

Farm & Garden.

THE FARMER'S LOT.

At a "Laid Long Spine."

Around the social board once more, We tillers of the soil...

Chorus. Two and all are welcome here, Where labor's sons unite...

The yeoman labors not in vain From rise to set of sun...

For us, the sheaves of golden grain, Not in the woody brier...

And raised by toll of falter hands, And our dear cottage doors...

Stern winter vainly vents his ire To check the farmer's ardor...

Give us the farmer's humble lot, Leave the grandeur to the great.

Daniel Murphy of Halleck Station, Cal., is the largest private land owner in the country...

Wool buyers are paying thirty to thirty-five cents per pound for wool at Montpelier, Vt.

An American cheese bore away the prize of a silver medal at the late great cattle and dairy show at Birmingham, England.

Prof. Brewer of New Haven questions if all the money won at agricultural fairs pays more than half the actual expenses of the winners...

Commercial bones contain about 3.6 per cent of nitrogen and 23 per cent of phosphoric acid...

Mr. Gladstone, in a recent speech, made a good point for the English to consider. He told his audience that they imported 65,000,000 worth of fruits yearly from abroad...

As to sowing wheat which has been sown and sown before, we have Prof. W. J. Beal's testimony in substance as follows: He found that while the plumule lived the young roots always died by drying, and new roots must be sown at the same growth...

A commission was lately appointed in Belgium to test the comparative merits of skimming milk after standing, both by following the ordinary method in porcelain pans and also in specially constructed pans...
