

POSTMASTER GENERAL JAMES WILL resign his position on January 1st, on account of private business.

The gap in the Northern Pacific Railroad between Oregon and Montana is now about 700 miles, and it will almost be closed during the coming year.

GEN. JOE JOHNSTON now accuses Jeff Davis of appropriating to his own use about $2,500,000 which belonged to the Southern Confederacy at the close of the war. Jeff will probably write a book on it.

An old government scout says there is no doubt there will be a general uprising of Indians on the plains next summer. A man might just as well prophesy that we would have rain in Webfoot during the winter.

BUTWELL has been tendered the position of Secretary of the Navy, but it is understood that he declines, and asks for an appointment as Circuit Judge in Massachusetts. Wm. E. Chandler will probably get the place offered Butwell, and the Secretary of the Interior will either be Sargent or Chaffee.

HORACE GRAY, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, has been nominated as successor to Justice Clifford in the Supreme Court of the United States. As Justice Gray is a man of known ability and purity of character his nomination is well received by everybody.

The dispatches says that a capital of about $20,000,000 invested in manufactures, threatens to leave the state of Illinois because the railroad commissioners prohibit railroads from making special rates for large firms. Oregon is a large state, so that there is plenty of room here for them if they will only come.

AMONG the bills introduced in the House on Wednesday last week was one providing for the restoration of the Klamath Indian reservation to the public domain, with a proviso that the rights of present settlers to make homestead or pre-emption entries shall date back to the time of actual settlement.

THE Anti-Monopoly League of New York makes the statement that on the occasion of the late election in New York it placed nineteen candidates for the State Senate on a black list, because of their adherence to protectionist theories. Out of the nineteen thus opposed only three were elected. Candidates for the Assembly did not fare any better.

SENATOR SLATER has presented a bill in Congress to divide up the Umattila Reservation, giving the head of each Indian family 160 acres; to each single person over 18 years of age, and each orphan child under that age, 80 acres; each child under 18, not otherwise provided for, 40 acres. The balance of the land is to be appraised and sold to actual settlers. The bill is a good one and we hope to see it pass.

ASTOR, the New York millionaire who tried to buy a seat in Congress, after his crushing defeat concluded to take a European tour. It isn't fashionable to sail for the Old World in November, but he doubtless thought anything was better than reading the comments on his corrupt campaign work. He will probably come back a firm believer in the virtues of a monarchical form of government.

THE only argument that ever was worth a cent in favor of a protective tariff is that our laborers should be protected against the "pauper labor of Europe." Then why in the name of sense do not the protectionists prohibit the importation of European laborers. That is the short and only way to protect laborers in this country; any other protection is pocketed by the favored capitalist.

THE post office (court) organs all over the country are wonderfully changed in opinion since the "court" changed. They all claim now that the stalwart Vice President, Arthur, who was mean enough to follow Conkling in a bitter fight against his chief, Garfield, over official spoils, is one of nature's noblemen and always loved the President and all the half-breeds. They claim that there is now no longer any factional fight in the radical party, or, in other words, that Garfield said it would, "unite the Republican party."

AWALWAY REVEAL.

Colonel McClure of the Philadelphia Times, who has been spending some time at the National Capital, says: "There is now a stalwart revel in Washington. The man who lipped the praises of Garfield when he came into power, and the men who spoke of his suffering and probable death with tremulous voices, are not heard in the hotels, nor in the streets, nor in the Departments. His sun has set, and the faithful worshippers of the Capital who have praise for every present ruler, and contempt for every ruler of the past, now speak of Arthur as the savior of the party—the statesman of the age—the candidate of 1884."

This Christmas Festival is upon us. A word of its history will not be out of place. The twenty-fifth day of December was fixed upon in the fourth century as the day of Christ's nativity. This solemnity was celebrated at an earlier period in the month of April and May. But upon a full investigation of the time the theologians of the East and West agreed upon the 25th of December, since which time this day has been celebrated as one of the noted of Christian festive days. During the middle ages it was celebrated by the gay fantastic spectacle of dramatic mysteries and moralities performed by personages in grotesque masks and singular costumes. The scenery represented an infant in a cradle, with the Virgin Mary and St. Joseph standing close by. There was a custom of singing canticles or Christmas carols, which recalled the shepherds sang at the birth of Christ. The bishops and the lower clergy often joined with the populace in carolling and the songs were enlivened by dancing and by the music of tambours, guitars, violins and organs. Fathers, mothers, sons and daughters, mingled together in the dance. If in the night, each bearing a lighted wax taper in his hand. These customs prevailed as early as the fourteenth century among the Welsh, French, Germans and English. It is the custom still for the Calabrian minstrels to come down from the mountains of Naples and Rome and salute the shrines of the Virgin Mother with their wild music under the poetical notion of cheering her until the approaching Christmas. At dead midnight before Christmas the bells are rung throughout England and the continent, a collision being partaken of by the midnight revellers, that they may the better sustain the labor of the night. In Germany and north Europe Christmas is often called the "children's festival" and Christmas Eve is devoted to giving presents. A large yew bough is erected in one of the parlors, lighted with tapers, and hung with manifold gifts. The donor's name is never marked on them. When the whole family are assembled the gifts are distributed amid joyful acclamation and congratulations. As soon as this is over the good mother takes occasion to say privately to the daughters, and the father to the sons, what has been observed most praiseworthy and what most faulty in their conduct. The different modes of celebrating Christmas are very singular and peculiar to the people adopting them. But Christmas day has always been at once a religious, domestic and merry-making festival in England. This often continues until Candlemas (February 2nd). The latter is filled with caps, hens, turkeys, ducks, geese, beef, mutton, pork, puddings, ants, etc.

Old England was merry, England when Old Christmas brought his sports again. 'Twas Christmas broached the mightiest ale; 'Twas Christmas told the merriest tale; A Christmas gambol would cheer A poor man's heart through half the year.

The common custom of decking the houses and churches at Christmas with evergreens is derived from ancient Druid practices. It was an old belief that sylvan spirits might flock to the evergreens and remain untripped by frost till a milder season. The holly, ivy, rosemary, hays, laurel and mistletoe were the favorite trimmings. These are the favorite trimmings with us in this country. These were not removed till Candlemas. Chaplets of these were worn about the head, hence the phrases "Kiss under the rose," "whisper under the mistletoe," etc. Many were the superstitions that surrounded this day. The famous Hawthorne in the churchyard at Glastenbury Abbey, which always budded on the 24th, and blossomed on that day, has with many other mysterious observances passed away. These celebrations have lost their boisterous features, and gambols and carols are nearly gone. Family reunions and evergreens are nearly all that remain. In the United States it is celebrated after the style of the old country. The Gorman, the Frenchman and the Englishman infuse into the occasion much of his own custom. It is so with those from all nations that celebrated Christmas. It is with us a legal holiday, and is celebrated with church service and exchanging Christmas cards, presents, trimming houses and churches with evergreens and imitating the German custom of Christmas trees. Dinners are the social feature of the day. The day will be celebrated with great interest and pleasure and we hope all may enjoy it after the traditions of their fathers. We wish all a "merry Christmas."

On Saturday last the trial of R. A. Hawkins (self-styled Colonel), for larceny by bailee, was had before Judge Boise and resulted in the acquittal of the prisoner. The evidence of the witnesses, says the Times, was unfavorable to Hawkins, but the jury seemed to consider his offers to dispose of his property only the vapors of an imbecile and consequently brought in a verdict not guilty. Wonder if the Republicans will ever import that individual again to stump for them?

LAQUINA BAY AND RAILROAD NOTES. We hear from the Bay that work is going rapidly on in the preparations for constructing the railroad wharf and warehouses. We learn that the vessels will lie alongside the wharf in 18 feet at lowest low water, with a level mud bottom, and still have upwards of a quarter of mile of water opposite, varying from 24 to 40 feet in depth, for them to turn round in. The average rise of tide is seven feet and eight-tenths. The spot selected is entirely sheltered, and affords facilities for extending the wharfage alongside the deep water to any necessary extent. Our readers will remember that an hour's towage, or less, will take the ships from alongside the wharf to the wide ocean. There does not seem to be then a very wide scope here for the exertions of a pilotage and towage monopoly. On Wednesday, the 7th of Dec. the schooner "Emily Stephens," from Portland, entered Yaquina Bay, fully loaded, under sail, at dead low water. She came in without the least trouble and was safely secured alongside the wharf at Newport before the inhabitants had finished breakfast. We expect next week to get the exact draft of the "Emily Stephens" on this occasion. Our authority for the above facts as to the ship is Mr. Polhemus, U. S. Engineer. He is now in Portland preparing his report of the past season's successful work.

The mill yard at Onetta is stacked full of lumber for the flat cars and box cars for the railroad, and yet but a small portion of the number to be provided for is yet completed. This car lumber is of the finest quality, clear and level, and all cut from the biggest size of logs that the mill can handle.

In the reports of the blast that almost daily reach them the inhabitants of Corvallis have pretty good evidence that the rock gang on this side of the summit is busily at work. We mention this fact to re-assure the editor of the Willamette Farmer, who has been telling his readers that his "fall" is "dampened" and his "ardor," "cooled" by virtue of reports that all works have been stopped and that there is no money with which to carry on the work. We should be very much concerned that the virtues of the Farmer should be so weakened without any good reason just when after a severe course of incredulity, he had announced himself a convert to belief in the success of the Oregon Pacific.

THE NATIONAL DEAD BEAT.

Not content with innumerable presents the great Ulysses now wants to be placed on the retired list of our army. The stalwarts are standing in with him and if they can ship in the half-breeds may accomplish what they desire. Logan, of Illinois, introduced the bill, which reads as follows: "Be it enacted, etc.—That on account of the services of Ulysses S. Grant general of the army, the president be and is hereby authorized to nominate and by advice and consent of the senate, appoint him to the army with the rank and grade of general, to be placed on the retired list with pay accordingly. All laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are suspended for this purpose only."

A GOOD MOVE.

Senator Grover has introduced into Congress a bill to give Lieut. Fred Schwatka full pay for the time he was absent on the Franklin search expedition. He should have it, as he saved the government untold amounts by returning, leaving no excuse for an expedition to be started out in search of him.

EX-SPEAKER RANDALL AND M. CARLISLE OF KENTUCKY MUST HAVE A VERY POTENT SPELL OVER SENATOR SHERMAN.

He has accepted their scheme of a three-per-cent bond and attempted to steal their thunder before they could possibly have an opportunity to use it themselves. He has introduced a three-per-cent Refunding bill which Hayes vetoed.

THE JENNETTE, WHICH WAS LOST IN THE NORTH AMERICAN POLAR EXPEDITION OF 1879, HAS BEEN DISCOVERED FOUR HUNDRED MILES NORTH OF SIBERIA. ALL ON BOARD WERE WELL AND FULLY PROVIDED FOR.

TO THE PUBLIC.

J. A. Gross, proprietor of the depot hotel, keeps one of the best public houses in the State. His rooms are kept scrupulously neat and clean, and on his tables can be found the best food the market affords. Parties going off on the morning train can get coffee and cakes or an entire breakfast before the train leaves. Hereafter the hotel will be kept open all night for the convenience of the public.

SHALL WE HAVE LAW AND ORDER? The many expressions which find utterance in the so-called respectable newspapers in regard to Guitau and what should be done with him, are enough to lead us to inquire: Are we a nation of murderers? Take for instance the following from the Oregonian: "Everything in this world may be abused. Reverence for the sanctity of law may, in extreme cases run into absurdity. The present time affords an instance of it. In the trial of Guitau the law is compelled to witness a sickening farce. The trial shows that the law, in its present state, is not fit to deal with a crime so extreme and atrocious. In such cases the only thing necessary should be a motion for a sentence of death, which should be executed right speedily. But a long 'trial,' with its disgusting details taken place—though there is not a single doubt on any point, nor a single fact relating to the murder to be developed. Such is the enormity of this crime, the detestable character of the assassin, and the farcical nature of the legal proceedings, that people and press have very generally expressed a 'quest' approval of the steps which have been made to put an end to the worthless life of the damnable monster. But some say this is a lawless spirit, which cannot be encouraged without the gravest danger. Here then is one of those extreme cases before spoken of, and fortunately rare as extreme, where reverence for the sanctity of law runs into absurdity. The taking of this accused scoundrel, as his crime is a parallel to that of men for three hundred years, would be no precedent for disregard of violation of the law in any other conceivable case. There is only one thing to be done, and that thing is to destroy him, as men would destroy any horrible monster; and it matters little or nothing how, when or by whose hand it is accomplished."

The effect of such ideas, if they influence any one, will be twofold. 1. It will encourage the criminal classes to commit crime. 2. It will encourage the friends of law and good society to become more diligent in seeing that good men are placed in responsible positions. Suppose that the man who wrote the above were in the place of the man before whom Guitau is now being tried? If such were the case, although a violent presumption, there would be no enforcing law. The most sacred rights of the Constitution would be trampled upon, brute force would prevail and the crime of assassination would be encouraged.

A judge has but one course to follow and that is a strict adherence to the law. If Judge Cox could violate the law in order that Guitau should be hanged in that case he could with equal propriety do so in any other. "Reverence for the sanctity of law" never was and never will be run into absurdity. There are unrighteous laws, but that does not justify any Court in violating his sacred duty to disregard them in any case. It would be far better if Guitau should go unhung than some, than that the law should be trampled upon by a Judge to court popular favor. The trial of Guitau is not "a sickening farce." The Editors that are continual y howling about the conduct of Judge Cox show that they are ignorant of what they are talking. The Oregonian says "there is not a single doubt on any point." Long before the trial began his counsel declared that Guitau was insane. If he was insane in point of fact when he committed the deed, what name can be given to him? Would it deter other insane men from committing crime? Not at all. The assertion in the above that "there is only one thing to be done and that thing is to destroy him" no matter "how, when or by whose hand it is accomplished," only indicates how utterly insignificant some people are. The thing referred to has not been done. The Court before whom he is being tried has thus far shown himself to be a fair and honorable man. The "taking off"—in other words the murder—of the prisoner has not taken place and there seems to be a good prospect that law will be enforced and the Constitution violated, notwithstanding the opinion of the Oregonian. I quote the following from the Oregonian of Dec 15th only to show how extremely wild some persons can become. It may not prove to be very injurious as not one law-abiding citizen in the land would endorse it: "The discovery is now claimed that two jurors acting in the Guitau case are disqualified, and that this fact will invalidate any verdict which the jury may render. The story is a doubtful one; but should it prove true it will only be the more necessary for the person who is to ride the world of the devilish monster to hurry up the business. The only possible thing to be done with the accused wretch is to prepare his wife carcass for the earth, and then to inhume it as quickly as possible. How it is done, when, or by whose hand, matters little. Mankind has no interest in him but to destroy him, or to know that he is destroyed. The law, in its present state, cannot deal properly with such a miscreant, and therefore is not entitled to respect. The only thing necessary in such a case should be to bring the detested scoundrel before the court to receive the sentence of death. A 'trial' for such a crime is a burlesque of justice and an outrage upon mankind. The scenes enacted in the court room at Washington are not for enforcement of justice, but for perversion of the law so as to secure immunity for the assassin. The civilized world is disgusted at the spectacle, and nine-tenths of the American people would express their satisfaction any moment if they could hear that this infernal wretch's brains had been blown out, within Judge Cox's court or out of it."

FROM PINE CREEK.

PINE CREEK, NEAR ROSALIA WHITMAN COUNTY, Dec. 12, 1881. I do not know whether you have any correspondents from this region of God's moral heresy or not, but I'll venture to pen a few words and take chances on it reaching the waste basket. I have seen but a few copies of your valuable paper, since we landed in this northwestern territory, which was in March last. And we have not regretted our step in seeking a home in this country, so far, in fact we rather like the change. We see a good many "old Linnetts" scattered over this portion of the territory. In fact it appears that Linn and Laue counties have sent half of the Oregon emigration to this country. And I think, Farmington and vicinity has her quota of Linnetts. This thriving little "burg" is situated on South Pine creek, about two miles south east from the junction of it with North Pine creek, and on the main road running from Colfax to Spokane. It is 30 miles north of Colfax, 23 miles north west of Farmington and twenty miles south east of Cheney. It consists of one store called a variety store, (J. M. Whitman proprietor), one blacksmith shop, one hotel and one livery stable—constituting the city of Rosalia. There is scarcely any Pine timber on the creek from here up to Farmington, but down here there is considerable timber. About all the government land adjoining this place is taken, but there is plenty of railroad land at $2.00 per acre. Plenty of water in shape of springs, and as for grass, any amount of fine quality as you will find anywhere in this country. There is but very little stock here, but about 15 miles west and south west there is plenty of stock of all kind. This country has been exaggerated to the highest pitch, in regard to the yield of grain per acre. We went around with a threshing machine for about six weeks and we only saw one piece that made over 30 bushels of wheat per acre, and the most ranged from 20 to 25 bushel per acre. The oats about the same as in the Willamette valley. There are a few rich bottom pieces that produce well, but take it on an average it does but a very little better than "old Webfoot."

ITEMS FROM MILLERS.

MILLENS, Dec. 20th, 1881. Seldom seeing the columns of your valuable paper troubled with the doings of this portion of the country I will venture to offer the following, and if found valuable you can consign it to the waste basket. This part of "Old Linn" is in good spirits and moves along in its usual healthy and prosperous style. A Christmas tree at the school house is the excitement at present. Mr. Duggar has been "working up" the "Herald" in this neighborhood this past week. The silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Fisher will occur on the 27th inst. Mr. Thomas, who has been visiting her mother Mrs. Henry, will return to her home in California in a few days. The public school under Mr. L. A. Stalon closed one day last week, the school having decreased to four scholars. The directors concluded to hire the aforesaid teacher to quit as an inducement for him to do so offered him a reward of eleven dollars which he accepted. A series of protracted meetings, conducted by Rev. Hollenback, of Albany, have been in progress for

A very pleasant social party was held last week at the residence of Mr. W. H. Talbot. Quite a number were present. Games and plays were the order of the evening. Refreshments were served, to which all did justice after which the pleasures of the evening were engaged, till the clock announced the twelfth hour of the night, when all turned their faces homeward expressing themselves as having passed a very enjoyable evening.

We had the pleasure last week of meeting T. L. Duggar Esq., Mr. D. comes in the interest of the "Herald" and he seemed pleased to meet any who wished to subscribe for this paper. Miss Dorcas Johns, of Marion, was a guest in Solo last week. Christmas is near at hand and such a supply of holiday goods was never brought to our town, all are well supplied and all are buying. A meeting has been held to perfect arrangements for a rousing time on Christmas Eve. A good program is already completed. Nothing has been left undone that would add to the pleasure of the evening. Also an opportunity will be given to all who trip "the light fantastic."

made the counsel for prosecution as urged above is the most diabolical suggestion of all. To say that mankind has no other interest in Guitau or any other poor unfortunate being, sane or insane but to destroy him or to know that he is destroyed is a monstrous libel on humanity. It is not true in point of fact. The editor of the Oregonian may stoop that low, it does not follow that the mankind does so. The Oregonian says "the law in its present state cannot deal properly with such a miscreant and therefore is not entitled to respect." We deny it. The law is simply able to do justice to it. It is no fault of the law if it is shown that the man is insane. That man is a brutal murderer at heart who would excite a mob upon a poor unfortunate insane man. What shall be said of a man who declares that the laws of his country are not entitled to respect merely because it refuses to allow such men as the editor of the Oregonian to take a victim and "destroy" him, if matters not right, without trial, without the right to make a defense and in violation of all the sacred rights guaranteed to him by the constitution. The article again closes by encouraging its colleagues in assassination by asserting another falsehood: that nine-tenths of the American people would express their satisfaction any moment if they could hear that this infernal wretch's brains had been blown out within Judge Cox's court or out of it. No sir! We had leave to differ with you. Nine tenths of the American people are not assassins. On the other hand they would rejoice to see justice prevail. These miserable cowardly assassins who are threatening lives of innocent men who are employed to see that the law is vindicated in this case, are greatly in the minority when nine-tenths of the American people speak out on this subject. We say if Guitau is shown to be an insane man care for him as you would for any other insane person, if he is not insane and was not insane on the 2nd of July last when he shot President Garfield, let him be hung according to law and not otherwise. There are only a few persons who can lawfully judge of his mental condition. Those only can do so who have heard the evidence and are capable of judging from it as to his sanity or insanity. In any event let no man, however thirty or may be for the blood of his fellow man, dare to trample upon the sacred rights guaranteed to us by the constitution and laws of the land as the writer to whom we have just referred declares should be done.

some weeks and several converts reported. Hon. John T. Crooks, one of the oldest and among the first settlers of this part of the country, is now a resident of Kilkittat W. T. Look out for a wedding song here soon. It is said it will be near the store, and about New Year's is the time. The singing school in charge of Prof. Dougherty is a complete success. The Professor has gained a reputation as a teacher of vocal music and won many friends in this place.

RECEIVED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of Wm. J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1871 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my flesh and appetite. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctor said I had a hole in my left lung as big as half a dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars on doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. Wm. HALL'S BAL-SAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I began to feel better. My cough, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have for past three years."

Holloway's Pills and Ointment. —Wrecks of Humanity.—Indiscretions of Youth.—No object is more soul appalling than the premature sensibility of youth, daily witnessed among the habitues of our public promenades, where may be seen the terrible results of disease in its most frightful forms of the ghastly and cancerous wreck of manhood, the included victims of unprincipled scoundrels, who, by pernicious nostrums, have impregnated the systems of their unsuspecting and confiding patients with mineral poisons. For all kinds and impurity of blood consequent upon such imprudence, Holloway's Pills and Ointment are powerfully efficacious, being composed of rare balsams and vegetables that are antagonistic to all disorders of the blood, and cures arising from virus in the body. They contain not a particle of mercury or other mineral poison. 191. IMPERIAL CAUTION.—None are genuine unless the signature of J. H. HOLLOWAY, surrounds each box of Pills and Ointment. Boxes at 25 cents each and $1 each. There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes. HOLLOWAY & Co., New York, 671.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

For the speedy cure of consumption and all diseases that lead to it, such as tubercular coughs, neglected colds, bronchitis, hay fever, asthma, pain in the side and chest, dry hacking cough, sticking in the throat, hoarseness, sore throat and all chronic or lingering diseases of the throat and lungs, Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal and has established its reputation upon such irrefragable evidence. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is higher and more complete than any other. The clergy and the press have complimented in the most glowing terms. Go to your druggist and get a bottle free of cost, or a regular size for $1. where he can find the most worms, and farmers should act on the same principle when they buy their goods. JAMES L. COWAN, of LEBANON, has just returned from below with a mammoth and complete stock of General Merchandise, which he bought at such low figures that no establishment in the county is able to undersell him. He makes no specialties, but has EVERYTHING YOU WANT! DRY GOODS, HATS, CAPS, BOOTS, SHOES and an extra stock of the best quality of GROCERIES. DONT BUY UNTIL YOU GO AND SEE HIS STOCK AND LEARN THE PRICES. WHEAT AND OATS. He will pay you the highest price for your wheat and oats and will pay it in cash.

some weeks and several converts reported. Hon. John T. Crooks, one of the oldest and among the first settlers of this part of the country, is now a resident of Kilkittat W. T. Look out for a wedding song here soon. It is said it will be near the store, and about New Year's is the time. The singing school in charge of Prof. Dougherty is a complete success. The Professor has gained a reputation as a teacher of vocal music and won many friends in this place.

RECEIVED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of Wm. J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1871 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my flesh and appetite. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctor said I had a hole in my left lung as big as half a dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars on doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. Wm. HALL'S BAL-SAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I began to feel better. My cough, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have for past three years."
