CORRESPONDENCE

Washington.
From our regular correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19th, 1886.
At last the issue between the President and the Republican Senators has been directly raised, and the Senate's ultimatum is the talk of the day. What does it amount to, and whether will it lead? In reality it amounts to nothing more than the expression of an opinion by a small portion of the Senate.

Some Republican Senators, in caucus, declare that they will confirm no nomination made to fill vacancies created by removals unless the reasons asked for are furnished. This position will probably lead to a temporary dead-lock between the President and Senate in certain test cases. It is not likely, however, to bring on a very serious conflict, though there will doubtless be hot political discussions over the abstract principles involved.

The President will not be coerced into abdication of a vital feature of the Executive prerogative. He may be relied upon to hold his ground. A number of them who were not prepared to take such extreme ground absented themselves from the caucus. There is a widespread opinion that the Republican leaders who are prominent in keeping up the agitation, which grows out of this matter, are doing so for political effect in their own rival interests.

Still, the ultra-Republican members carried the day, for their resolutions were finally adopted as expressing the sense of the caucus, and however much individual Senators may feel that their party has committed a grave error, they are now bound to act in conformity with the caucus decision.

The women are here again in annual convention waiting to vote. They have much speech making, much personal glorification, and much criticism of hard and cruel mankind. About the latter, all they say is meant, and has been said many times before.

It is interesting to look over a sudsence at a woman's rights convention. For, though this is the eighteenth winter that the association has made a rendezvous of Washington, many people will tell you, half apologetically, when you meet them at the deliberations of this body, that they thought they would like to come once, just as a matter of curiosity. There is always a predominance of the feminine element at these meetings, but there is also a fair sprinkling of masculine visage expressive of a consuming desire to know what goes on at such places. The feminine faces express various feelings. Some show sympathy or earnestness, others look bored, others cynical, and many express the sweet silliness of womanhood as they sit receiving information as to the rights and duties of their sex.

Susan B. Anthony presides with a dignity and confidence engendered by her long familiarity with the platform. There is nothing new in what she says nor in her manner of saying it, but she always commands an attentive hearing. She triumphs in what she calls the successes of the woman's rights movement, and expresses earnest faith in its future.

At last evening's session Miss Anthony became enthused with the speeches and asked the audience to vote. "Those who are in favor of woman suffrage say 'aye'" she called, and there was a loud chorus. "Those who are opposed say 'nay'." She turned away as if the question had been settled by a unanimous affirmative vote, when a few men, far back in the audience, daringly piped forth "no," and fled instantly. Miss Anthony looked surprised, as did every one, and some hissed while others smiled.

As to the weeks done in Congress, Fitz John Porter's plea has monopolized the House, and the great Educational bill has had the right of way in the Senate. Mr. Morrison's new Tariff bill was introduced in the House, also number of anti-Chinese measures. Among new measures presented in the Senate was a bill granting a pension of $5,000 a year to the widow of General Hancock, and another appropriating $250,000 for a monument to General Grant. More steps were taken to have a thorough investigation of the Pan Electric affairs, at which the Attorney General expressed his gratification.

Mr. Garland does not intend to resign, but after the House has finished its investigation of the telephone business, he says he will take steps to meet all criticisms upon his connection with the Pan Electric company, in a way that cannot fail to secure the approbation of those who really desire to be satisfied.

Ex-Senator Thurman, who will be the senior counsel in the coming Telephone trial, has had almost as many callers since his return to Washington as if he had come to be inaugurated President. Entering the Senate Chamber a few days ago he expressed surprise at the changes in its personnel. "Is this the place where I spent twelve years of my life," exclaimed he. Surveying the Chamber he missed Blaine, Conkling, Hamlin, Wallace, Anthony, Burnside, Randolph, Matt Carpenter, Ben Hill, Sharon, and thirty-six others who sat with him in the Senate only a few years ago.

Chicken Bristle.

Everybody busy at the Bristle sowing grain, making garden, setting hens, knocking the starspangled banner out of old carpets, and shaking hands with the blooming candidates, as these great and good patriots who, with smiling faces and a kind of a "I-like-to-have-you-stand-in-with-me look in their earnest, pleading eyes, grasp one's hands with a warmth that melts the heart and curbs the tops of our rubber boots.

We passed a very pleasant evening not long since at Mr. Bass Cooper's. We were very highly entertained listening to some splendid music produced on the organ by Miss Celia Pennington, niece of Mr. Cooper's, and his daughter, Miss Allie. Miss Pennington and Miss Allie both have fine voices, which blend together in perfect harmony, making as sweet and pretty music as it has been our good fortune to listen to for a long time.

John South will sow several acres of Herring seed this spring. Last year the crop was a failure. Mr. South yet hopes to make the raising of Herring a success.

The school at the Bristle is progressing nicely, with Prof. James A. Bilyeu as teacher. Mr. Bilyeu ranks with the best teachers in Linn county. All of the patrons of the school here speak in the highest terms of him as a teacher.

A few weeks ago we had the pleasure of visiting at Mr. Wm. Barrows, and while there were shown through his stables of fine trotters. We were shown colts that for fine points, symmetry of form, gracefulness of carriage and beauty of action compare favorably with the best strains of blood in the East. The beautiful horse, Jackson, that took the first premium over seven competitors at the last State fair as the best roaster and all purpose stallion, is a beautiful dark bay, with speed and endurance written all over him. His sire was Pratts Alexander, he by Stratmore, he by Rysdyke Hambletonian, his dam was Flora by Western Chior, he by Pathfinder, dam of Flora Morgan, and Blossenger, dam of Pratts Alexander, was by Comet, he by Black Sultan. Mr. Charles E. Barrows is owner of the horse Jackson.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe says it is only a question of time when women will wield the ballot. The women of Chicken Bristle years ago caught on to the broom and have found it to be a far more powerful weapon to wield than the ballot.

Alvis W. Gaines says he likes America better than any country he has yet visited.

Liberty.

Fine weather for farmers.
Mr. Conrad Mowery, of this place is quite sick with Pneumonia fever.
School is vacant as our teacher became sick and gave it up.
Miss Mellie Grime departed for Halsey one day last week.

Another dance at Mr. Jule Hyde's on 22 inst., lunch was served at midnight, dancing was continued all night, music by H. A. G. orchestra. Late arrivals seems quite frequent in this community, two promising young men (who no doubt had promised) started for the dance, after traveling for some time they halted in front of a portly mansion where they supposed the dance to be; all seemed dark and still; dismounting from his horse one of them stepped to the door, but no response came, (as the household were a mile away at the dance) thinking to reloaded on when everything else failed. Take it in the spring time especially for the impure sections of the blood incident to that season of the year; and take it at all times for Cancer, Scrofula, Liver Complaints, Weakness, Boils, Tumors, Swellings, Skin Diseases, Malaria, and the thousands ills that come from impure blood. To ensure a cheerful disposition take Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup, which will restore the mind to its natural equilibrium.

During the year 1885 there were 3,380,200 dozen eggs imported from Canada into the United States.

"The Mugwumps have a future," exclaimed Rev. James Freeman Clarke. Of course they have, but it can hardly be considered kind or fair to remind them of a fact which it would be a comfort to them to forget entirely if they could—like the candid Arkansian who, being asked if he believed in a hereafter, replied, "Yes, but darned if I want to."

The President has issued a proclamation excluding from settlement all lands within the boundaries of the new national park in Oregon containing Crater Lake. Congressman Herman thinks he has gained much in securing this action of the President. His plan is now to be pushed with renewed energy.

The Most Agreeable.
As well as the most effective method of dispelling headaches, colds and fevers, or cleaning the system is by taking a few doses of the pleasant California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, 50c and $1.00 bottles for sale by Foshay & Mason, Langdon & Co.

Not symptoms, but the Disease.
It would seem to be a truth appreciable by all, and especially by professors of the healing art, that to remove the disease, not to alleviate its symptoms, should be the chief aim of medication. Yet in how many instances do we see this truth admitted in theory, ignored in practice. The reason that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is so successful in so many cases, with which remedies previously tried were inadequate to cure, is attributable to the fact that it is a medicine which reaches and removes the cause of the various maladies to which it is adapted. Indigestion, fever and ague, liver complaint, gout, rheumatism, and other maladies are not palliated merely, but rooted out by it. It goes to the fountain head. It is really, not nominally, a radical remedy, and it endows the system with an amount of vigor which is its best protection against disease.
