THE PRIZE RING. THE practice which seems to obtain in nearly all eastern cities of professional price fighters deliberately appointing time and place when and where two of these number will meet to engage pommeling and slugging each other for wages of large sums of money seems to grow more fashionable every day. Formerly the willing spectators to such scenes of brutality were drawn altogether from the slums of society. The ignorant and the vicious alone seemed to drink in the brutal pleasures of such a contest. But of late days the respect able and cultured citizens of Boston and New Xork, are wont to congregate at the places where two muscular men meet to test their "knocking-out" qualities. While boxing, wrestling and other athletic exercises are as unobjection able as rowing, base-ball, or other innocent sports, yet prize fighting should not be tolerated in any respectable community. The effects of such customs upon the minds and morals of the young men who are thus brought into contact with such brutal practices are damaging beyond calculation. We o the North have been unspairing in on denunciations of the brutal practice of dueling in the South, while we scarcely enter a protest against the prize ring which is as pernicious as dueling itself The brilliant crator who holds his audience spell bound seems not to attract so large an audience as the prize fighter When this brutal practice is willingly witnessed by the intelligent, the culturad, the christianized, then indeed is it the duty of public teachers to sound the cry of danger, and call to halt those who by their superior intelligence and civilization, are by their example lead-
