The celebration of this time honored day began early Tuesday morning with a rousing thunder storm. Peal upon peal, surpassing the roar of any cannon ever manufactured was heard and streaks of lightning flashed through the sky in a manner to make human fire works appear small enough. This was our celebration in Albany, with the exception of the bursting of a few insignificant fire crackers.

At Lebanon an immense time was had four packed our loads going from this city to help make the eagle scream. An account of the celebration there will be found in the "Lebanon Notes" in another column.

At Scio everything went off in apple-pie order, the rain having little influence on the peoples enjoyment of the day. Crackers were fired and eaten, and a big noise made generally. An ox was barbecued and eaten by the hungry spectators.

On the morning of the 4th Mr. W. S. Peters accompanied by his wife, two children and Mrs. Jay Blain, were on their way to the china wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Marks, this side of Lebanon, behind the saw-mill, when it again became frightful and ran, or else ran because it was in them.

As the buggy was a single seated one Mr. Peters had little room to use much force in stopping them; besides they are a very tight bit of team. Consequently they had their own way, and dashed along with their precious load at a mad rate.
