In James Boss' Patent Gold Watch Cases, this waste of precious metal is overcome, and the same solidity and strength produced at from one third to one-half of the usual cost of solid cases. This process is of the mest simple nature, as follows: a plate or nickle composition metal especially adapted to the purpose, has two plates of solid gold soldered one on each side. The three are then passed between polished steel rollers, and the result is astrip of heavy plated composition, from which the cases, backs, centres, table dies and formers. The gold fa these cases is sufficiently thick to admit of all kinds of chasing, engraving and enamelling; the engraved eases
