TO OUR PATRONS.

Many of our patrons are in arrears for one, two, three and even a greater number of years, and having dunned them through the paper until we are tired of it we will in a few days start out a collector with bills, and we respectfully ask that those knowing themselves indebted to us will be ready to settle We greatly need the money with which to carry on our business and to make some needed improments on the paper, and we trust our patrons on whom we have waited so long and patiently will cheerfully and promptly pay up.

Sudden Beath of Mrs. Jas. H. Foster.

Last Monday morning our community was shocked at the announcement of the sudden death of Mrs. Jas. H. Foster. It seems that she had gone to the house of Mrs. Russell, to sit up with a sick child-a niece, we believe. At twelve o'clock at night she administered the usual potion of medicine to the patient, and sat down in a chair near the couch, announcing to the invalid that she would try to sleep for a short time. Something near an hour elapsed, and the patient becoming thirsty, called to Mrs. F. to give her water. To the call there was no response, and the invalid becoming alarmed made a noise which aroused other members of the household, when it was discovered that Mrs. Foster was sitting dead in her chair, her spirit having quietly fled without noise and without the knowledge of any one. It was a sudden and a painful shock to the estimable family to whom the news was swiftly conveyed. The daughters, Misses Maggie and Mattie, and the second son James, were in Portland, but came home on Monday morning's train, only learning of their mother's death while still on the cars. It was a sad event to the stricken family. and we feel that their anguish is too great for feeble words from us to assuage. We realize that great grief makes sacred those upon whom its hand is laid. Joy may elewate, ambition glerify, but sorrow alone treads ground too consecrated for lip or pen service to allay. In this case the family have amelioration in the knowledge of the gaperior excellence, the wifely devotion, the motherly care and the Christian virtues which have so conspicuously adorned the character of the deceased.
