NONPAREIL.

The Nonpareil velvet is very desirable for all purposes, as they are very durable and not liable to fade with exposure to the sun, or to spot easily with rain.

The Nonpareil velveteens make elegant costumes complete for ladies, and are equally desirable to use in combinations with silks or satins.

Nonpareil velveteens wear with more ease than the Lyon velvet. It is not so apt to wear in places, and the cost is about one sixth.

I have just received a line of the above Nonpareil Velveteens direct from the manufacturer in New York. Also a full line of ribbons, I think superior to any in this market. Also a cheaper quality of ribbons, in all colors.

That during this weather every path has a puddle. That man who advertises mean business. That the central school building will be dedicated this afternoon at two o'clock.

That it is not too late to put your name on the O. P. subscription paper for a liberal amount.

That it takes money to run a newspaper and all it wants is what is honestly due to it.

That enterprise is a very good antidote to dull times.

That children saw bad seed when they spend their time recklessly on our streets with only hoodlum objects in view.

That the man who needlessly makes a practice of carrying a revolver on his person is pretty sure sometime to use it in a manner to cause his regrets. It is a foolish practice.

Customers holding lucky numbers in N. H. Allen & Co's free distribution of Nov. 2nd, had been presenting them since then, until $70 out of the $100 have been paid.

That the following being the fortunate persons with the amounts which they received: George Patterson, $25; J. L. Wyer, $10; A. J. Fox, $10; Mrs. M. Taylor, $5; Mrs. M. A. Maple, Mrs. J. D. Miller, Fred Lumber, Mrs. M. J. Reese, Fred Webber, Manron Brick, Miss Nancy Hogan and R. Conn, each $2.50.

Parties holding the remaining numbers may be secured all over the state, and will necessarily be slow in presenting them. Those desiring bargains and a chance in the free distribution of January list, a genuine New Year present, should call on N. H. Allen & Co. for their goods. Their stock is complete and prices are the very lowest.

Just what this would mean at a glance many would not conjecture correctly at first. Some would say probably a melancholy affair of some kind, and others a sweet omen, still others an exhibition perhaps of autumn leaves and dried branches.

Those who went to W. C. T. U. Hall Tuesday evening found it to mean a pleasant evening entertainment, with some of the characters of the fall, given by the young ladies of the Y. L. G. T. U. A short program, consisting of Scripture reading, singing, an essay on Autumn by Miss Lily Robertson, a solo about some leaves fading by Miss Annie Mansfield and a reading by Miss Helen Crawford, was rendered, all good. Several games were indulged in, and a repeat of apples and nuts, ordinarily of autumnal nature, partaken of.

The Democrat last week mentioned Frank Hackleman and wife as having started over the Cascade mountains for their home in Eastern Oregon. They got as far as Seven Mile Hill, where they found the state, and will necessarily be coming down wild and fast, with no prospect of abatement. As it would be almost useless to attempt to go on they turned about and returned to Albany, reaching here Sunday. This will in all probability put a stop to more travel over the mountains this year.

Fred Schwaka, formerly of Salem, is planning another polar expedition and will start in a few months northward, intending to reach the pole or to freeze. Good by, Fred, 'tis hard to see thee freeze on the icy slopes of the Arctic, but then it is glory for thee. We drop a tear before hand.

The Albany Democrat is the newest exchange received from that section. A. E. O. Tewas.

Clara Fetter's Lecture. If a great many women on a lecture tour, were to be confronted by a $250,000 diamond they would go off in some corner and have a good, solid cry. Clara Fetter, though, under such circumstances, on last Thursday evening at the Opera House, before an audience of five who had paid and eight who had not, appeared before her, did nothing of the kind, but, instead, delivered a masterly lecture on Col. E. D. Baker, Oregon's Gray Eagle of Mt. Hood. Though the rain beat in torrents on the lead standing roof of the Opera House, Clara Fetter's voice was heard in eloquent strains above it, telling of the life and deeds of the heroic Col. Baker, a man revered by old Oregonians as well as Californians. The writer has heard many of the lady orators of the United States, but none of them surpass, and few equal, Mrs. Fetter. With a commanding presence, a fine voice, good expression, well applied gestures and an easy-at-home, lawyer-like manner, she holds her audience, whether it be a hall or a room, as if she were a queen, and she is not a queen in name only. Among the small anecdotes was one at whose house Col. Baker's wife passed two weeks while her husband was canvassing the State in 1850 and there are many here who remember him well. The memory of Col. Baker cannot better be perpetuated than at the hands of San Francisco's eminent lady lawyer.

City Election. The Albany city election will take place in this city on Monday, Dec. 7th, 1885, when a Mayor, Recorder, Marsh, Treasurer and three Aldermen will be elected, all for two years, but the Marshal and Treasurer will be elected for one year. The retiring Aldermen will be Mr. John Briggs from the 1st Ward, Mr. John Foshy from the 2nd Ward, and Mr. John Ison from the 3rd Ward. The election is an important one to the people of Albany, and it is as important to the city as the primaries are as well attended as the election itself. Dr. J. H. Hill, John Schmeier and G. Burkhart are the Democratic Central Committee in this city, and D. Froman, John Althouse and George Simpson the Republican Central Committee.

To those who have read Charles Lamb, this book will hardly need a recommendation. There are twenty-eight of these essays, making a book of 256 pages. Well, we would recommend everybody to read it, the grave, the gay, the old, the young. Messrs. Foshy & Mason, of this city, keep Alden's publications.

Suit of Charles Hester. On last Friday evening when Mr. Alvin Crothers, living near the railroad in the eastern part of the city went to put on his best suit of clothes, after working in the city during the day he failed to find them. They had been stolen. During the absence of his brother at the funeral of Charles Campbell, some depraved thief entered the house, how is not exactly known, and took possession of the suit, together with $2.50 in the pockets. The clothes were new, having been bought only a short time ago, were of dark material, pants and coat alike, the latter being a sack coat. Any one seeing the suit will confer a favor on society by shooting the wearer, if the thief, on the spot.

The Future. We have received a copy of the "The Future," published at Richmond, Kansas. By the use of Astronomical Mathematics it foretells the weather for the coming month. Following are its predictions in reference to the Pacific Coast: The coming winter will be a very wet one on the Pacific Coast, and part of the time heavy rains will extend as far south as San Diego, and the rains will continue all late in the spring. This should insure a good wheat crop on the Pacific Coast next year. While there will doubtless be patches that will not have enough rain, yet as a rule, the rains will extend far south of the Rocky Mountain range, being of course, most heavy near the coast, west of the Rocky Mountains, and again to the coast range. There will be very heavy snows among the mountains during the winter, and the snow will be deep in the mountains will be still heavier, and will be followed by hard rains that will cause numerous floods, though at great elevations the precipitation will be chiefly in the form of snow, and snow-wilds will be numerous towards spring."

Salmon Fishing at Albany. An Albany man who for salmon took angle, Generally a hook like this double angle: With a line powerful and strong, He catches a sucker about so long.

Before getting home the sucker doted so, Until it became a salmon stretched so.

But his friends who for salmon have been, Know the man has fabricated his grin, And they simply sit and smile and grin.

Got Left. Last Wednesday morning Wat. Mosteth and Harry Noel went hunting for trout to kill some duck or grouse, "being ordered by one of Mr. W. R. Cannon's teams. About an hour and a half after they started the team put in an appearance alone at break neck speed, on our streets, stopping near the Court House, the top of the wagon being well jammed out of shape, the horses completely tired. The arrival of the hunters on foot while after explained matters. The horses simply ran away leaving them behind five or six miles in the country, and they never stopped until they reached Lons.
