratic papers, and thereby sustain your own men and build up your own cause; never give aid to the enemy, but spurn them as you would poison.

CAN'T HELP IT.

Ralph Waldo Emerson says: "With consistency a great soul has nothing to do. He may as well concern himself with his shadow on the wall."

Perhaps that rule would be well to apply to the Oregonian—and yet one can't refrain from spanking even that sort of consistency occasionally!

EDITORIAL CHIPS.

THE Pacific coast has repudiated Hayes.

WITH solid organization the Republicans will never again be heard from in Linn.

ALL around us Republican, and yet Linn stands solid. Organization is what did it.

IF the Republicans had about five more papers in Linn they might be able to carry Shedd Precinct.

IF free trade was right eight months ago, how is it that protection is right now? We ask the Oregonian.

IF Hayes had stayed a week longer on this coast there would have been no question about its solidity for Hancock.

DIRT is not dirt, but only something in the wrong place. This is a maxim for Republican papers to remember when they assault Democratic papers.

OREGON, from 1600 Republican in June to nearly nothing in November, is pretty good. Give us another rattle at the Rads and we will knock the persimmons.

"GOSPEL RIDGE," (West Albany) with 84 majority, having never gone Democratic before, should certainly have that banner. It is a gain over the June election of 114.

NEW YORK TO BE INVESTIGATED.

The following dispatch shows that the Democracy of the country are not satisfied with the frauds in New York, and that the matter will be properly investigated:

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The following circular letter, signed by Wm. A. Fowler, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic State committee, was issued to-day:

Reports of fraud in the elections held in this city and Brooklyn on the 2d of November are such that, if the frauds reported are established, the electoral vote of this State will be cast for Hancock and English, and steps for thorough investigation are now being considered. Meantime we hand herewith a blank form of protest which you will please execute, varied in substance according to circumstances, and hand in to the county canvassers as early this week as possible, not later than Thursday the 11th inst.

The form of the protest is as follows:

The undersigned hereby protests against the allowance of the vote cast for Presidential electors at the election held November 2, 1880, at (name of place as canvassed), and returned by the board of county canvassers of said county, for the reason that (state facts in detail. We respectfully request that this protest may be attached to the return of such vote, that we may not be considered to have, by silence, acquiesced in these acts.
