WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12th, 1886.
Arrangements for the great Telephone suit are still in progress. Ex-Senator Thurman arrived in the city to-day to assist in preparing the papers. There is something like poetic justice in Mr. Thurman's retention by the Government in the Telephone suit. His friends allege that he has been kept in retirement because he fought corporation, and now he returns to public life to do more fighting of the same kind.

You remember about two weeks since, a Congressional Committee was empowered to investigate the Pan-Atlantic and Bell Telephone affairs. The Republican members of the committee put on their war paint and threatened to make some startling disclosures. Their first step was to ask the Secretary of the Interior and the Atty Gen., what money had been expended by their departments in the Telephone suit. Mr. Lamar replies, after careful inquiry, that thirty-five dollars for printing, etc., was the only money expended in his department, while Mr. Garland says no money has yet been expended in his. Counsel has been retained for the Government suit, but no money has yet been paid the counsel.

In an executive session of the Senate yesterday, Mr. Edmunds presented a protest signed by citizens of VT., against the confirmation of a collector of customs in that State. The objection to him was that he had appointed a deputy whose reputation, it was alleged, was not the best. Senators Beck and Butler thought that was a flimsy pretext and said if every Republican official had been held responsible for all his deputies, there would have been many rejections.

Senator Sherman made an attack in open session upon the President's attitude with regard to giving "reasons" and Senator Edmunds expects to do the same next week. Senator Hoar and others are candidates for the Presidency in 1888 are only waiting for the semblance of an excuse to score the Administration in public. They feel it is high time to arouse the Republicans to the fact that they are actually losing the Post-offices. It is true this is not a great issue, but there is nothing greater on hand just now.

Either willfully or ignorantly the real issue in the pending controversy between the Senate and the Executive has been misstated by certain Senators and certain partisan papers. The attempt has been made to place the Administration in a position which it has never taken. It has been assumed that the President is desirous of concealing his reasons for removal; that he desires to make a distinction between private and public papers, between executive and legislative papers. From his official replies to the Senate through the members of the Cabinet, the clear inference to be drawn is simply this, As the Chief Executive of the Nation he has in his possession certain papers which public interest demands him to withhold.

Expressions of opinion on the subject of the relations between the President and Senate are drawn now on very strict party lines among Senators and Representatives. Both sides appear to recognize the fact that the battle can be indefinitely prolonged.

There is a growing opinion that it is time to consider Presidential nominations in open session. Some say a great step towards true civil service reform would be taken in this way. Nominees can be examined in secret session without being allowed to know the names of their accusers, while on the other hand, unworthy nominations can be confirmed without making any one answerable for the offense. They claim open session will remedy both grievances by compelling the best appointments, and by securing them of a fair hearing before the Senate. And indeed it is an open secret that most unworthy nominations have been confirmed in the past on personal consideration and by foul bargains. There is an unwritten law of so-called courtesy allowing a Senator to decide the fitness of any nominee from his State who had already been dictated by his desire. In this way, a crowd of perjurers, forgers, ballot-box stuffers, thieves, and all manner of infamous characters received high offices under Hayes, as rewards for the great fraud in the science of a cure. It is the only absolute specific for rheumatism. Only 50 cents.

PERSONAL.

One of the celebrities of Florida is "Alligator Platt," who lives in Kissimmee City, and is noted for his exploits in catching alligators. His method is said to be to jump into a stream in pursuit of an alligator, and, if necessary, diving under water for his victim, whom he manages to subdue by getting his fingers in the creature's eyes and then riding him ashore in triumph. Platt claims that he can manage the largest alligators in this manner.

The present Pope takes great interest in the preservation of Roman art treasures, and, so far as his power permits, practically assists in the work. Traveled and travelling Americans will be interested in learning that he has just closed by special order the Sistine Chapel for all public services, the frescoes of Michael Angelo having been reported to him as needing instant repairs and a special treatment.

Of the Democratic Presidential candidates since 1860, McClellan, Seymour, Greeley, Tilden, Hancock and Cleveland, four are dead, while of the five Vice-Presidential candidates, Pendleton, Blair, Brown, Hendricks and English, only two are alive to-day, Pendleton and English. Of the Republican Presidential candidates since 1860, Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Garfield and Blaine, three are dead, while of the five Vice-Presidential candidates for the Vice-Presidency, Johnson, Colfax, Wilson, Wheeler, Arthur and Logan, only three are alive.

CURIOS FACTS.

It is said that the fat from wild ducks not only makes leather pliable but thoroughly water proof.

Main springs of watches break most frequently in the Fall of the year, and watch makers are said to put in more new springs in two Fall months than in all the rest of the year.

A glass bedstead has been made at a Birmingham (England) factory, for a Calcutta millionaire. It is of solid glass, the legs, rails, etc., being richly cut. The King of Burmah also has one.

A writer in a French medical treatise says that refrigeration of the lobe of the ear will stop hicough, whatever its cause may be. Very slight refrigeration, such as a drop of cold water, is said to be sufficient.

Ladies returning from the country may be interested to know that, according to the "Pharm Zeitung," a wash of equal parts of lactic acid and glycerine is an effective and harmless application for "moth" and freckles.

Vital statistics lately published show that in Germany the average life of men has increased during the last thirty years from 41.9 to 43.9 years, or five per cent. In women the increase is given at eight per cent, the advance being from 41.9 to 45.2.

A Western editor has figured out that 1,000,000 dollar bills weigh 2841 pounds. A million 1000 dollar bills weigh just the same, which shows the superiority of paper money to him who carries his fortune in his pocket. A million of money in silver weighs about thirty tons, and one in gold less than two tons.

Once a shepherd, caught out upon the hills by night, built a fire under the lee of a pile of stones that he had topped together. The heat split some of the stones, and in the morning the man saw within one of the cracks a piece of shining silver ore. This happened in Peru, and thus was discovered the mine of the Cerro de Pasco, which has yielded $400,000,000.

This is one of the curious things floating about: Take a sheet of paper, and upon it put in figures your age in years, dropping months, weeks and days. Multiply it by two; then add to the result obtained the figures 3768; add two, and then divide by two. Subtract from the result obtained the number of your years on earth, and see if you do not obtain figures that are well likely to forget.

CONFIRMATION THROUGH A HOLY WRIT.

The following extract from the commercial column of the Oregonian of Feb. 22nd, affords the most convincing confirmation of the claims put forth on behalf of Yaguina Bay and the Oregon Pacific Railroad, in the direction of cheapening prices throughout the Willamette Valley. The only other observations necessary are, first, that instead of "Salem and river points" being in question the deliveries of freight by the new line apply to every town in the Willamette Valley, and from McMinnville to Astland; and second, that instead of "small but slowly increasing quantities of freight," the description should have been, "quantities that have increased eight fold in four successive trips of the Yaguina."

"An advertisement this morning requested valley customers of a local house to forward certain orders to its San Francisco house. This has more significance than is apparent on its face. Certain up river points now get goods from San Francisco via Yaguina at a freight rate of $4, which figure is about the same as the boats charge from Portland. Certain lines can then be forwarded from San Francisco via Yaguina and save the ocean charge between San Francisco and Portland. The steamer is now bringing small, but slowly increasing, quantities of freight via Yaguina for Salem and river points. Portland merchants will demand some concession in order to meet this condition, and are entitled to it. Early action is necessary in order that a certain trade may be retained here." - Corvallis Gazette.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctor said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. William Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I got a bottle, when, to my surprise, I commenced to get well, and to-day I feel better than for three years."

In a recent experiment M. Teller raised 2500 quarts of water in an hour from a depth of twenty feet, with a power generator, simply by the natural heat of the sun.

YOUNG PHYSICIAN.—Your analysis of Red Star Cough Cure is, no doubt, correct. It is the same as that which we lately published of Prof. Grothe, Brooklyn Board of Health, who found the remedy absolutely free from poisons and opiates, and safe and sure. It costs only 25 cents a bottle.

Lady Granville Gordon, whose new departure as a hat and bonnet maker in London has excited attention, is the daughter of Mr. Roe, a Dublin distiller, who has fallen on evil days. Hence the bonnet shop, as Lord Gordon has not, and never had, any money. His grandfather, the Marquis of Haughty, was sold out by the Sheriff, and his brother, the present marquis, had writ out against him for obtaining money under false pretences, but his brother-in-law came to his aid at the eleventh hour and the proceeds were withdrawn.

That brilliant woman, Madame Edmond Adam, whose salon was once the headquarters of bright people who did not bow the knee to Napoleon III., and whose ambition has long been to make of Paris an ancient Athens and of France a Greek republic, is again agitating the question of visiting this country and investigating the sources and aspects of New York society. With her perfect detestation of Wagner, whose music, she says always reminds her of the tramp of Bismarck's soldiers across the fields of France, she will be interested in noticing the American triumphs of the great composer.

The late Wendell Phillips appeared to be the only member of the John Phillips family who was particularly distinguished for talent. The father, who was the first Mayor of Boston, was a public-spirited citizen who creditably filled that position. A brother of Wendell, George W. Phillips, was a well-educated lawyer, but little known to the bulk of our citizens. He was, like his distinguished brother, a handsome man, of tall, elegant figure and dignified presence. It seems a little singular that these gentlemen, so healthy and well developed, should not have attained very old age. Wendell Phillips possessed the figure of an athlete, and he was noted for the springing elasticity of his step and general motions.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

The Republican party reminds me of the following story. A very inquisitive boy kept teasing his father to tell him how the sea became salty. So his father told him that once on a time a man invented a machine that would manufacture anything and everything that its owner wanted but would not stop unless stopped by its owner. In time salt became scarce and a rich merchant heard of this wonderful machine so he purchased it and put it to work manufacturing salt on board his ship. He did not learn how to stop the machine so it continued to manufacture salt until it loaded the ship and sunk it and is still making salt, so that accounts for the salt sea. So you see the Republican party claims to have come in possession of this wonderful machine and they claim to know how to run it.

WORTHY OF CONFIDENCE.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla is a medicine that, in all parts of the world, has proved its efficacy as the best blood purifier known to medical science.

SARSAPARILLA (extracted from the roots of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla) is its base, and its powers are enhanced by several of the most powerful purgatives of the digestive and assimilatory functions. It is taken by Sarsaparilla or Contagious Disease?

THE STATE, who know the composition of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, say that nothing else so good for the purification of the blood is within the range of pharmacy.

ONLY possible for a person who has corrupted blood to attain sound health and prevent transmission of the destructive taint to posterity.

THOROUGHLY effective renovation of the system must include not only the removal of corruption from the blood, but the curing of the weak and the strengthening of the vital organs.

RELIABLE word, testify that this work is better accomplished by AYER'S Sarsaparilla than by any other remedy.

BLOOD that is corrupted through disordered assimilatory and eliminatory functions is made pure and clean, weakened through diminution of the red corpuscles is made strong, by AYER'S Sarsaparilla.

PURIFYING the blood and building up the system require time in serious cases, but benefit will be derived from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, more speedily than from anything else.

MEDICINE for which the effective results are easily obtained, is situated in the market under many names, but the only preparation that has stood the test of time, and proved worthy of the world's confidence, is
