

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President,
GROVER CLEVELAND
of New York.
For Vice President,
THOMAS A. HENDRICKS
of Indiana.
For Presidential Electors,
A. C. JONES of Douglas county,
L. B. ISON of Baker county,
W. D. FENTON of Yamhill county.

The independent voter is very rarely a fool. He reads, and thinks, and observes.

Forty of the Republican newspapers which have bolted Blaine have a circulation of 1,720,000.

Blaine has an iron man to raise the money and a star router to spend it.

The Fort Worth Gazette has information that the girls at Vassar will devote the winter to parsing Logan's letter of acceptance.

The Massachusetts Independents prefer baked beans to crow. They are all for Cleveland and honest government.

The Portland Advertiser and the Portland Sunday Times, both Republicans, will hoist the Cleveland flag.

It is claimed that Cleveland has no record. Mr. Blaine is certainly not troubled in that way, in fact he has more record than he wants.

The Boston Herald estimates the strength of the New York Independent Republicans who will vote for Cleveland, if nominated, at 40,000.

Gov. Cleveland, says the Graphic, was hard at work when he got news of the nomination. "By jove!" he said, "is that so? Well, we will finish this work, anyhow."

Butler finds that he is not quite so big a man in the Democratic party as he used to be in the Republican party. He had better go back. He will be of more use to Blaine than to anybody else.

The Independent Republican convention at New York on last Tuesday at which were delegates from N. Y., Mass., N. H., N. J., Ct., Md. and several other states resolved unanimously to vote for presidential electors who will support Cleveland. This disturbs Republicans very much and is looked upon with alarm by the far-seeing ones of the party.

The Rochester Express, a leading Republican paper of New York, in declaring its inability to support Mr. Blaine and the tattooed ticket, says: "No party has a right to demand of its members that they shall do violence to profound convictions. No party has a right to assume that a majority which demands no office, and presents no candidate, and gives reasons for its intended action, will brand itself with insincerity on the minute's notice. The American people believe that suicide is one of the inalienable rights of every political organization and they who furnish the corpse should be allowed to boss the funeral."

Evidence accumulates that the revolt against Blaine is hardly less threatening in other parts of Massachusetts than in Boston and its vicinity. Several members of the Republican city committee of Newton have resigned because of their opposition to Blaine, three members of the Republican town committee of Concord have done the same thing, and there was so much difficulty about filling their places that the matter was postponed to a future meeting, a member of the West Boylston town committee has resigned for the same reason, and a like cause is reported from Gloucester. Such facts as these show a widespread demoralization among the plain voters outside the metropolis of the state.

General business throughout California opened with a boom last spring and it was predicted on all sides that the year would be one of great prosperity; but the flattering prospects of the spring months have not been realized, and business, both in and out of the city, is very dull. The disastrous floods in the southern part of the State, and damaging rains the whole State over, are main causes of the but it is, in part, in consequence of distress too exalted hopes in too spring and extravagances growing out of them. Failures are reported by the half dozen almost every day, and while, for the most part they are for small amounts, the aggregate is large. While the fruit and grain crops will be considerably short of expectations formed three months ago, they will be above average in quality, and as soon as the crops are marketed a season of better times will certainly set in. The loss of the Northern business or the greater part of it, has fallen heavily upon the wholesale trade, and it is predicted that it will not fully recover for several years; not, in fact, till the general growth of the country compensates for the large Northern business lost.

SILLY.

In an exciting political campaign many silly things are said by those who are promoting and supporting the election of their favorite candidates. But the silliest and silliest things we have yet met are to be found in the Chicago Tribune in support of Blaine. Note the following: "The reason for bass fishing opened in this State Tuesday of this week, and Mr. Blaine with many others improved it. He is unusually skillful with the rod, and is accustomed to taking long strings of fish."

"The grounds belonging to the Blaine mansion are quite extensive and surround it on every side but one. The lawn is covered with a thick matted growth of grass, which is kept snugly mowed. Immediately in front of the residence the grass is entirely trodden and the bare earth appears. The many visitors moving back and forth have brought this about. In the rear of the house is a large garden, which furnishes the family with necessary vegetables in their season. The Fourth of July Mr. Blaine dined on green peas from his own vines."

"Mr. Blaine is finding time for a few days just now to put in some effective work on his book, and is devoting several hours each day to the labor."

"Mr. Blaine and family attended church to-day, as is their custom. The Rev. E. K. Cressey, of the Tremont Temple, preached. Mr. Cressey is writing a biography of Mrs. Blaine, and is in the city getting material."

Now since we have learned that Blaine is "skilled with the rod," we see no longer any reason to continue to hold out for Cleveland. It would be a great misfortune to the country to elect a man president who was not "skilled with the rod." Again, we are gravely informed that the lawn around the Blaine "mansion" is "kept snugly mowed." This is highly important, and one of the indispensable qualifications of a good president. How few men in all the land have these two essential qualifications for the presidency. We are also told that "immediately in front of the residence the grass is entirely trodden and the bare earth appears." This we are told was caused by the many visitors moving back and forth. How thoughtless and careless must Manning and other friends of Cleveland have been to have not seen to it that his lawn was snugly mowed. Then, too, the faithful writer of the above has not failed to tell of Mr. Blaine's garden, out of which he actually gathered peas on the Fourth of July. Think of it! Think of the great risk we ran of electing a president who did not have peas of his own raising for his dinner on the Fourth. There are probably not more than ninety-nine out of every hundred farmers in Oregon who also had peas of his own raising for his Fourth of July dinner. This is only a part of the boasted record of James G. Blaine. In due time we will doubtless get the balance of it.

THIS.

Our contemporary of the Herald quotes an extract from the Yolo, (Cal.) Mail, in which that paper gives a list of so-called Blaine Democrats, and a list of "intensely Democratic" papers which, it says, will support Blaine. To show that this is an attempt on the part of the Mail to deceive, we call attention to the list of papers named. The Philadelphia Times is one which it calls "intensely democratic," and which it says will support Blaine. Now, the Times is not "intensely democratic," nor in fact democratic at all, neither does it support Blaine. We receive the daily Times at this office, and are pleased to inform the Mail and our contemporary of the Herald that it throws all its immense influence to the support of Cleveland, and enthusiastically asserts that 100,000 Republicans in the doubtful states will support Cleveland. The Georgetown Gazette of Cal. is another one of the list, but it is also put down in the newspaper directory as independent. The Irish World, of New York, is another in the list, but it is notably a greenback labor and Land League organ. Now of the others in the list we have no knowledge, but as the Mail misrepresented the matter as to those mentioned above, the inference is fair that it has done so as to the others in the list. The Republican press will find it very unprofitable campaign stock if it attempts to build up Blaine's waning fortunes by giving lists of Democrats and Democratic journals that support Blaine, for as an act-out Democrats can find twenty Republicans or Republican papers that support Cleveland to one Democrat or Democratic newspaper that supports Blaine.

FOOTSH.

We notice an article going the rounds of the Republican press to the effect that George Jones, the editor of the New York Times, who bolts Blaine and supports Cleveland, is an Englishman, and therefore might be expected to bolt Blaine. But these Blaine Republicans fail to notice the fact that this same Jones supported Grant, Hayes and Garfield, and that in the estimation of these journalists was at that time a good Republican and good citizen of the United States. This is a very weak and ineffectual way of warding off the blows which the Times and other independent papers are dealing out against Blaine.

That frightful scourge, the cholera, carrying off thousands of victims in the south of France.

AS TO ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES.

It is to be regretted that those who control the sending of associated press dispatches could not divest themselves of their partisan prejudices and devote themselves exclusively to the legitimate business of transmitting news, and when sending political news let it be sent fairly, fully and truthfully, and without regard to party prejudices. We read assurances some days ago in an editorial in the Oregonian to the effect that from now on both parties would be treated fairly in this matter, and we were thus led to believe that a new leaf had been turned in the matter, and we refrained from saying some things about the matter that needed saying. We now feel called upon to call the attention of our readers to two points which show the unfairness of associated press news. The first is the report sent here concerning the Democratic convention of Illinois. The committee on resolutions reported a platform containing a reform tariff plank, in which the course of Hon W. R. Morrison in congress was endorsed. It also contained a clause instructing the delegates to the national convention to vote as a unit to secure the adoption of a similar plank in the national platform. This latter clause was, on motion of Carter Harrison, stricken out. The associated press dispatches to the Oregonian stated that all that part of the platform pertaining to the tariff was stricken out, and the course of Morrison was disapproved. This was an attempt to create division and distrust in the Democratic ranks, and the Oregonian went into ecstasies over the crumb of comfort thus afforded it. It will be remembered that when Blaine was nominated, the dispatches teemed with accounts of Blaine ratification meetings in California, but when Cleveland was nominated the dispatches said that the news was received coldly in San Francisco among Democrats, and there was not an account of a single meeting or ratification in the whole state. California papers shows that at the very moment, when the dispatch above alluded to was sent from San Francisco stating the coldness with which the nomination was received at that place, a monster ratification meeting was then being held by fifteen thousand democrats of the Golden Gate City. So these papers show that ratification meetings were held in all parts of the state. Can any one fail to see the partiality and bias in all this? But, with these facts before us, we will candidly confess that we have seen less of this kind of the present in this campaign than has been shown in previous campaigns. Credit shall be given in these columns to whom credit is due.

THE INDEPENDENT.

The Independent Republicans throughout the East, and especially in Massachusetts, New York and Connecticut are as busy as bees and growing in strength daily. In Massachusetts the disaffection among Republican town and city committeemen will necessitate an overhauling of the local party organization before the active work of the autumn canvass begins. The Republican managers are not a little worried over the outlook in the state. In Newton, the banner Republican city, the treasurer and five other members of the ward and city committeemen have resigned. In Cambridge the Republican committee is badly demoralized. Among the resignations is that of the member whose influence in securing financial support was of great value to the party locally. The Concord committee is reported to have resigned bodily after having discussed the situation.

The Hon. John M. Forbes, member of the Republican national committee said to be waiting the progress of events before positively declaring himself against Blaine and Logan. Right after the Chicago nomination Mr. Forbes was filled with mingled indignation and dependency.

If half what is given out at the busy headquarters of the independents is true they hold not only the balance of power but they expect to be the lion in the den. They claim to have received letters from prominent Republicans in Bangor, Portland, Hallowell, Deering, Houlton, and Saco, Me., who write that the anti-Blaine sentiment among the Republicans of the plumed knight's own state will surprise everybody when the state election takes place in September. They claim that Blaine will not be any means have the walkover that is expected at his home in November. Leading Republicans in Cheshire, N. H., especially in the city of Keene, announce that the independent movement is developing remarkable strength.

GREENLY FOUND.

The expedition sent out some time since by the war department in search of Greely and his command in the arctic regions, has been successful. Only five of the twenty-five of the Greely command were found alive, including Lieut. Greely. They were found near Cape Sabine in Smith's Sound, on June 22nd last. The others had, from severity of cold weather and starvation, died.

The hostility to Cleveland comes from the two conspicuous rotten spots in the Democratic party of the country, and the excretion of those ulcers will do it good, for it will beget a flow of sound and healing blood in the system which will produce new strength.

BLAINE'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

Eds. Democrat.
When Binger Hermann skipped over the State telling the people that the farmer was protected by the tariff, that there was a duty on wheat and oats, and all this was done by the good old Republican party, we were convinced that his speech was such an insult to the intelligence of the farmers that he would be beaten two thousand votes, if all of them could hear it. But his speeches were few and far between. But when Mr. Blaine comes out in his letter of acceptance and says agriculture is protected by the tariff, he like Hermann, must think we are all a set of idiots. It remains for the farmers to teach these politicians the first principles of statesmanship. No one knows better than the farmer does, that the United States have always been exporters of grain and broad stuff. Every pound of surplus over home consumption goes out of the country to foreign markets, and these markets are the supports of our farmers. And the flow of cereals or broad stuff out of our country to other nations is as natural and constant, and has been for years, as is the flow of the waters of the Columbia river to the sea. It would make no difference if the wheat of the world was admitted into our ports free of duty, or even if a premium was offered in our markets for foreign wheat, the outflow of American wheat would not be affected by it, nor our farmers injured in the least. The foreign demand makes the price of our wheat and not the tariff. If we consumed all the wheat we raised and foreign wheat could be had for a price below what we could raise wheat at, protection would be legitimate. But the United States has always exported wheat, and the cunning Republican tariff makers know this when they made that tariff. The tariff on cereals was put there to humbug the farmer and afford an opportunity for the political demagogue to put in his work. Does Mr. Blaine not know the farmer never asked for protection on his wheat? Does he not know that, leaving out rice, potatoes, apples, etc., that the United States exported over one hundred millions in value of wheat and broad stuff during the three years immediately preceding the making of the present war tariff? This was our surplus over our own consumption. And look at the exports since the tariff was adopted. We export all our surplus now as then and as we always have. This plank was then put into the tariff law to humbug the farmers, and Mr. Blaine now shows what fools we are if we believe what he says about the tariff protecting agriculture. If there is a duty of 90 cents on wheat per bushel, why don't Mr. Blaine tell the farmers how to get it if the wheat is protected to that extent. Our farmers are selling at a less price and they want the 90 cents if they can get it. They never saw a grain of foreign wheat in this State for sale—still we want the ninety cents. To please the demagogues would it not be well for our farmers to ask Mr. Blaine to make the duty on wheat $5 or $10 per bushel. Let us be humbugged right smartly if at all. So far as protection is concerned or the benefit to our farmers the tariff on wheat or oats may as well be $100 per bushel. It would sound so loud as a Republican act of protection to our agricultural interests. And yet there are Republicans who never inquire into these things, but take them all in from Blaine and others as the road takers in the fly.

But when Mr. Blaine tells us that the tariff helps our agricultural interests, our farmers are intelligent enough to say to Mr. Blaine that he is not now an anti-slavery school teacher on the borders of Mason and Dixon's line, and that the facts in this case must be the subject of a respectful consideration of matters affecting the political condition of our farmers. If this letter is a specimen of Mr. Blaine's statesmanship, the farmers have but little use, if any, for him. These pernicious devices used by politicians to make their schemes successful are what the farmer and wage class must look into more than they do. It is time that they realized that political honesty, virtue and intelligence in public matters are by no means the property of the political expert, though he comes plumed as a knight with his shirt upside down. Mr. Blaine knows that the farmers are not only humbugged, but they are robbed from 30 per cent to 100 by this war tariff. Again he says, this tariff should not be changed unless the Republican party does the work. That the Republican party made it and intends to keep it with its faults and its falsehoods, if it can, we all know. The Democratic party will be first in these matters. It seeks protection to all industries that require this aid, but it does not favor a tariff that will support a legion of political vamps to squander the nation's income. Nor a tariff that is full of fraud and deception. Yes, dear farmers, we are protected by our Republican party in our agriculture, and our wheat goes out of the country at prices far below the duty fixed on foreign wheat that never comes to our market for the reason that we live by exporting wheat and on nothing else scarcely. What the duty is on butter-milk these gentlemen fail to tell us, and yet they no doubt will insist that it is a leading cereal in the market all for the FARMER.

The best harness at J. J. Debrulle's.

AMAZING.

The New York Sun has the following terse but amusing description of an Oregon delegate at the late Democratic convention at Chicago: "The most striking looking man in all the delegations was a long haired, dark complexioned genius from Oregon. He was a perfect picture of the old time Pirate of the Spanish Main." Oregonians would like to know which delegate is referred.

Mr. Blaine says that the people of the United States were 250 years, from 1607 to 1860, in acquiring $14,000,000,000 of property, and that under the tariff laws, this amount ran up to $44,000,000,000 in 1880 and claims for this reason that we should continue our ruinous tariff laws. He does not show that this increase has gone into the hands of a few, making millionaires of them, while the great body of the people have been taxed to thus build up these capitalists. The argument is made to get votes, but it will fail of its purpose.

Blaine cannot carry the full strength of the Republican party to begin with, and his repulsive, rotten record will repel the Independent or detached voters. He is an unclean man, and the people will not have him. To nominate him would be to court defeat. He stands self convicted of prostituting the high offices he has held to build up a private fortune, of co-habiting with corruption for dishonest money. Oh, no; his record would damn him. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Hlop).

The Oregonian quotes an article from St. Louis Evening Chronicle which is very bitter against Cleveland, and says it is from a leading democratic paper. Now the Chronicle is not a democratic paper at all, but is independent. It takes strong ground in favor of John Kelly and that shows that it has some kind of an imaginary grievance. The Chronicle was established by republicans but claims to be independent.

Senator John F. Andrews, prominently named as the coming candidate for congress in the fifth Mass. district, announces that he shall bolt the Republican ticket and support Cleveland. He will resign his membership in the Republican ward and city committee.

General W. J. Legg, Secretary of the Republican State Central committee of Massachusetts has resigned owing to his inability to conscientiously supply Blaine and Logan.

The Independent are still busy buying their Blaine ships behind them.

ON GAMBLING.

Eds. Democrat:
I observe in your issue of the 11th inst. an item under the head of "Plain talk by a plain chap," wherein he was pleased to observe the step taken to suppress gambling in this city. Now, I say, it was a very wise step to arrest two strangers for gambling and have them thrown in jail for 12 or 14 months, when I could name 3 or 4 men, including saloon keepers, harness makers, printers, dog clerk clerks, etc., that gamble every night in the week right under the plain chap's nose, yet they don't come under his vigilant eye, and are allowed to do so without molestation, while two men who are suspect of gambling are arrested and the others allowed to go scot free. An observer would be under the impression that the city gamblers are lambs, lured to their destruction by those two outsiders, (wolves in sheep's clothing,) when, in fact, the boot is on the other leg.

Now, Mr. Editor, I ask, (for the benefit of the community,) that you find room for these remarks in the columns of your valuable paper.

NO MORE BROKEN HINGES, NOR BARN DOORS GETTING OFF THE TRACK!

[PATENTED SEPTEMBER 28th, 1880.]
This cut represents the Terry Wrought Iron Hanger, and section of Wrought Rail, in position. The rail is far superior to any now in use. It never decays or warps, is always in good working order, and snow, ice, chaff or dirt cannot accumulate on the track, as is the case with cast rail. It requires no shed over it, and any one can put it up. The rail is made of one by 3-16 inch Wrought Iron, in six and eight foot strips. The supports are twelve inches apart, and are guaranteed to hold the heaviest door. The hanger has a projecting lip and is used with wooden strips. It cannot get off the track when put up as shown, and will not break.
