

The Democrat.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1881.

Those who know that Hunt, Secretary of the Navy, will be succeeded by Judge Thomas Scott of Florida.

GRITZAU has been notified that the Grand Jury will begin an investigation of his case next Monday, and he will be arraigned and tried immediately.

As the next Senate will be a tie Senator Bayard says the Democrats will demand and receive without resistance an equal representation on the committees.

POLITICIANS in the East, who claim to know, says that Jas. G. Blaine will have to step down and out of the cabinet to make room for the great national bummer—U. S. Grant.

AFTER Arthur took the oath of office at Washington, on Thursday of last week, the entire cabinet tendered their resignations. He would not accept their resignations, and asked it as a personal favor that they would continue in the discharge of their usual duties. But this is not final, and some of them will have to travel.

Dr. A. L. Lamb, who held the knife in the post mortem operation, says the bulletin report of the autopsy issued by the surgeons, was correct and true. Nothing was held back or concealed. The wound was necessarily fatal. The attempt of several doctors outside to revive the professional war over the president's case, is pronounced ill-timed, and the effort to create a sensation out of this affair has fallen rather flat.

COLLECTOR Robertson, of New York, evidently doesn't want to lose his position. At the head of a deputations from the Union League he called on Arthur last Sabbath and expressed his wishes for the success of the administration, promising his hearty and cordial support. It is no use, Mr. Robertson, your head is sure to fall within a twelve-months. To be successful in New York the "starwarts" must have the Custom House, and as you are known to be a Blaine man, you must go.

NO CONTINUING OF VIOLENCE.

Applaud and sympathy for the soldier who fired at Galtzau are misdirected.

Try Galtzau fairly; punish him to the full extent of the law; but the life of the humblest citizen, and of the worst man, when he is secured in close confinement, should be as safe from violence as that of the President.

This soldier instead of doing a good service, has brought a stain upon the name of his country.

A NOTED OREGONIAN.

Donald McKay, chief of the Warm Spring Indians, is visiting in Columbus, Ohio. An exchange says he weighs 200 pounds and is 45 years of age. He bears upon his body eighteen wounds, received in various Indian battles while in the employ of the government. He speaks English, German, French and Spanish, and Indian tongues. He was a scout for Grant in 1855, and he was a second lieutenant for George B. McClellan when the latter was a captain, exploring Oregon and Washington Territories. He has acted as interpreter in every Indian treaty made west of the Rocky Mountains.

SENATOR LAFAYETTE GROVER.

The newspapers of Oregon are congratulating Senator Grover on his recovery from what was thought by his friends and physician a year ago to be an incurable malady. We join in those congratulations most heartily, says a Washington lawyer called the National View, for Mr. Grover is one of the best men in the United States Senate; a genial, cultured gentleman, with more of the qualities of a sound statesman than are usually found in members of that body. But we also feel called upon to extend our congratulations to the physician through whose scientific skill he was rescued from the terrors of that dread disease known as cerebral meningitis, which had become chronic. This was M. Cora Bland, M. D., wife to T. A. Bland, the well-known financial writer and orator. After having sought in vain for relief at the hands of eminent male physicians, and at various watering places, the Senator put himself in the professional care of this scientific woman in November last, under whose treatment he steadily improved, and two months ago he returned to Oregon in a condition of health no less surprising than gratifying. This case furnishes a striking illustration of the fitness of women for the practice of medicine.

McMinnville warehouses are all running up to their fullest capacity, and all have been running more or less that day and night during the past week. Their receipts in aggregate are probably from 8000 to 10,000 bushels per day.

FREE TRADE.

In answer to the question as to what he meant by Free Trade, Chas. McAdam gives the following in the Free Trade Bulletin.

Friends, if you ask us what we mean by Free Trade, and what we want to accomplish, we reply: We do not expect or intend the immediate abolition of Custom-houses or Customs duties. Some of us think that will become desirable, others among us do not. But we are all agreed that a thorough revision of the present tariff is called for by every consideration of justice, and by every motive of public interest.

We want a law which will benefit both consumers and manufacturers—by admitting raw materials substantially free of duty, and by making a corresponding reduction in the duties on articles manufactured from these raw materials.

We want a tariff which will no longer tax all the people of America who work in brass or copper, and the still larger number who use the products of their work, to enlarge the gains of a few rich men who own the copper mines of Michigan. We would admit copper ore free of duty.

We want a tariff which shall not tax every carpenter and builder in America and consequently every man who lives in a house, for the benefit of the owner of the forests which cover the hills of Maine, Vermont, Michigan and Northern Wisconsin. We would admit timber free of duty.

We want a tariff which shall not tax every man who has a child's carriage or a plated spoon, or a bicycle, for the benefit of the owners of one or two nickel mines. We would admit nickel free of duty.

We want a tariff which shall not tax every man who lives in a house, or builds one, for the benefit of the monopolists who make American screws and realized enormous profits by the exclusion of foreign screws. We would reduce the duty on screws.

We want a tariff which shall not tax every man who runs on a railroad, for the benefit of a few men who monopolize the manufacture of rails in this country. We would reduce the duty on steel rails.

We want a tariff which shall not tax every man whose child goes to school and writes on a slate, for the benefit of a few owners of the slate quarries of Vermont. We would repeal the duty on unmanufactured slate.

We want a tariff which shall not tax every man who reads a newspaper, or a book, or writes a letter for the benefit of a few who monopolize the manufacture of wood pulp. We would admit rags, paper stock, bicarbonate of potash, free of duty.

The list is endless. The present tariff is a bundle of jobs, conceived in sin and brought forth in iniquity. To revise it, to simplify it, to make it fair and just, is what, here and now, we mean by Free Trade.

Our cause is the cause of the people against monopoly which, in America, is created by a tariff on raw materials. We do not want against domestic industry; we do not propose violently to sweep away vested rights. We do not propose to break the bonds that shackle our industry and prevent it from competing fairly with the markets of the world.

We have no wealthy corporations, no enormous fortunes gained by unjust and partial taxation, behind us. We rely for success on the justice of our cause, the intelligence of the American people, and the blessing which the great Ruler of Nations never fails to bestow on a sincere and earnest endeavor to do right.

WHO WILL COME AND HELP US?

AN EXTRA SESSION OF THE SENATE.

Dispatches from the East now state positively that an extra session of the Senate will be called by the President, for the purpose of filling the vacancy in the Supreme Bench caused by the death of Judge Clifford, and the appointment of other important officers. When the Senate convenes the first thing in order will be the election of a Vice President, and as the Democrats have the majority they have named Senator Bayard for that office. He is the senior senator in point of service of that party and the custom of promotion by seniority is rarely disregarded by the senate. No other democratic name will be proposed or suggested. There are some republican senators who maintain that the presidency of the senate and secretaryship should not be conceded to the democrats, that there is no mandatory law requiring a president to be elected before new senators are admitted and that republicans should contend for these offices. There are, however, a number of republicans who agree with Senator Dawes that the law governing the case gives the advantage to the democrats, and that it must be observed. A Secretary will also have to be elected, and this will at last settle the little fuss the half-breeds are having with Gorham. A Democrat will get the place and Gorham will again take a back seat.

SPECIAL SESSION OF SENATE CALLED.

The following proclamation has been issued by the President: WHEREAS, Objects of interest to the United States require that the senate should be convened at an early day to act on such communications as may be made to it on the part of the executive, now therefore, I, Chester A. Arthur, president of the United States, have considered it my duty to issue this proclamation, by declaring the extraordinary occasion to require the senate of the United States to convene for the transaction of business at the Capitol, in the city of Washington, on Monday the 10th day of October, at noon of that day, on which all who shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body, are required to take notice. Given under my hand and seal. CHESTER A. ARTHUR, President. J. G. Blaine, Sec'y of State.

AUTHOR'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Arthur's address at taking the oath of office at the Capitol was as follows: For the fourth time in the history of the republic, its chief magistrate has been removed by death. All hearts are filled with grief and horror at the hideous crime which has darkened our land, and the memory of the murdered president, in protracted sufferings, his unyielding fortitude, his example and achievements, his life and pathos, and his death will forever illumine the pages of our history. For the fourth time the officer elected by the people and ordained by the constitution to fill the vacancy so created is called to assume the executive chair. The wisdom of our father's foreseeing even the most dire possibilities, made sure the government should never be interrupted because of the uncertainty of human life. Man may die, but the fabric of our free institutions remain unbroken. No higher or more assuring proof could exist of the strength and permanency of the popular government, than the fact that though one chosen by the people be struck down, his constitutional successor is peacefully installed without shock or strain, except the sorrow which mourns the bereavement. All the noble aspirations of my lamented predecessor, which found expression in his life measures, devised and suggested during his brief administration, to correct abuses and enforce economy, to advance prosperity and promote the general welfare, to ensure the domestic security and maintain friendly relations with all nations of the earth, will be garnered in the hearts of the people, and it will be my earnest endeavor to profit and to see that the nation shall profit by his example and experience, and prosperity bless our country. Our fiscal policy is fixed by law, is well grounded and generally approved. No threatening issue mars our foreign intercourse, and the wisdom, integrity and thrift of our people may be trusted to continue the undisturbed career of peace, tranquility and welfare. The gloom and anxiety which has enshrouded our country must make repose especially welcome now. No demand for speedy legislation has been heard and no adequate occasion is apparent for an unusual session of congress. The constitution defines the powers and functions of the executive as clearly as those of either departments of the government, and he must answer for the just exercise of the discretion it permits and the performance of the duties it imposes. Summoned to these high duties and responsibilities, and a profound consciousness of the magnitude and gravity I assume the trust imposed by the constitution, relying for aid upon guidance and the virtue, patriotism and intelligence of the American people.

THEIR OLD COMRADE.

Wm. H. Needham, editor of the News at Sigourney, Iowa, pays the following tribute to the memory of his deceased friend and comrade, Mart V. Brown: Gen. Mart V. Brown, editor of the States Rights (Oregon) Democrat, published at Albany, in that state, died August 24, 1881. Mart was an Iowa man, having lived in Oskaloosa as early as 1855. He commenced his trade in the Oskaloosa Herald office under Needham & Beardsley, in 1856, and done the "devil" work for an editor when he was succeeded by the editor of the News, in 1857, and in 1858 H. C. Loughton commenced to learn his trade in that office. Mart enlisted in Capt. John H. Warren's company "H", of the 3d Iowa, and served in Uncle Sam's army. He worked for the Albany Union office with the editor of the News in 1859. After the war he married Miss Etta Stewart, of Albion, and soon after went to Oregon. Shortly after arriving in Oregon he went into the newspaper business, and soon went to the front. He was a sharp and pointed writer and soon became known to the state over. He was elected State Printer and served four years in that capacity. He was General of State Militia, and distinguished himself on one or two occasions, when the troops were called out to suppress the rebellious connections by the Indians. He was bold and fearless, and anything he undertook to do he went through with without fear or favor. He was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention held at St. Louis. He visited Iowa but once after he left it, and that was when he went to the National Convention and the Centennial. He was a prominent man in Masonic circles in Oregon. He leaves a wife, mother, and brother in Oregon, and one brother in Oskaloosa—John E. Brown. Mart was a self-made man, having no money, and had to work hard for everything he got, but he had energy, and that was all that was necessary to make something of himself. He was thirty-eight years of age. The bereaved wife, mother and brothers have the sympathy of all who know the deceased.

Geo. R. Lee, editor of the Republican, published at Montezuma, Iowa, speaks of him thus:

"He was one of a company of boys who started life as printers together. Of the company he has been as successful as any, perhaps more so. He was an uncompromising Democrat, and the only one of the company, yet the friendships of boyhood were never allowed to be forgotten because of political differences, and I daily now regret reading the news of his death more than his old chums who have many times wished him a long and prosperous life. All he had of the former was blessed with the latter. We, with others of that company, will drop a tear to his memory, and silently whisper requiescat in pace."

Long & Birmingham, of the White river cheese factory, are running on full time, and turning out a large quantity of cheese. Their factory will close up in about six weeks for the present year. This factory consumes about 6000 pounds of milk daily. Some of the farmers who furnish milk, after their contract with the factory expires, will turn their attention to butter making, claiming that their is more money in it for them.

PEW AND SCISSORS.

The North Carolina Republicans are talking of calling themselves the anti-prohibition party. POLICEMAN Jordan of Philadelphia, described as "a republican who always votes the straight ticket," has resigned because he couldn't stand a nigger. A democratic mayor had appointed four colored men to serve as policemen, two of them in Jordan's district.

The officials to be elected in New York in November are a secretary of state, a controller, a state treasurer, an attorney general, a state engineer and surveyor, and an associate judge of the court of appeals. There are also to be chosen congressmen to fill vacancies in the ninth, eleventh, twenty-second and twenty-seventh districts, thirty-two state senators and 128 assemblymen.

The Mississippi Republicans have fused with the greenbackers, and the combined forces have nominated for governor a renegade Democrat, who is now a greenbacker of the Solon Chase stripe. Of course our valued Republican contemporaries in New England will bitterly denounce the unholy alliance. Of course.

VIRGINIA is just entering upon the hottest political campaign in her history and the result is by no means fore-shadowed. It is to be a hard and close fight between honesty and dishonesty, but we hope for the best. The repudiation of the state debt on the one side, and an honest payment of the same by the other. We are pleased to know that the Democracy have placed themselves on the honest side, while the Republicans and "all sorts" make up the repudiation. We think honesty the best policy in all cases.

Our colored cadets seem to be very expensive institutions. Lieut. Henry O. Flipper, who was the race issue at West Point till he graduated in 1877, and has since been on the Texas frontier, has just been arrested by Col. Shafter in command of Fort Davis, as he was about to skip into Mexico with $4000 or $5000 of government money. Flipper was commissary of the Post. He had $5000 on his person and his horse saddled for flight when arrested.

THERE is no such "liberal South" as the northern press essays to picture. There is a new and liberal South that has stood at the grave of slavery and whispered "rest in peace" that bows to the constitution and the laws, as it ever bowed, that yearns for a union in spirit as well as in letter, that wishes the widest possible freedom of thought and criticism, and recognizes the equal interest of every man in good government. The South plants herself on the broad bedrock of Democracy—liberty, security and economy. She believes in the sac principles in their widest applications.—[Savannah News.]

ONE REPUBLICAN JOURNAL—The Baltimore American—has distinguished itself by speaking out boldly, on the high ground of principle, against the Virginia alliance. "Nothing but disgrace, dishonor and defeat," it declares "can come of such an unholy compromise of principle; we would rather see the old party go down like the little Cumberland at Hampton roads, with its flags flying, than see it triumph by trucking to a false and vicious sentiment." And it warns the Republicans who favor this alliance, on various pretexts, that "to tolerate the repudiation of state debts is to invite the repudiation of the national debt." It has no patience with the time-servers who have labored to persuade the Virginia Republicans to touch this pitch, on the chance of cleaning their hands afterwards, and declares that "honesty is the best policy in politics as well as in business."

PACIFIC COASTERS.

The Junction City mills have put out sacks for 170,000 bushels of wheat. The tax levy for Clackamas county for the ensuing year is 21 mills on the dollar, divided as follows: State, 4 mills; insane asylum, 1 mill; war bonds; 3 mill; school, 3 mills; current expenses of county, 12 mills.

It is estimated that 27,000 cords of wood have been used this year in burning charcoal for the Oswego iron works. About 150 Chinamen are regularly employed in cutting and burning the wood and 30 white men are engaged in hauling it.

White river farmers will not obtain a full yield of potatoes this season, owing to the fact that in many places blight has invaded their fields and killed part of their crops. While the blight is not generally prevalent, its presence in many localities will materially reduce the crop this year. The dwelling house of Messrs. Shadrick and Milton Richards, situated about one mile from Miller's mill, on the Nestucco, was burned on the 13th, together with all its contents and appurtenances. The property embraced house, shingle shop and tools, a lot of shingle bolts and eight thousand shingles; household furniture, a good lot of provisions, about all the best clothing belonging to the owners and sixty dollars in silver and greenbacks. A box containing a small purse of gold was all that was saved.

Several hundred persons in the northwestern precincts of Yakima county have signed a petition asking the incoming legislature to create the county of Cascadia, the lines of which will be the Cascade mountains on the west, the Columbia river on the east, the Wenatchee river on the north, and the Natchez and the survey line between township 14 and 15 on the south. These limits include an area of about 4000 square miles, the center of which is the beautiful valley of Kittitas, other precincts being Swank, Peshastin, Wenatchee, Wenau, Upper Natchez and Upper Yakima. Ellensburg aspires to the honors and emoluments of county seat, and in case of the petition's granting will undoubtedly receive them. In fact, the petition asks the location of the seat at that place. The interests of the new county will be quite diverse, consisting at present almost equally of agriculture, quartz mining, lumbering and miscellaneous pursuits, nearly one fourth of the population being engaged in each.

ANDREW BAZAR FOR SEPTEMBER 11.

This number of this sterling journal surpasses anything in the line of fashion papers ever attempted in this country. In addition to its regular contents, with this number is presented a superb lithographic plate, representing Mrs. Garfield, the Empress of Austria, the Queen of Spain, the Princess of Wales, the Queen of Italy and the Princess Louise attired in the latest Parisian Fall costumes. This costly feature is an earnest of the expressed purpose of the publishers to so perfect Andrew's Bazar as to make it emphatically the best paper of its class extant. We would advise our readers to examine the handsome presentation offered also made in this number. Published by The Queen Publishing Company, W. H. Andrews, Manager, New York, to whom 10 cents can be sent for sample copy.

LEBANON ITEMS.

LEBANON, Sept. 28th, 1881. Ed. Democrat: Friday evening the people of our quiet village were shocked to hear of the falling of a bridge on the Narrow Gauge railroad, and that our townsmen A. L. Kell had been killed. As soon as it was possible, some friends went to the scene of disaster and brought the body home. He was buried on Sunday. The funeral was conducted by the Odd Fellows and a large concourse of people followed him to the grave. He leaves a wife and child too young to realize the loss now, but the poor grief-stricken wife, may she have strength given her to endure this great trial. She has the heart felt sympathy of the whole community.
